RELIGIOUS SERVICES
 THE BAPTIST CHURCH

During the month of May Dr. Vincent has been giving a series of sermons on some of the outstanding personalities of the Baptist Church. William Carey, the father of modern missions; John Bunyan, the immortal dreamer; John Clifford, fighter for freedom, Sunday morning Dr. Vincent, in view of the centenary of the birth of Charles Haddon Spurgeon, spoke on this great Prince of preachers. Taking as his text Isaiah 52:7, "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace," Dr. Vincent described the life work of this man, who throughout his ministry was a bringer of good tidings.

Born in 1894, a child of the parsonage, father and grandfather both ministers of the Congregational church, young Spurgeon had a deeply religious tradition and training. Converted at a little gathering in a Primitive Methodist chapel, where the pastor of the day spoke on "Look upon the mountains of the earth and be ye saved," Spurgeon early began his life work. As a boy he was minister of the Baptist Church at Waterbeach. Called at 19 to be a minister of the Congregational Church at London, he remained there until his death in 1892.

For many years he spoke Sunday after Sunday to the largest congregation in London. Not long after his entrance on the Park Street pastorate it became imperative to build a new church adequate for the congregations. So came into being the Metropolitan Tabernacle. In his lifetime he spoke to over ten millions of people. During his ministry he was the means of the conversion of over twelve thousand people. Millions have read and still read his printed sermons and addresses, available in 23 different languages.

In searching for the hidings of this man's power, perhaps one finds it in his utter conviction, his burning loyalty to Jesus and in his central message of the Cross. Perhaps the fact that this Prince of preachers lived in simple surroundings, in a Saxon English, the English of the King James Bible and of John Bunyan may have been another contributing factor. Great preacher, great man, his influence, great philanthropist, mightier servant of God, seldom has any nation or time seen his peer.

At the evening service Dr. Vincent spoke to a large congregation on a social problem. The music of the day was under the direction of Mrs. G. Elliott Full.

BANK REVIEW NOTES UPTREND CONTINUING

TORONTO, May 28.—The Bank of Nova Scotia in its monthly review issued tonight notes continued upturns in manufacturing, lumbering, newsprint and mining industries. At the same time it estimates a shortage in building of residences amounting to about $150,000,000.

The review says manufacturers of wood products and producers of base metals have made the greatest contribution to the recovery movement in Canada. It notes "decidedly favorable" developments in the newsprint industry despite a still unsettled condition and a sharp improvement in the lumber trade, particularly on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, largely in response to strong demand from the United Kingdom.

It regards improvement in the automobile industry as one of the "most striking developments" in the manufacturing field and says that production during the first quarter of this year reached the highest point of any first quarter since 1931. It estimates exports of automobiles during the first three months of the year at 10,403, an increase of 300 percent compared with figures for the first quarter of 1933, and domestic sales of cars at a figure 30 percent greater than in the first three months of last year. It notes reflected improvement in the iron and steel industries. Activity in textile and boot and shoe production, it says, continued favorable.

The review says a shortage in residences developed during the depression amounting to more than $50,000,000 owing to suspension of building during that period. It based the calculation of the average annual amount of residential building from 1920 to 1930.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clow: Dear Friends,—We learn that you are leaving us and indeed it would hardly be fitting to not say at least farewell to you. During the time that you have resided on the Colville Road we have found you to be ever ready to help, when help was needed. Indeed, if the writer may be permitted to say so, this is what several of the neighbors have said of Mr. Clow—no more obliging fellow could be found.

We, your neighbors, whom you will leave behind, realize that you are trying to make a change for the better. The times through which we are passing are hard to say the least and as much as we will miss you we sincerely hope that success will be your lot, and lots of it, in your new home. Please accept this small gift — just a little remembrance from your friends who trust that they will see you occasionally.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors.

A Talkie Rich In Melody And Vivid Romance

"The Cat and the Fiddle" One of Year's "Class" Photoplays At Prince Edward

Boasting a cast of stellar magnitude, telling a lyric and touching love story, and enriched by one of the most beautiful musical scores ever to reach the screen, "The Cat and the Fiddle," which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre, stands out as a definite pictorial and melodious achievement.

If only to hear the glorious voices of Ramon Novarro and Jeanette MacDonald, audiences are certain to find the M-G-M version of the noted Broadway stage success a grand and unforgettable entertainment. Directed by William K. Howard, ace megaphonist, the Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach romance which kept the S. R. O. sign posted in theatres for two years, reaches the screen greater than ever due to the additional pictorial charm permitted by camera scope.

In tact under the musical direction of Herbert Stothart, is the incomparable music score, including such hits as "The Night Was Made for Love," "The Night We Say Yes," "The Love Parade" and "A New Love Is Old." The famous Alberta Rasch ballet contributes eye-filling spectacles in several striking numbers, with a living puppet fantasy woven into the climactic love scenes.

With Novarro and Miss MacDonald holding stellar rank, the cast boasts such names as Frank Morgan, Charles Butterworth, Jean Herschell, Vienne Segal and Joseph Cavathorn. Gay, mythical, and sometimes naughty, the play-with-a-play has the Bohemian flavor of continental student life. Much of the action takes place within a large Parisian theatre where the musical romance is uniquely unfolded—a novel technique widely acclaimed as a conventional departure by theatre critics.

Indians Charged With Murder Of B. C. Constable

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

MERRITT, B. C., May 27.—With the finding of the body of Frank Osborne, Indian Department constable, British Columbia police officials today were a step nearer to bringing to justice the perpetrators of what is described as "one of the foulest crimes" committed in the province.

Badly mutilated the body was found yesterday in the swirling waters of the Nicola River, five miles east of here.

Accompanied by provincial constable Percy Carr, Osborne visited Canford reserve to investigate the wounding of an Indian woman, last Wednesday. The two have been missing since that time. It is believed they were clubbed to death in their car and their bodies thrown into the river. Carr's body has not yet been found.

Four Indians are held in connection with the crime. Three of them, Enos, Joseph and Richard, George, brothers, will be charged with murder, and Inspector John Shirras of the provincial police stated, Joseph, is in hospital suffering severe head injuries which police believe he suffered in a desperate battle with two officers.

"Big Frank" an Indian, who has been aiding police in the search, sighted Osborne's body caught in overhanging branches of a Willow tree on the far side of the river. Frank H. Osborne was a native of Ottawa.

Drowned In Lake

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

BRIDGETOWN, N. S., May 27.—Clarence Troop was drowned in Gibson's Lake, near here today when his canoe upset. His companion, Charles Connell, kicked off his heavy rubber boots and reached shore safely, but the drowned man had his heavy boots on when his body was found and a fishing line wound round his waist. The canoe had upset earlier in the day, but the two righted it and went on fishing.

Accidental death by drowning was the inquest finding. The deceased was office manager of the Annapolis Valley Electric Company here. A wife and two small children survive.

Law Ayres In "Let's Be Ritzy" At The Capitol

Opening for a three day run at the Capitol, yesterday, "Let's Be Ritzy" with Lew Ayres and Patricia Ellis in the leads supported by Frank Mugh, Isabel Jewell, Bertton Churchill.

Lew Ayres and Patricia Ellis are office workers who on getting married find that the combined pay envelopes are not enough to keep them out of the red. Both have a yen for the petty extravagances common to most young folks. As they are about to be thrown out of their apartment for non-payment of rent, Frank Mugh suggests that in order to get ahead in this world they should put on the ritz and bluff it. First their boss is impressed with the bluff and then the landlord, so the fun begins.

In the nature of a modern semi-problem play it is clean and carries a gentle human interest punch as it passes from one situation to another, delves into hopes, ambitions, disappointments, odd surprises and little tragedies that are a part of the day-to-day life of the ordinary rank and file folk. Family entertainment at the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Page Hersey Tubes, Limited, is engaged in the manufacturing of mild steel and wrought iron pipes, steel tubing for oil and gas, coils, etc., and operates two plants, one in Welland, Ont., two at Cohoes, N. Y., and one in Guelph, Ont. The present company was incorporated by a Dominion charter in 1926, taking over a company of the same name which was originally formed in 1902.

The American plants at Cohoes, N. Y., are operated by subsidiary companies, the Cohoes Rolling Mills Company, established 1854 and acquired by the parent company in 1917, and the Mohawk Conduit Co., Inc., established in 1925 to manufacture conduits for electrical wiring. The company does a large export business to other parts of the British Empire, the United States, South America and the Orient, this business being handled by the Page-Hersey Export Co., Inc. A separate selling organization, the Page-Hersey Trading Company, is maintained in New York.

Purchasing most of its raw materials from the United States, the company, according to a statement of the president in the last annual report, was for some time handicapped by the premium on United States funds, and large export sales being done in terms of sterling. As both of these conditions have corrected themselves in the past year, the business of the company has undergone considerable improvement in recent months.

Hepburn Charges Premier With Extravagance

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

TORONTO, May 27.—Before leaving Saturday for an election campaign tour of the north, Mitchell P. Hepburn, Ontario leader, issued a "statement of election charges" which he charged the Conservative Government of Premier George S. Henry with extravagance and with their own money through "lavish expenditure of public money."

The statement detailed charges of mismanagement of administration against the government and set forth the policies the Liberal party will follow if successful in the provincial elections next June 19.

Mr. Hepburn promised to bring about industrial standards in various industries "wherever practical," and to co-operate with employers and employees towards enactment of legislation to prevent abuses. He promised further "financial reforms" in the spending of public money; "cleanup of the hydro power situation wherein he charged "the appointment of partisan politicians" as "aggravated the disaster to that great public service"; he declared for an "honest forest policy"; making open to the people of the public accounts of the province; no directorships in any corporation; among cabinet ministers and improved agricultural and industrial conditions.

Leprosy Lessens By New Methods

(By The Canadian Press)

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—Dr. Arthur Torrance of the Royal Society of Tropical Medicine, who for more than a score of years has battled tropical disease plagues, predicted that leprosy will eventually be stamped out.

Travelling to British possessions in Central Africa after a stay in South America, Dr. Torrance said improved treatment methods are diminishing the ravages of the disease. He said an educational program of sanitation and physical hygiene is being pushed forward in Africa, India and remote stretches of South America.

"When the natives of these countries have been thoroughly educated an additionally taught to seek medical aid promptly when the disease becomes apparent, there is no reason why leprosy should not be completely eliminated," he said.

Dr. Torrance, said treatments applied now in many places, including Louisiana's Leper colony at Carville, were producing cures in 55 percent of first stage cases; 17 percent in secondary cases, and alleviating suffering in third stage cases.

Whitby Beckons To Old Students

(By The Canadian Press)

WHITBY, Ont., May 28.—Reunion of old teachers and students of many years is planned in connection with the Ontario Ladies' College celebration of its 60th anniversary here, June 10-13.

Among other features the programme includes the Baccalaureate concert, an Old Girls' concert, a joint Directors and Alumnae Banquet, and Commencement Day exercises.

The Ontario Ladies' College, opened in 1874 by the Earl of Dufferin, then Governor General of Canada, has long held an honorable place among the educational institutions of this country. Once "Traillor Castle" the fine old building has an impressive beauty and romantic history which make it interesting even to casual visitors.

Hon. H. A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Mrs. Bruce are expected to be present as guests of the college. It is anticipated every year's class for half a century will be represented at the diamond jubilee.

Rev. Dr. C. R. Carscallen, M.A., is the present principal of the college.

Operated by a flat coil of thermo-stable metal that moves a pointer along a scale at the top of a tube, an implement has been invented for measuring the temperatures of molten metals and other highly heated materials.

Bill Would Save Thousands In Cost Printing Hansard

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

OTTAWA, May 25.—Faulty translation from English into French adds thousands of dollars to Canada's printing bill, Hon. Charles H. Cahan, Secretary of State told the House of Commons today. He was defending his bill to establish a central translation bureau, designed to promote efficiency and save money.

The French version of the Senate Hansard for 1932-33 cost $4,915 with $2,450 representing extra work through faulty translation, the Secretary of State said.

The Liberal members, E. R. E. Cheverley, Ottawa and Jean F. Proulx, Trois-Rivières, maintained steady opposition to the bill through committee.

The time had come, Mr. Cahan said, when the efficiency of the translation services demanded such a reorganization as approved in the bill. He regretted having had to mention the criticism against certain translations but it had been forced out of him by the tactics of the opponents to the measure.

Angus MacInnis, (Lab, Vancouver South), who sat on the committee which dealt with the bill, expressed surprise at the continued opposition. Inefficiency did not pay dividends to any party concerned, and he personally believed that if the government could not get rid of inefficient officials in any other way they would be better off to pay them to stay away from work.

Extend Effort To Help Child

(By The Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 28.—Canada's national organization that guards the health of mothers and children is expanding its activities this year and assuming new responsibilities in dissemination of information it hopes will build stronger children and bring greater health to mothers.

The Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare has found it necessary to add to its staff two medical men who will be employed part time. One will be an obstetrical specialist, the other a specialist in pediatrics. The council is also preparing new publications.

Under the direction of Miss Charlotte Whitton, concerns itself mainly with the welfare and health of mothers and children. It has been working for 14 years.

The maternal and child hygiene division of the council whose work is supervised by its own personnel, on which are represented the Dominion Department of Health and the health department of all the provinces, circulates health literature to mothers all over the country, concentrating on preventive efforts.

Grants from the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association enables the Council to distribute free letters on pre-natal and post-natal care. The letters are sent monthly to expectant mothers starting nine months before confinement. After the birth of their babies the mothers continue to receive letters for nine months. Last year 43,579 copies of these letters were distributed in French and English.

In addition the council circulates a series of pre-school letters, instituted this year, containing advice on the care and welfare of children ranging in age from one to six years. The distribution is similar to that of the other series. In addition to these services the council distributed publications on such subjects as habit training, protection against diphtheria, malnutrition, rickets, etc.

Find Rare Copy Of Tasso Epic

(Canadian Press Via Ivava)

VOGHERA, Italy, May 28.—A rare copy of Torquato Tasso's celebrated epic "Jerusalem Delivered" has been discovered in the civic library here.

Of the first edition printed in 1550 by Girolamo of Genoa the copy contains some remarkable illustrations. There are only five other copies of this edition in Italy.

Torquato Tasso, the famous Italian epic poet, was born in 1544 and died in 1595. He ranks as one of the finest of his country's poets, and is remembered principally for the poem "Jerusalem Delivered," which aroused a considerable controversy at the time of its publication, and became a classic in Italian and world literature.

Following her tour, Miss Digby will prepare a report for the government outlining the possibilities of co-operative organization for economic and social improvement. Then a programme will be prepared for the movement, which will be carried on in conjunction with government changes in industry.

The new commission government has plans for re-organizing all the basic industries of the Island and Labrador but it is feared the best plans will go astray unless the men get together and produce in orderly manner instead of by the haphazard methods followed for hundreds of years.

Financial assistance, regulation and a system of inspection has been provided for the fisheries. Various forms of encouragement will be given farmers and homesteading under government supervision is contemplated: wider markets are being sought for iron ore and development of a complete investigation of forest industries is underway, and hundreds of additional men will be put to work in Newfoundland and Labrador cutting pulpwood and pitprops for export.

Country-wide organization on a co-operative basis will be undertaken in connection with these schemes for economic recovery.

The woman engaged the preliminary work has had wide experience with the Plunkett Foundation, founded in 1919 by Sir Horace Plunkett to encourage small farm holdings in Ireland under a co-operative scheme. Sir Horace as a young man was engaged in cattle ranching in United States for several years and was impressed there by the need for producers. From 1918 he was identified with co-operation movements and in 1924 founded the Irish Agricultural Organization in his native land where the Plunkett family name of Barons Plunkett is widely spread in influence. The Plunkett foundation was endowed later began a strong co-operative movement in Ireland.

Possibilities for such a movement in Newfoundland were stressed by Sir Wilfred Grenfell, noted medical missionary who was instrumental in having Miss Digby brought to the island.

WOMAN PREACHES CO-OPERATION IN ANCIENT COLONY

ST JOHN, Nfld., May 27 (CP)—Up and down Newfoundland and along the coast a confident, persuasive woman is travelling, ministering to the fishermen, farmers, and lumbermen an unemphatic preaching of co-operation.

She is Miss Margaret Digby of the Plunkett Foundation. Here is not an easy task. Some of the people she meets have been brought up to believe that all their needs are met by the government. Some are hungry. To these the new ideas do not seem very substantial.

But they like to hear her talk and if they once get interested they will put behind the movement the stuff that takes to jump flogs in the northern icefields and bring a schooner into port when there's not a chance of keeping her off the rocks.
