A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Really and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents) into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded.

He was twice wounded, once at Ypres and again at Vimy Ridge. At Passchendale he won the coveted Military Medal for an act of exceptional bravery. He was recommended for "carrying on after all the officers in his company were killed repulsing a counter attack." Of his company of 130 only 27 returned from the attack.

AN ITALIAN HERO.

Story of Brave "Middy" in the Mediterranean. It was in the Mediterranean. A transport laden with troops with lights out was plunging through rough seas. Ahead, its escorting destroyer was making sudden bolts into the darkness of a stormy night. Suddenly came a cry from a look-out man in the destroyer. She answered violently, and the torpedo from an enemy submarine went past her. Quickly the destroyer signalled to the transport to go full speed for port, and then, turning to where she judged the submarine must be lying, opened fire and dropped depth charges. Almost simultaneously the submarine had launched another torpedo, and the adversaries became linked in disaster. The torpedo struck the old destroyer almost amidships; she cracked in two and began to sink. At the same moment the submarine, her hull pierced in several places by shells or shattered by the depth charges, rose to the surface and then went down forever. From both vessels the crews threw themselves in the water. The midshipman was carried deep down by the suction of the sinking destroyer, and when he came up he was battered and stunned. When his breath came back he shouted to his men, but only three heard him and managed to join him. He counselled them to "float as much as you can, wait for the dawn, and then we may be able to see how the coast lies. Don't lose heart. Aren't the enemy in the sea, too?" Presently one of the miniature rafts which destroyers carry floated towards them, and they clung to it. An hour passed, in which the midshipman cheered his companions with humorous-heraldic advice. With the dawn a boat came into sight. It was one of the small boats of the destroyer with some twenty sailors in her. Then happened the cruel blow of fate. An officer leaped out of the boat, and in guttural tones asked them if they surrender. It was one of their own boats, but it was full of enemy sailors.

Worn out, frozen, and helpless, the midshipman shouted "No!" To his men he cried, "What will you do? They all answered, "No surrender!" One, in mockery, even called to the boat near by: "Reverse engines!" They tore two pieces of wood from their raft and, using them for oars, tried to increase the distance between them and their only apparent chance of life. The Germans in the boat did not try to seize them; they left them to sink and made off. Then the four began an almost hopeless effort to drive their raft towards the distant shore. For six hours they swam, and at last found themselves off a rocky shore, on which the waves burst. They abandoned themselves to the flood and were flung violently ashore. — E. Suffolk Gazette.
