Two Scottish farmers visited a town during a big cattle sale, and as the hotel where they stayed the night was crowded, they were put in the same room. They tossed and turned for some time, but at last both began to snore.

Suddenly Sandy raised his head, and said, "Jack?" "What?" replied Jack. "What time is it?" "Five o'clock," said Sandy. "Am I sleepin' now?" said Jack.

WEDDING BELLS.

On Wednesday evening, January 5th, at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKinnon, North River was the scene of a pretty event when their daughter, Sarah Lillian was united in marriage to Mr. John Reginald Moreside, North River. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. M. Aitken, pastor of the United Church of Canada, Cornwall, under an arch of white streamers, trimmed with evergreen and cut flowers. The bride looked very winsome as she entered the room, leaning on the arm of her father, dressed in white georgette, with silver and satin trimmings, wearing the conventional veil caught with orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of white carnations and ferns. The wedding march was played by Miss Mildred Varcoe, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony a sumptuous supper was served, various gifts and a telegram of congratulation was received from the bride's sister, Miss Priscilla, nurse in training at the N. E. Baptist Hospital, Boston, Mass. Later at the evening a large number of serenaders gathered to extend their congratulations to the young couple. The gifts were numerous and consisted of linen, silver, cut glass and a number of substantial cheques. On Wednesday evening previous to her marriage the bride was given a miscellaneous shower at her home by a large number of friends from the surrounding community. Many useful gifts were received. the opportune time to put on record our rightful claim, as a partner of Canada, to participate in these tremendous expenditures, which are used for the very purpose of supplying the hotel service that attracts the class of tourist to whom money does not count, provided they obtain what they are seeking.

What would be the result if the Canadian National Railways were persuaded to erect a modern summer hotel in this Province? It would assure us of our transportation being brought much more quickly up to standard. It would mean the advertising of this Garden Province all over the continent in such a manner as never attempted before, and thus attract attention to our Island industries in general. It would mean that our improved transportation would make travelling to and from this Province in winter, as certain as sure as humanly possible to make it, so that there would be no hesitation about winter travel as in the past, which accounts for our local hotels being more or less starved for trade during the winter months. It would mean that our winter sports could be capitalized for winter sports much more so than in other parts of Canada. It would mean at least one thousand tourists coming to our Island for every one hundred that come now. It would mean that our present local hotels in Charlottetown and throughout the Province would have to enlarge, and where fifty employees are required today, hundreds would be required there. It would mean that many wealthy tourists would be so enraptured with Prince Edward Island that numerous valuable summer houses would be erected, and capital attracted to our Province. It would mean that the miles and miles of the finest surf bathing on the north and south sides of this Island, now going to waste, would see alive with hundreds of automobile tourists demanding more hotels.

There is no part of Canada that has more to offer the tourist trade than Prince Edward Island. It would mean that the miles and miles of the finest surf bathing on the north and south sides of this Island, now going to waste, would see alive with hundreds of automobile tourists demanding more hotels.

Our spring lamb is especially noted for the world's finest seed potatoes, and champion dairy cattle that lead the whole of Canada. With such attractions as the silver fox industry, our scenic beauty and the most bracing climate to be found anywhere, we certainly have all the opportunities at hand to make this Province the ideal Tourist Paradise of the Atlantic.

Instead of injuring any local hotel now in existence, a Canadian National Railway summer hotel would add at least one hundred per cent to the present earning capacity of the local hotels, owing to increased traffic that would be attracted. I have always been ready to give of my services, gratuitously, through the Boards of Trade, or otherwise, when I felt I could be of any possible assistance in promoting the interests of this beautiful Province of wonderful possibilities and I feel sure there is an opportunity here of promoting the tourist traffic, so that it would become in a few years, the biggest asset we have in Prince Edward Island. To continue going along as we have been, and making no effort when opportunity offers to keep pace with the modern requirements of the summer tourist traffic, we might as well scrap the Boards of Trade, Publicity Association and other service organizations, and build a fence around the place.

In conclusion I might say that I am a shareholder in the Charlottetown Hotel Company, and like many other shareholders would gladly welcome an opportunity for this Province to participate equitably with the other sections of Canada in the tourist traffic, which is today the fourth greatest industry in the Dominion. I am Sir, etc. J. O. HYNDMAN, Charlottetown, P. E. I., 21st January, 1927.

The "Sugar-bag" is the English Spring successor to this Winter's "vagabond" hat. It really looks more like the dustbag on a vacuum cleaner, but appears very smart when worn. Trees on The Roadside

(W. L. COTTON)

Judging by remarks on the proposal that rows of ornamental trees shall line the main roads of this Province and so add to its attractiveness, the suggestion is being favorably considered. Some persons seem, however, to think that a thick bush on the road sides causing snowbanks on the roads was proposed. They are mistaken. The proposal is that the roadside shall be cleared of brush and scrub and young trees in maple and birch, elm, beech, and other native ornamental varieties, shall be planted at equal distances—say a hundred feet apart.

At the end of the Great War some persons suggested that rows of such trees should be planted as memorials of those of our men who had given their lives in order that their country might be free. A fitting, living memorial of these men, such trees would be; and the idea might, even now, be to some extent carried out to the great improvement of the country as well as to the perpetuation of the memory of the men who fell in the greatest service that could be rendered to their fellow men and to all those who may come after them.

At any rate, farmers who may co-operate to improve the frontage of their farms, plant trees, and so add to the beauty of their beautiful country, will make no mistake. They will benefit themselves, add to the cash value of their farms and attract tourists who will bring a market to their doors, and leave money in the Province—every year.

A decision to plant trees next spring and to plant in cooperation with neighbor farmers may be arrived at now, and consideration may be given to the kinds of trees to plant and the time to plant them. Some years ago, Messrs R. T. Holman, Ltd. offered to pay $1000 towards the creation of a "Memorial Highway" in the vicinity of Summerside. The idea may yet grow. The proposed "Memorial Highway" may come to pass.

Mrs. (Dr.) Croken gave a very enjoyable Bridge on Wednesday afternoon, a number of guests being invited for the Tea hour. The dining room, looked very attractive with Red and White carnations and tea was poured by Mrs. (Dr.) McGuigan, Mrs. W. D. Gillis cut the ices. Among those assisting were Misses Louise Reddin, Genevieve McGuigan and Louise Lyons.

Mrs. Mark McGuigan was hostess to a very enjoyable Bridge on Wednesday evening.

J. Riley poured tea and Miss Iphigenia Arsenault ushered the guests. Among those assisting were Miss Louise Lyons, Miss Marie Kerwin, Miss Grace Douglas.

Obedience And The Law

(W. L. COTTON)

In this democratic age and country the majority of the electors authorize the enactment of the laws "passed" by their representatives in the Legislature. It is well understood, too, that the minority must bow to the will of the majority to the end that good order and government shall be maintained. To obey the law is the duty of every citizen.

The virtue and value of obedience is evident. John Stewart Mill declared that "all the good of which humanity is capable is comprised in obedience," and Henry Ward stated that "true obedience is true liberty" Emerson pointed out that obedience alone gives the right to command and it was predicted of Haman that he would be a great general "because he best knew how to obey." Obedience is advantageous; and obedience to the law is alike a duty and an obligation by which all citizens are bound. It is essential to the prosperity of the country.

As to the consequences of disobedience to the law little need be said. An awful lesson was administered to the City of Montreal a short time ago. It was also a warning to persons in every other city and in every province and state,—to all who disregard and disobey the law.

Less spectacular, but equally impressive warnings are occasionally supplied by those who disobey the law to abate the liquor evil. Most of the unnatural deaths, the crimes and the poverty that befall this and every other community in this Province are the result of disobedience to that law. If it be the duty of every citizen to obey the law as long as it is the law, it is equally the duty of every official of the law, whether he be judge or Constable to take the action necessary to the maintenance of the law, and to the punishment of those who break it.

It is pleasing to note the statement of Mr. James Faton, chairman of the Prohibition Commission, published by the Guardian showing that the law in that regard is being enforced. It is pleasing to note that the victims of those who break the law—the poor drunkards who appear before the Stipendiary Magistrate are now being cared for and not again to be parties to the breach of the Prohibitory Liquor Law. It is pleasing to note that the stricter enforcement of the law will result in a striking observance of the law which the majority of the people have repeatedly authorized.

It is significant as to the operation of the law that cases of drunkenness tried before the City Court of Charlottetown have been reduced from 176 in 1877 to 127 in 1927. By steady adherence to the law and to the duty of enforcing it, the liquor evil, so rampant in this Province in the past century may be still further reduced. At any rate it is satisfactory to be assured by those in authority that the law has been better enforced in the past three years than in former three years.

That the Liquor Evil can be abolished by the Prohibitors Liquor Law, or any other law, is not likely. Every other liquor law has been broken and is being broken. The weakness of human nature and the gigantic influence of the liquor interests combine to make difficult the enforcement of all liquor laws. But that the Liquor Evil can be considerably abated by the enforcement of law, and the action of good citizens in obedience to the law, is evident in the condition of this city, the towns of the Province and the country districts alike at the end of fifty years.
