

DR. J. T. JENKINS WRITES.

MR. BORDEN SPEAKS ON CANADA'S TRADE ROUTES.

Sir—I did not wade through the long speech of Sir Wilfrid as reported in The Patriot, but one paragraph caught my eye. It is headed "Canada's Prosperity" and I will say that never read in so small a space, exhibiting alike ignorance and folly—ignorance patent to all who study the conditions of our Province and who know that the absence of manufactures, due to the failure of the Government to give us, as promised, "continuous communication connecting us with the railway system of the mainland," is the cause. Without this, manufactures are impossible and wanting this population cannot increase. If we had constant access to a market there is no part of Canada where manufacturing could be carried on more successfully than in this Island. Here is the cause of the migration of our young people, who are now unable to procure employment, and the cause of the stagnation of our population.

The folly lies in pointing out to the audience the neglect of his Government to give us better transportation and his own failure to fulfill his promise that the "Tunnel should be built if it was practicable and could be built for a reasonable sum." Both these questions are answered by the offer of an eminent contractor to build the Tunnel for $10,000,000. The interest on this amount and the sinking fund to pay off the principal could be had by taking a tithe of the amount annually gorged by his rapacious adherents.

Out of his own mouth he condemns his neglect of our interests for fifteen years, and now he promises that "it would be our endeavor to so administer the affairs of this country that every child born in this Province would remain in it to get the benefits of his toil and to make it prosperous and happy." Why was this "endeavor" left to this late date? That is the merest twaddle, a promise made after fifteen years of forgetfulness, made when his career is about ended and his Government in the throes of dissolution—probably the only promise he will be unable to break.

ST. JOHN, Sept. 6.—R. L. Borden was welcomed to St. John last night by a torchlight procession and escorted to the Queen's Rink, where in spite of a weakened voice he delivered a stirring address on the Reciprocity Agreement, dealing extensively with its probable effect on the Canadian trade routes.

BREECHES BUOY GETS 7 ASHORE

SHINNECOCK LIFE SAVING STATION, I. Sept. 5.—The breeches buoy manned by the Shinnecock life savers rescued seven persons today when the four-masted schooner Carrie A. Lane ran ashore about a mile east of the life saving station.

Two young women, the captain's daughters, were brought to land immediately after the lines were rigged. Five men were also landed. The captain, the cook and one seaman, the other three persons on the vessel, decided to stick by the boat during the night. The captain is ill with fever and it was feared that serious results might follow an attempt to remove him.

BGW DEEP IN SAND.

The schooner was bound from Passacoula, Miss., for Boston, with a cargo of yellow pine trees. Just before dawn, in a moderately heavy sea she drove head on into the sand and brought up about 300 yards from the shore. The Captain, C. N. Stratton, was ill in his bunk at the time, and the steersman says he lost his reckoning. The schooner is making no water; but owing to the fact that she ran aground at high tide and pushed her bow deep into the sand there may be trouble getting her afloat.

With Captain Stratton were his two daughters, both grown, who were making the trip from their home at Passacoula. After the life savers had rigged their lines and sent one man over in the breeches buoy to make sure that it was safe, the young women were taken shore. They were cared for at the home of A. C. Tenny, captain of the life guards.

None of those on board seemed any the worse for the experience. The derelict destroyer Seneca and a wrecking tug steamed out this afternoon to the schooner's assistance. The Carrie A. Lane was built at Sag Harbor, L. I.

MYSTERY IN DEATH IN BARN

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—William F. Cunningham, manager of a contracting business, received injuries which resulted in his death yesterday in a barn at the rear of his house at 54 Ellery street, Cambridge, Benjamin A. Young, one of his two companions during the afternoon in the barn, where Young says they had been drinking, is detained in Cambridge Relief Hospital pending an investigation.

MAN IS DETAINED.

Although neither the medical examiner nor the police advance any theory connecting Cunningham's death and Young's condition, yet Young is being detained at the Cambridge Relief Hospital pending the investigation this morning.

At 1:10 yesterday afternoon Cunningham, who was 41 years old, single, answered a call at the front door of the house at 54 Ellery street, in which he lived with his sister, Mrs. Margaret E. White, proprietress of the contracting business of which she is manager.

Supper time came and still Cunningham failed to come in.

Mrs. White, to get her brother to supper, went out to the barn, which is about 250 feet in the rear of the house.

She entered the rather dark floor space of the barn—and stumbled across a body.

Scared, she stooped and saw that the body was that of her brother, the head battered in and the face covered with blood. It was lying at the foot of a 15 or 20 foot latter leading to the haymow.
