Foreign Exchange Control Regulations in Brief
1. In no case is it legal for a Canadian resident to pay out U.S. currency to anyone in exchange for Canadian currency.
2. In no case is it legal for a Canadian resident to pay out U.S. currency in change to another Canadian resident even though the latter has tendered U.S. currency in payment for a purchase.
3. No Canadian resident is permitted to retain in his possession U.S. currency in excess of $10.00, but is required to turn in such funds to his bank for conversion into Canadian funds.
4. Merchants or others catering to the tourist trade may pay U.S. currency to non-resident tourists in change if U.S. currency is tendered for a purchase, and may retain in their possession a necessary amount of U.S. currency for this purpose.

United States Currency Must Be Turned Into The Banks
Why? Because U.S. dollars spent by tourists are needed to pay for the many imported goods and services essential to keep Canadian industry at a high level of production and employment.
To ensure that U.S. dollars are made available for this purpose, the Foreign Exchange Control regulations require that merchants, hotel-keepers, service stations, and all others turn in whatever United States currency they receive to their banks.
In his own interests as well as in those of Canada, it is the obligation of every Canadian to comply with the regulations which are necessary for the orderly and proper use of our foreign exchange resources.
IF YOU REQUIRE U.S. FUNDS, APPLICATION CAN BE MADE AT YOUR BANK
