Monthly Review P. E. I. Protestant Orphanage

With this publication, we revive the spreading of information monthly concerning the work and aims of the Institution.

We are but the Trustees of the Orphanage, elected by the Owners, the Protestant Public, to conduct the Institution to the best of our ability and it is our desire that that Public be kept fully posted with the progress of the work.

As present and for some months past, the number of children in the Home has been well over forty; of these almost half are under three years old; the nursery has had to be extended and the work of the staff much increased.

The continued good health of all inmates, must be a source of great pleasure to all interested in the Institution and speaks very highly for the efficiency of the employees and the care and supervision of the Medical advisor.

Our policy is to adopt children in to good homes whenever opportunity offers and during the summer months when visitors are most numerous, the work of this committee is considerable.

While this phase of the work is at its busiest during these months

The finances are usually the reverse for donations almost entirely cease, and at present the Bank balance is very small.

These are our most difficult months to "make ends meet" and it is strange that it is so, when there are so many opportunities for communities to do something in even a small social way.

Some sections have availed themselves of this opportunity and the following amounts have been received during the past month:

Ladies Aid Spring Valley ... $ 25.00
Hamilton Dist. per Miss Elma Stewart 7.75
Coll. Public Meeting Searle-town Hall 15.00
Play at the Orphanage 37.10

The Endowment Fund has been lately increased by $1,000.00 from the Estate of the late W. H. Aitken; this as in all other cases will be invested and the interest only used for running expenses.

The collection of pledges and the payment of the remaining debt has also slowed up at this time, perhaps the holiday season could give a good reason. There is still a number who have not paid their pledges and these we are going after, but why wait? Would it not be better to send the amount in as soon as possible?

We wish all could spare the time to visit the Institution and see for themselves the work that is being done.

The grounds are wonderfully improved by the grading, fencing and care of the lawns; vegetables are coming on rapidly in the well-filled garden and the children at play on their grounds completes a very pleasing picture.

It may be thought that these children are much better off than those in private homes but there is a great difference. There are things in life that money cannot buy and the home that has "The Empty Chair" has realized it.

We strive by all human means to substitute something else for this lack in the children and in doing that we ourselves arrive at another one of these great truths nameless and priceless.

No one who has been actively associated with the work can ever completely lay it aside and forget for there is a pulsing pleasure even in remembering.

We invite all to join with us in furthering the interests of these unfortunate children. Payment for your work and worry is not in our hands but your "Reward is Sure."

the record. There might be two serial numbers the same in two different sizes of separators, but it is impossible for two numbers to be the same in the same size of separator; it has never happened.

John MacInnes, who testified that he was a farmer, but in the summer of 1927 was working as sales agent of the De Laval Co. He ordered, in last June three no. twelve separators and one no. sixteen.

Shown the invoices, he identified the serial numbers of the separators. The serial number of the missing no. 12 separator was 2722672 and he identified the separator exhibited as bearing that number.

Cross examined by Mr. Bell, testified that he sold the machines on commission. The separators remained from the 30th of June, to 5th July in the unlocked station. Mr. MacInnes on being asked why he had left them so long replied that he didn't know they were there.

He could not say whether the crated separators would be visible from the Malpeque Road.

Gordon H. MacInnes, a son of John MacInnes, testified that he went to Winsloe station on the fifteenth of July, 1927. He received only three—two no. 12's and one no. 16—where he expected to receive four. He did not remember seeing anything else in the freight room of the station but the three separators. He had looked carefully for the missing separator, but could not find it. It was a no. 12 separator that was missing. He got the separators some time in the afternoon.

They came in boxes—one to each box. The no. 16 has a shade bigger than the no. 12.

Cross examined by Mr. Bell, there is a double door in the freight room of the station. Witness could not state if they were closed or not. He could not see the boxes from the road.

George S. Ryan, deposed that he lived in Charlottetown, and was a conductor on the C. N. R. On June 30th, 1927, he was a conductor on heavy freight train no. 522, from Borden, to Charlottetown. He testified to unloading at Winsloe Station four crated cream separators, and 13 boxes of metal shingles. The car in which the separators left Borden was sealed. Witness gave evidence in some detail as to the unloading and seal numbers of the car. He produced the original bill of lading. The separators were placed in the room, the doors were shut, and the shingles which were assigned to Mr. Coles, were piled outside. He identified the box produced in court as one shipped to the city from Fredericton by the station agent there, in connection with the case.

The witness was cross examined by Mr. Bell.

He did not remember seeing the box before it was shipped from Fredericton, and was not prepared to identify it as one of those unloaded at Winsloe.

James Shaw testified that, as bailiff, he, on December 9th, 1927, was left in charge of the prisoner's goods, when they were seized under an execution. He remained there for ten days.

The prisoner is an unmarried man living alone at Fredericton Station. The prisoner was there when witness was in charge.

Witness noticed separator particularly as the feed can was missing. The accused, when questioned, said that his sister, Mrs. Hayden, had cleaned it, and put the can somewhere. Later, prisoner asked witness how it would be about the separator, as it didn't belong to him but to his sister Myrtle.

He further said that he had a letter from his sister about the matter. The sale took place under the execution Dec. 9th to 19th, and the separator was not sold.

The next witness had to do with the matter was when detective Trenholm came from Charlottetown with a search warrant, and also a warrant for prisoner's arrest. Frank Weeks was there. Witness told accused they were there with a search warrant for the separator, and went to look for it in the pantry. It was gone. The prisoner first said he thought someone had stolen it, next that, as some of his friends had heard there was going to be another seizure, they might have taken it and put it away for safe keeping.

Witness had a box in the cellar. He identified the separator box previously alluded to as the one in question. Upstairs they found a De Laval separator sign, which witness identified also, as the one exhibited.

Questioned about it the accused said it might have been found on the road and it might belong to his sister. They then found the separator on the premises, however, they put prisoner under arrest and sent him to jail in Charlottetown.

Next day witness and Trenholm returned to make a more thorough search. In the course of this, Howard Weeks came and asked what they were looking for. On being told they were searching for a separator he stated that his brother Frank had had it taken to his house. Witness and Trenholm went there and found it.

Trenholm scratched on it with his nail and finally said "It is a De Laval separator." They took it to Charlottetown, to the court of Chief Magistrate Shaw.

Witness identified the separator in exhibit in court as the one that had been seized.

Accused said, with regard to the separators, that a Frenchman from Rocky Point, named Gallant, had left the separator at his door and wanted him to buy. (Weeks had told him he would like to have it, but could not pay for it. So Gallant, but had not been able to do so.)

The cross examination of the witness was conducted by Mr. Mathieson. Witness stated that the separator was listed among the goods in his charge. When they came to the search, neither witness nor Mr. Trenholm, so far as he knew, had further questioning, witness said that he had found the sign, not upstairs as he had stated previously.

Prisoner in telling of the absence of the separator, expressed himself as quite sure that it would turn up. Counsel questioned witness as to what Mr. Trenholm was scratching away with his finger nail. He suggested to witness that it might be solidified cream, or other kind of dirt. Witness was not prepared to make any definite statement. He would not say that an attempt had been made to conceal it.

Witness had heard accused say that he had tried to find Gallant.

Howard Weeks deposed that he lived in Fredericton and was a brother to the prisoner. The sale was the 19th of December, and the accused said he was afraid his creditor, Everett Haslam, would take the separator and sell it. It was his sister Myrtle's. Accordingly witness gave accused permission to bring home the separator and store it in his house. Witness had first seen the separator in the prisoners home in August 1927.

Witness then related the story prisoner had told him of how it came into his possession. He claimed that it had been left by a man giving his name as Gallant, who said he would call for it again. This he told witness when he was sent to jail. The witness then gave evidence similar to that of Mr. Shaw, about his going and telling Mr. Trenholm of Mr. Shaw that the separator was at his home. He went on to describe their visit to his home and the removal of the separator after Mr. Trenholm, having examined the numbers and announced it as the one they were looking for. He stated that Mr. Trenholm had said to Mr. Shaw, "Look, wax," and Mr. Shaw had commented "No, dirt," in reference to the material which obscured the numbers, and which Mr. Trenholm was removing by scraping with his fingernail.

Cross examined by Mr. Mathieson: "Frank brought the separator openly, at 2.30 p. m. to my place," said witness. "He said we might use it. I thought there was danger Everett Haslam might try to sell it, as he had wanted to sell it at the sale. Everyone could see it at Frank's home," said witness, "and there is a post office in my home so many people could see it there also." Witness gave his opinion that the substance filling the numbers was not wax, but solidified cream.

He next saw Frank on Feb. 7th the day before the trial was to come off before the Magistrate. He did so because he wanted him to ask the accused how he got the separator. He said he knew nothing of its theft at Winsloe and that he had got it from Gallant as previously described. There was a man, Pope Abbott, who was in the yard at the time Gallant called on the accused. Witness had intended to ask him about the matter, but when he went to see him he found that he had taken a paralytic stroke and had died at the point of death. He died the next day. Witness asked Frank why he didn't tell the officers where the separator was. The accused replied that he did not want to get the witness into trouble.

Asked if he had ever seen Gallant, witness replied that he had seen a man answering to the description of Gallant go past three times in one week.

Re-examined by Mr. Saunders, who questioned him with regard to the description of Mr. Gallant given by accused, witness said he was a tall, dark man about fifty years of age with a black mustache. He had a Ford runabout, and when he came to the residence of the prisoner he had a couple of boards sticking out behind his car, and the separator was on these planks under a black oilcloth. Witness told of having seen a man of this description passing at three times in one week. There was a car with him—a smaller man.

Lila Weeks, wife of Howard Weeks, testified that she had never seen the separator until it had been taken over to their place. Her evidence corroborated that of the previous witness. She stated that Frank's sister Myrtle was married and now lived in Boston, where she had resided for the last two years.

The cross examination of the witness was conducted by Mr. Bell. It was brought out that Myrtle's husband, Frank's brother-in-law, had a farm in Kingston, and when he left for Boston he had stored some furniture with Frank.

Henry Coles deposed that he lived in Winsloe. He did not know the prisoner. He was at Winsloe Station on Saturday, July 2nd, 1927, where he got a consignment of metal shingles. He stated that while there he saw three boxes containing cream separators.

He was positive that there were not four.

Cross examined by Mr. Bell, witness gave it as his opinion that he could not see boxes or crates in the open door of the station from the road.

Thomas T. Trenholm deposed that he was a special agent of the C. N. R. employed on investigations. He got information on the latter part of January last and got a search warrant, as a result of which Constable Shaw and he went to Fredericton. They saw the prisoner at the station, and informed him that they held a warrant to search his premises. He accompanied them to his place, and after opening the door, Constable Shaw executed the warrant. After they had searched for a while, he told them the separator was not there. From this point on, the testimony of the witness was very similar to that of Constable Shaw, except as noted. He identified, and described the finding of the box and sign. The box he marked with his initials "T. T."

He told of examining the separator in the house of Harry Weeks, to find the serial number. He used a powerful glass to find the numbers and finally located the numbers. They were filled up with some sort of composition which effectively concealed them. It might have been cream, but witness was of the opinion it was some composition used to conceal them.

The Court: Is the number anywhere else on the machine?

Witness: Yes, Your Lordship, it is on the bowl as well.

He went on to explain that the bowl was one of the parts which was missing when Constable Shaw first saw the separator.

Cross examined by R. Bell, witness said he heard that accused had a separator, but not that he had separator No. 2722672. Nevertheless, he had laid the information. He had heard that Weeks could not account for the separator in his possession.

Under questioning by Counsel, witness gave it as his opinion that the numbers were "cleverly filled."

Asked whether he had taken legal advice before he laid the information, witness replied in the negative. After laying the information he had employed a lawyer, Mr. Johnston.

A deposition in absentia from John E. Pound was next read. I was to the effect that he had assisted the accused Frank Weeks in conveying the separator on a sleigh from the house of the prisoner to that of Harry Weeks.

This closed the case for the Crown. The court was adjourned till 10.30 a. m. today.
