THEFT AT BORDEN.—A young man belonging to Borden is said to have taken from the station house two cheques worth about $100, and that he endorsed the owners name on the back of each. The Guardian is informed he cashed the same at Lord's Co's store, Cape Traverse. On Friday last he was conveyed to S.S. side by auto and taken before Mr. Downing J. P. Whenever evidence was adduced the young man returned home the same day to the bosom of his parents. It is expected the Grand Jury will look further into this matter. The public are indignant over what is evidently a miscarriage of justice.

Dear Sirs.—Just a few lines in favor of your LINIMENT. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT for anything, as it will relieve almost anything. When I go hunting I always take a bottle in my pocket. It is the best for Cold in the Head I ever used; and for Cold in the Chest, and every other part of a person, and for Sore Throat it has no equal. TAD COON PLAYS A TRICK ON GRANDPOP.

"Ow, ow, ow!" wailed Tad Coon. He was way up the bank in the Pickery Things. And he had the tip of his tail in his mouth, so you could hardly make out what he was saying. "Ow, ow, my tail's bitten right off!"

"Do you think he's badly hurt?" asked Nibble anxiously. For you see Dr. Muskrat had been shying mussel shells at Grandpop Snapping Turtle to make him come up and scare Tad Coon. He wanted to pay Tad back for splashing water all over Nibble Rabbit. And he certainly did. Tad's eyes were bulging so wide that they showed white all round them when he went bouncing off the flat stony where he'd pretended to be fishing. And the doctor and Nibble had a mighty good laugh over his plight. But if Tad were really, truly hurt it wouldn't seem so funny. They liked him.

"Let's go and see," said the doctor, and he scuffled up the bank as fast as he could travel. "Did that turtle really bite you?" he asked. "Let me see so I'll know what kind of a remedy to go after."

So Tad took his tail out of his mouth and showed it to the doctor. He wouldn't look at it himself for fear there would be blood on it. Tad's very timid that way. And Dr. Muskrat examined it carefully. At last he said: "Why, Tad Coon, there's nothing the wrong with this tail."

"Isn't there?" asked Tad in a relieved voice. "It felt as if there was. It truly did." So he took back his tail and combed the hair out and examined it most carefully with his little handy paws, but all he could find was a tiny weeny bare spot at the very tip where Grandpop Snapping Turtle had pulled the hair out. "That's good," he smiled with a satisfied air. He wasn't the least bit ashamed of having made such a fuss about nothing.

He wasn't even thinking about it. Pretty soon he burst right out laughing. "Ho, ho! That old turtle's got tickle coon hairs in his mouth. I hope they set him choking." Then he cocked his head on one side and the most mischievous sparkle came into his dark brown eyes which peer out from a band of dark brown fur that lies across his nose like a pair of goggles. "I'll get even with him," he chuckled. "I'll find his nest when his wife comes out to lay her eggs on the beach and I'll eat every last one of them."

"That won't be till June," answered Dr. Muskrat. "You'd better find something else in the mean time. I know where there are some marshmallow roots and we'll all share them."

"That sounds fine," Tad agreed. "Just wait a minute."

"What do you s'pose he's up to now?" asked Nibble curiously. But he knew in just a moment. Tad found himself a nice big rock. And he shoved and pushed and tugged and grunted until he worked it out on the edge of the flat stone and sent it kerchug on top of Grandpop Snapping Turtle.

More Disturbances Occur In Germany

(Dom. Press Special.)

BERLIN, June 1.—Speakers at the meeting of Mecklenburg were attacked and seriously injured by mobs, according to reports received here. The active campaigners are becoming more and more disorderly, with disturbances reported from many sections. It was rumored here today that several land owners fleeing to Berlin after farm hands had successfully carried out plots to seize their estates and divide them among the workers.

MEXICAN BANDIT CHIEFTAIN WHO HAS NOT MADE PEACE WITH THE NEW GOVERNMENT

Francisco Villa.

Francisco Villa, variously described as revolutionist, patriot and bandit, declares he is still a factor in Mexican affairs, as ready and willing to take the field against the new revolutionary forces as he was against Carranza. He is opposed to General Alvaro Obregon, candidate for the presidency of Mexico. Villa has refused to make public the guarantees he demanded from the new government further than that politicians must be kept from ruling Mexico. This photograph made on May 10, is the first of Villa received in this country since General Pershing went into Mexico following the Columbus raid. Villa is fat and has not the lighthness and suppleness of his heyday a few years back.

Notice to Advertisers

The co-operation of advertising patrons is requested in the direction of getting "copy" into the business office before twelve noon on the day previous to publication. (Saturday 10 a.m.) Very often the receipt of a large advertisement or even regular changes after that hour serves to dislocate the regular work of getting the paper made up in time to catch the mails—and not infrequently such ads are at the last moment left out. This situation is not of service to either the advertiser or our readers; so, we, therefore, request that copy be received in the business office.
