WELL KNOWN HERE—The death occurred in London, Ont., this week from streptococcus of Mr. Norman R. Laha, who will be kindly remembered by many friends here. Mr. Laha, who was appointed manager of the London Branch of Johnston and Ward only in July went to London five years ago as telegrapher for the Canadian Northern, N. E. He is survived by his widow and two small sons, Charles and Monty. Wilfred H. Lund of St. John is a brother, while Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lund of Sackville are the parents. At the commencement of Mr. Laha's illness physicians were under the impression that he was suffering from typhoid fever, but the patient, not responding to treatment, was removed to the hospital on Monday night. The disease was then definitely diagnosed as streptococcus, a deadly typhoid, the same disease which claimed three lives in Ekfrid Township three months ago. Local physicians and the medical health authorities are conferring regarding the case and the matter will be taken up with the Ontario Provincial authorities.

REASONS
this province are insufficient to enable them to live in comfort and at the same time to meet the obligations of life, or to insure to them financial protection in sickness or old age.
6. The salaries paid to teachers are not commensurate with the important services that they render to the community.
7. The people of Prince Edward Island because of their financial prosperity can afford to grant a material increase in teachers' salaries.
8. The consensus of opinion of people conversant with the question at issue is that the teachers are lamentably underpaid.
9. So long as salaries remain as they are, no hope can be entertained of improvement in education within the province.
The total enrollment in the public schools of the province in 1927 was 17,150. Of these 3,999 were enrolled in grade one, and 740 in grade ten. These figures indicate the large falling off of pupils from the intervening grades, and point to the efficiency and perseverance of those who completed the course of the public schools. Of these 740 pupils enrolled in grade ten only 196 matriculated into Prince of Wales College and of those who entered 111 were successful in securing a second class teachers' license in 1928, and 53 a first class teachers' license in 1929. This process of elimination results in a comparatively small group the large majority of whom enter upon teaching in the public schools of the province. No further comment as to the mental qualities of the young men and women who engage in teaching is necessary.
A general education is a cost to teachers of acquiring an education to qualify them for their work reveals the following facts: Many students who leave the public schools before having completed the full course are not only at an expense for their training, but begin to earn immediately. This period of earning continues during the time the potential teacher is in training, and the wages are steadily increasing, whereas those who aspire to teach are confronted with a steadily increasing expenditure as they advance in their studies. The result is that by the time a young man or woman is qualified to teach some of his classmates, who discontinued their studies in an early grade, are earning more than most teachers may ever hope to earn in the public schools of this province. Illustrations may be given to prove that this statement is true. A conservative estimate of the cost of a high school education grades nine to twelve inclusive is $900.00 and on the salaries which the teachers receive, no hope can be entertained of realizing financially on this outlay.
The average salaries paid to teachers in Prince Edward Island may be classified as follows:
Average of all salaries . . . $ 543.00
Men of the first class . . . 786.00
Men of the second class . . . 530.00
Men of the third class . . . 449.45
Women of the first class . . . 633.18
Women of the second class . . . 492.91
Women of the third class . . . 403.10
These salaries when compared with those received by people in other occupations are so low that a startlingly large number of teachers resign annually and enter upon work which is more remunerative.
Our women teachers are drawn into nursing, stenography, business, etc., by the higher salaries paid in these occupations, and the men are induced to abandon teaching because the future for them in almost all other walks of life offers greater opportunities for advancement and increased remuneration. Nor is this surprising when the following annual salaries are considered:—Nurses $1,200.; stenographers from $500. to $1,200.; women clerks with the larger firms averaging about $700.; railway mechanics and other manual workers earning from $1,000. to $2,500. or more; business employees averaging at least $1,000. In fact no other occupation in Prince Edward Island that offers steady employment, pays such meagre salaries as those paid to the teachers.
The result of this to the teaching profession is indeed disastrous. In 1928 of 815 teachers employed, 347 resigned their positions, 160 of these leaving the profession permanently, and the rest seeking other schools where slightly higher salaries might be obtained. A substantial graduated increase in salaries would cause many of these teachers to continue in the profession for a considerably longer time.
This is desirable as schools would then be at a premium, and the trustees would be enabled to select the best available and most qualified teachers. Only by such an increase would conditions be brought about that would make it possible for the department of education to increase the period of academic and normal training, and so improve the general status of education within the province.
The following figures compiled in 1927 show the length of service of teachers employed during that year:
1 year . . . . . 121
2 " . . . . . 100
3 " . . . . . 97
4 " . . . . . 48
5 " . . . . . 33
6 " . . . . . 33
7 " . . . . . 34
8 " . . . . . 30
9 " . . . . . 18
10 " . . . . . 13
Over 10 years . . . . . 80
The average age of students at the end of the first year in Prince of Wales College is 17 1/2 years; and of students at the end of the second year 18 1/2 years. There are, therefore, more than 120 teachers of approximately 18 years of age, and 100 others about one year older. Of these engaged in teaching within our province about half are not older than 21 years. This condition is brought about by the low salaries paid as there is no inducement for ambitious men or women to continue in a profession which offers no proper remuneration for experience and efficiency. The judgment, knowledge, and vision that come with maturity are essential to effective teaching, and a higher scale of salaries properly graduated that would increase the average length of service by even two or three years would raise the general standard.

The pulp of the Elmsdale United Church has been filled during the last three Sundays by laymen from surrounding districts. On August 4th, Mr. Hughes Eryan of Cacompee took charge. The service was taken the following Sunday by Mr. Russell Leard of Cacompee and the third Sunday by Mr. Irving Ramsay of Rosebank.
The schools of Elmsdale and vicinity re-opened August 18th. Miss Linda Currie is teaching in Elmsdale this year. The monthly meeting of the Elmsdale Women's Institute was held the evening of August 6th, at the home of Mrs. George Adams. Several visitors were present but owing to the busy time the number of members was not quite so large as usual. After roll call Mrs. Flora Baldwin gave a brief report of the Institute Convention held in Charlottetown, at which she was a delegate. The meeting was then open for the discussion of business matters. It was decided to purchase a clock and a fan for the school and a committee consisting of Mrs. Hugh Williams, Mrs. Bruce Currie and Mrs. George Adams was appointed to superintend the purchase and erection of a flag pole on the school grounds. The meeting closed by the repetition of the Creed. After the close of the meeting a delightful lunch was served and victrola music was enjoyed by all. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Mac Kenna.—E.

PRESENT DICKENS PAGEANT
LONDON, Eng. Aug. 14—A Dickens Festival Week was held at Southsea recently when 400 performers, almost all of whom were teachers in the Portsmouth Schools, presented a Dickens pageant in the grounds of Cumberland House, and simultaneously there was a performance in the pavilion of the South Parade Pier of Nicholas Nickleby. The Portsmouth Teachers Dramatic Society was responsible for the capable presentation of Nicholas Nickleby, which was chosen for the production because of the close association of the story with Portsmouth, to which Dickens paid a special visit before writing the novel. The play is based on an adaptation of the Dickens Fellowship of Toronto.
In the Pageant the novelist, Charles Dickens, was seen seated at his desk. He turned the pages of the book of his mind, and there came to him the creatures of his imagination—Little Nell and Scrooge, Charles Darnay and Tupman, Jingle and Hesp Little, Mrs. Prologue, over six episodes, Emily and Sam Weller and Crummey were staged each in several scenes. First the leading characters in the "Pickwick Papers" re-enacted their adventures. Then were presented in brief scenes from "Oliver Twist," "The Old Curiosity Shop," "David Copperfield," "A Tale of Two Cities" and "A Christmas Carol." It was all well done. Dickens himself was the outstanding character, and he was played with remarkable fidelity by Charles W. Wing, a former president of the National Union of Teachers who is a Portsmouth schoolmaster.
