Plans For Air Conference Are Made Public

By Frank Flaherty Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, May 13 — (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King and heads of delegations representing other nations will address the first plenary sessions of the United Nations air conference here next Monday.

The opening session will take place in the Senate chamber in the Parliament Buildings and some or all of the speeches will be broadcast on the National Network of The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and probably over American networks.

The actual business of the conference is not expected to get under way until next day. Following the opening session committees on various phases of air training, equipment and operations will be set up.

Sessions of the committees will be closed to the press and the public, since many highly confidential bits of information will pass across the conference tables while senior staff officers and experts in various fields of air warfare compare notes, exchange information and discuss means of collaboration in the planning and execution of projects for the defeat of the enemy.

Air Minister Power, as chief delegate of the nation playing host to the conference, will be chairman and official spokesman for the conference as far as relations with the press are concerned. Whatever information can be given the public on the deliberations will be given by Maj. Power.

While the length of the conference will be determined by the matters which come up for discussion and the progress made in reaching understandings it is not expected to exceed a week.

NEWSMAN WINS FICTION PRIZE TORONTO, May 12 — (CP) — O Herbert Salans, newspaperman, has won the first annual $500 award offered by The Ryerson Press for Canadian fiction with his novel "Little Man." The announcement was made today by C.H. Dickinson, general manager of the publishing house. The book will be published in Canada and the United States Sept. 15.

The contest, open to Canadian writers, closed March 1. The judge, S. Morgan-Powell, Editor-in-Chief of The Montreal Star, Prof. Peigham Edgar of Toronto, and Dr. Lorne Pierce, Editor of The Ryerson Press, were unanimous in picking "Little Man."

Of the story, the announcement says: "Like all newspapermen, Salans has years of writing a novel. When he finally wrote one, it plot naturally grew out of the familiar scenes of his younger years in the West. He was eight years of age when he first saw the prairies, when his father, John Salans, was one of the best-known pioneers at the turn of the century."

Salans has been a writer all his life. At the age of 12 he had his first story published by a Canadian magazine. As a youngster he was correspondent for several prairie-town weeklies, and during his college years worked part time in newspaper offices.

After attending Wesley College in Winnipeg, he enlisted for overseas service in the First Great War and served three years with the Canadian Field Artillery. Since 1919 he has been steadily in newspaper work, going to Vancouver in 1927 after periods in Saskatoon, Hamilton and Windsor.

In Vancouver he joined the Sun under the late R.J. Cromie and in 1930 became managing editor, a post he held for 11 years. Early in 1942 he accepted an appointment in Montreal as general news manager in Canada for the United Press.

Throughout his career he has contributed making and periodicals in Canada and the United States. Lately with the Sun he wrote and broadcast weekly radio war digest.

In making the announcement Mr. Dickinson said "a very large number of manuscripts were received. Honorable mention was accorded 'Appetite for the East Wind' by J.E. Middleton, Toronto; 'Dark Days Ending' by A.M. Stephen, Vancouver; and 'The Stars are Fire' by Mary Quale Innis, Toronto.

Reference To 'Foot-Sloggers' Is Protested OTTAWA, May 15 — (CP) — Air Minister Power, jokingly referred to infantrymen as "foot-sloggers" in the House of Commons today and ran into trouble with army officers of the First Great War.

The minister was describing dietetic difficulties of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and said "you can feed foot-sloggers bully beef and pork and beans," but that the "gentlemen of the R. C. A. F." are really students while they are in training and do not have the arduous activity of infantrymen.

For that reason the food served by the army service corps was too heavy. A corps of eight dietitians had been engaged and the food now would be more satisfactory in the air force.

George Cruickshank (Lib. Fraser Valley), an infantry officer in the First Great War, said he resented the expression used by the minister to describe "the people who eventually will win this war."

He asked the minister if any of those in the women's division of the air force would be used to "replace that other petticoat army in the Jackson building (R. C. A. F. headquarters)."

Maj. Power said the officers at headquarters were doing a good job and he resented the reference to them as a "petticoat army," as they were replacing many of the headquarters personnel, he said.

Lt.-Col. A. J. Brooks (Con. Royal), another First Great War infantry officer, said he would resent the minister's reference but for the fact he knew he had not meant to hurt any feelings.

Wheat Seeding Has Commenced WINNIPEG, Man., May 12 — Wheat seeding is well under way in Western Canada, although in southern Manitoba, particularly in the eastern sections and in the more northerly districts, it is just commencing. Moisture conditions generally are good but central Saskatchewan and southern Alberta report reserve moisture supplies low and the need for more rain will be urgent when wheat seeding is completed. The delay in commencing seeding operations is having a tendency to decrease the acreage sown to wheat in the more backward districts as compared with the previous week's report of the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways.

Southern Manitoba reports show wheat seeding just commencing in the Red Valley and increasing to 50 per cent seeding in western favorable and many farmers have sections. Weather has not been unable to get on the land. In northwestern Manitoba and in northern Saskatchewan seeding has begun and will be general by May 9. Present moisture conditions in practically all northern areas of these two provinces are satisfactory, although reserve moisture in subsoil is reported low.

Southern Saskatchewan reports wheat seeding 40 per cent completed, with moisture conditions good. In central Saskatchewan wheat seeding is well under way. Heavy rains during the last week in April provided ample surface moisture to give crops a good start, but subsoil moisture reserve is generally low. This condition prevails also in southern Alberta and 20 per cent of the coarse grains. The grasshopper situation is being closely watched. Northern Alberta points report wheat seeding well under way, with moisture conditions at present satisfactory. In the Peace River district seeding is general and moisture conditions are satisfactory. Considerable plowing is being done and it is estimated the acreage sown to wheat will be 15 per cent less than last year, while there will be an increase of 20 per cent in the acreage sown to coarse grains.

MAKING GOOD RECOVERY — Mrs. Fulton Sanderson, North River, who has been a patient in Montreal General Hospital and Neurological Institute for the past month is making good progress toward recovery after a spinal operation two weeks ago. Mr. Sanderson accompanied his wife to Montreal, but returned home after the operation. Mrs. Sanderson expects to leave for the island next Tuesday. Her institution friends will welcome her home again.

P.W.C. CLOSING — Prince of Wales College convocation will be held on Friday, May 20, this year and once again the students will return to their homes for a well earned vacation. Some of them will return to continue their studies next autumn, a few will probably leave for colleges on the mainland, and as usual a large number will enter the teaching profession in the province. Since the outbreak of war many students of the college have entered the armed forces and it is expected that many who attended classes this year will be in uniform when they return to school around again. Dr. G.D. Steel, Principal of the College, is once again able to be about his duties following a lengthy illness. He visits the institution daily and plans to deliver his annual address at the closing exercises.
