ces in Palestine and Syria acting in the name of the commander of the Middle East for the first part; And Gen. De Verdilhac, Legion of Honor, assistant to the commander in chief of the troops of the Levant, acting in the name of the French high command for the second part, have reached an agreement bringing about the end of hostilities in Syria and Lebanon of which the hostilities stopped July 11, 1941, at 9:01 p. m. G.M.T.

The Allied forces will occupy the Syrian and Lebanon territories. The French forces will be concentrated in certain zones fixed by the committee composed of representatives of the two parties. This concentration should be achieved by Tuesday, July 15, 1941, at the noon hour at which the allied forces will move toward the occupation of certain strategic points.

Until their repatriation the French troops will remain with reduced officer personnel under the French command which will supply after their supply and with that purpose keep the existing quarter-master stocks. Special dispositions are foreseen for the Jebel Ed Druz where for reasons of security French troops will stay in their garrisons until relieved by British troops.

3. In order to ensure the public security, the occupation of the principal Syrian and Lebanese localities will be carried out according to a program which will permit the immediate replacement of the French forces by the occupying forces.

4. Sea and land mine fields will be disclosed to the occupying authorities.

5. All the honors of war will be rendered the French forces. These will withdraw to the concentration zones which have been designated with all arms including cannons, machine guns, tanks, automatic rifles and all their ammunition. All necessary measures will be taken by the French command to avoid arms and munitions being left abandoned on the field of battle wherever they are. The French military authorities to give all necessary assistance towards retrieving arms which may be found in the hands of the population.

Honors Of War

6. In consideration of the honors of war accorded to the French forces, officers and French soldiers are authorized to keep their individual arms (rifles or carbines, revolvers, bayonets, swords or sabres). Soldiers are to keep no munitions. In each unit for security reasons a reduced amount of munitions are to be left. The police will keep its arms and a reduced quantity of munitions. All other war material, including guns of the coastal batteries and anti-aircraft batteries as well as military vehicles are to be stocked under control of the British authorities. These will proceed with inspection of the material and will have the right to take over material which is necessary for them. The rest is to be destroyed by the French authorities under the control of the British authorities.

7. Prisoners of the allied forces are to be immediately freed, including those who have been transferred to France. As far as the latter are concerned the British authorities reserve the right to hold in captivity an equal number of French officers as far as possible of the same grade until the prisoners transferred to France have been liberated.

8. The alternative of joining the Allied cause or being repatriated is to be left to the free choice of each individual, civilian as well as military. Civilians who do not join the Allied cause may on their demand be permitted by the British authorities to remain in the Levant.

9. Administrative officials and officials of the technical services and officers of special services are to remain in office a necessary amount of time to assure continuity of the administration of the country until they are able to be replaced. They then are to be repatriated if they express the repatriable attitude or insufficient service.

10. British authorities agree that the repatriation of French troops is to be carried out by French sea transports provided this repatriation concerns only persons who apply for repatriation. British authorities have the right to control repatriation operations.

Revived interest In Cadet training

OTTAWA, July 15 — (CP) — A revival of interest in cadet training courses at schools across Canada is anticipated by National Defence Headquarters for the coming school term.

"All the signs indicate that youngsters in public and high schools in Canada want to learn all they can about army life," an official in the defence department's directorate of military training said.

For this reason, we've remodelled our cadet instructor courses with just this idea in mind, and we look for a great revival of interest in the cadet movement during the fall and winter school terms.

A generalized syllabus pointing to increased emphasis on fieldcraft, woodcraft, map-reading, signalling and first aid was prepared by the Defence Department for use of the three cadet instructor camps now in operation in Canada.

Thirty potential instructors chosen by district cadet officers attend the four-week courses. The great majority of them, it was learned at the Defence Department, are public or high school teachers taking advantage of the summer vacation to attend.

Each instructor receives pay of a reserve army lieutenant. The three camps now in operation are located at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., Farnham, Que., and Sarcee Camp near Calgary.

some 20 miles to Zlobin. The re- capture of both towns from the Nazi invaders had been announced on Sunday.

Reported heavy fighting in the "northwest and west directions", the first referring to the northern theatre before Leningrad and the latter to the central point. It declared that elsewhere "there was no major operation, and no particular changes in the positions of troops on the front occurred."

Without specifying the area of action, the communique claimed that one German infantry regiment, one artillery regiment and a battalion had been utterly smashed in a Soviet counter-attack of infantrymen operating behind Red tanks.

"The enemy was routed and completely demoralized," it was added.

Captured, it was said, were 56 guns, 80 seven-ton trucks with ammunition and equipment, 600 carts, 1,000 horses, a number of small tanks, and a supply of machine-guns, rifles, and other ammunition.

La Guardia Reveals Hitler's Peace Proposal

Warns Nazi Leader Seeks To Dupe Well-meaning People In America.

NEW YORK, July 14 — (AP) — Mayor La Guardia declared today that Hitler "through his agents, is seeking to exploit the well-meaning people of this country as tools, to get across what is known as the Hitler peace proposal."

Speaking to a visiting Latin American educators, the Mayor said that a few days ago in Washington "a representative of the German government disclosed the proposals to representatives of a peace movement in this country, with instruction to try them out and prepare the foundation of their acceptance."

"In keeping with this plan," the Mayor added, "statements have been made during the last few days in Italy and France—both countries under domination of the Nazi government—of the blood ties with Central and South America."

La Guardia said this "was a forerunner of the so-called Hitler peace proposal to take in people in this country and so far as possible, in Central and South America."

"I know that this scheme of Hitler will be readily understood in your countries as in mine," the Mayor added.

La Guardia said the plan would have "several sugar coatings," would call, as a provision which may or may not be disclosed, for a union of all European countries.

According to his information, he continued, the plan would permit various European countries to use their own languages, but would serve economic control to German supervision and would place all European foreign affairs and relations under German domination.

War—25 Years Ago Today

(By The Canadian Press)

JULY 16, 1916—General Nivelle launched a French counter-attack at Verdun along the Meuse; made progress near Fleury and Thiaumont. Rome announced heavy fighting in the Posina sector. Russian took 15,000 prisoners on Volhynian front.

TILLIE THE TOILER — WATER SPORT!

Ganong's CHOCOLATES

The agreement, which has been signed and the text of which has been published, cannot fail to exercise a highly beneficial and potent influence on the future of the war. It is the first time since the Russian people are now our allies. General Smuts has made a comment which, as it entirely represents the views of His Majesty's Government, I should like to repeat now.

"No one," said General Smuts, "so long as we are in a struggle with Communists and are fighting in the name of democracy, should be in his insane megalomania driving us to fight him in self defence. We bless his arms and wish him all success, without for a moment identifying ourselves with his Communist creed. Hitler has made her his enemy and not us friendly to her creed."

The Foreign Secretary in these busy days has also been instrumental in bringing about a very great measure of agreement between the Russian Soviet state and the Polish government. These negotiations have not yet reached a conclusion but we are hopeful that, aided by the statesmanship of General Sikorski, another important step will soon be taken in the reconciliation of the peoples of the world against the criminals who have darkened its life and menaced its future.

The good news from Syria is that a military convention has been signed in cordial spirit on both sides. The convention is a measure of fratricidal strife between Frenchmen and Frenchmen and between Frenchmen and British, Australian and German troops. It is a measure which will defend the soil of France.

The fact our relations with the Vichy government have not worsened during these weeks of distressing fighting is a proof of the deep comprehension of the French people of the issues at stake in the world—a man-made war which same spirit which leads them to wave encouragement to our country.

We see no British advantage in Syria. Our only object has been to beat the Germans and to help to the aid of forces of Gen. de Gaulle. We have been able to bring to the people of Syria and the Lebanon the restoration of their sovereignty and the liberation of their country from the thralldom exercised by the German armistice commission and from the dangerous German infiltration which were in progress.

The historic interests of France in Syria and the primacy of those interests have been preserved without prejudice to the rights and sovereignty of the Syrian races.

The historic interests of Syria in the Levant are being preserved by the Syrian campaign reflects credit upon all responsible—upon General Wavell who was able to spare the journey and the march to Iraq and afterwards to act in Syria.

Actual conduct of the campaign was in the hands of General Wilson, who extricated our forces from the very great dangers by which they were encompassed in Crete. I hope it will soon be possible to give fuller accounts to the public of what they have yet received of the Syrian fighting, marked as it was by so many picturesque incidents such as the arrival of the file guards, Royal Horse Guards and Essex Yeomanry in armored cars across many hundreds of miles of desert to surround and capture the oasis of Palmyra.

We are entitled to say that the situation in the Nile valley has, for the time being at any rate, been considerably improved. If any one had predicted two months ago, when Iraq was in revolt and when Syria and Iraq were to be overtaken by German "tourists," that we should by the middle of July have cleaned up the whole of the Levant and have re-established our authority there for the time being such a prospect would have been considered most imprudent.

I have given directions that all legations of any serious substance should be sent to the departments concerned in order that they may be examined. I propose shortly to have a debate on these matters in public session and will myself endeavor to make a full and comprehensive statement on the whole question in so far as the public interest permits in public session. I hope by this means to remove any mistaken impression which might be doing us harm in any part of the world.

Towards the end of last week it became possible to make a solemn agreement between the British and Russian peoples and of the French dominions of the Crown for united action against the common foe. Both the British and Russian governments have agreed to continue the war against Hitlerite Germany to the utmost of their strength, to help each other as much as possible in every way, and

Alberton mourns Death of well Known resident

There passed away yesterday morning at his home in Alberton after short illness Mr. John J. McQuaid, for 15 years station agent at Alberton. Mr. McQuaid was a native of Bedford, P. E. I., and was 67 years of age. He was due to retire in September.

Mr. McQuaid began his career in the C. N. R., as station agent at Bear River, about 40 years ago. After serving there for a few years he went to Miscouche where he remained for about ten years. From Miscouche he went to O'Leary for a short period.

Since going to Alberton Mr. McQuaid had made many friends and interested himself in all matters pertaining to the betterment of the community. He was prominent in the labour organizations of the railway and was a member of the Roman Catholic Church and a devoted husband and father and will be sorely missed in the home and also in the community. He was most obliging in his contact with his fellow associates on the railway.

He leaves to mourn his widow, formerly Adelaide McNally of Bear River, and the following children: Mary, Lucille, Gerald at home, Marion and Laura in Toronto, also Francis, Alfred, Mark, Max, Gary and James, also at home and one sister, Mrs. Alban Gaudet of Miscouche and one brother Peter at Bedford.—S

ICKES charges Lindbergh is Hitler's Ally

NEW YORK, July 14 — (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes asserted tonight that Charles A. Lindbergh's "passionate words are to encourage Hitler and to break down the will of his own fellow citizens to resist Hitler and Nazism."

The cabinet member, addressing a Bastille Day rally of "France forever," an American organization of Free French, asserted that the United States people were determined to defeat Hitler at all costs and that their government was under a mandate to help bring about this defeat.

A study of Hitler's methods of internal disorganization and demoralization of other nations, said Ickes, "helps one to understand ex-Colonel Lindbergh's."

"It makes one realize," he went on, "what a menace he and those like him are to this country and its free institutions, whether they know what they are doing or whether they don't."

The internal disintegration of France and her resultant collapse should teach the United States a frightening lesson, Ickes said.

Referring to Lindbergh as "the Knight of the German Eagle," Ickes criticized the flier's attitude toward the Nazi invasion of Soviet Russia.

Immediately after the invasion, Ickes said, Lindbergh made caustic statements because "it was clear that Lindbergh did not have his cue—he did not want to say the wrong thing."

Then, after the German government handed out propaganda to "Hitler mouthpieces and Nazi fellow-travellers all over the world," Ickes said, Lindbergh arose and offered the Nazi party line to Americans.

La Guardia asserted Hitler planned by these measures to control world trade.

"Hitler would attempt to force upon Central and South American countries an exchange of second grade manufactured goods for your war materials," the Mayor told the visitors. "He would then be able to negotiate all treaties between our countries and the sovereign countries of Europe."

"He would then be able to control the entire world trade, including the materials he needs so much from your countries."

La Guardia said that under the plan Germany would first send to Latin America, commercial missions, second, financial missions, and third, military missions to gain control in keeping with his control over Europe."

The Mayor said that he knew that thinking people would refuse to "put control of the world into the hands of an irresponsible fanatic."
