Tighter British Bloc'ade in Pacific Forecast

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—A tighter British blockade in the Pacific—to keep supplies from reaching Germany by the long route through Russia—was forecast today by the British Ambassador to the United States, Lord Lothian.

Similar action was taken by the treasury to protect the American customs structure from the effect of wartime foreign exchange fluctuations. It ordered that tariff rates on British imports be based upon the value of the pound "officially" fixed by the British Government, $4.025, rather than the exchange rate of about $3.50 prevalent in the "free market."

Lord Lothian called upon State Department officials and then stopped to talk with newspapermen. The latter showed him a London dispatch saying there was abundant evidence that shipments from Los Angeles and San Francisco ports to Vladivostok, Russia, were actually intended for Germany.

There seems to be no doubt that supplies are going across Russia to Germany, on the basis of the British blockade, Lord Lothian said, "we shall have to adopt the same procedure we have adopted in the Atlantic, that of stopping ships to see whether they are carrying contraband to Germany."

He referred to a system used in the Atlantic, under which the British Embassy issues a naval certificate attesting that a ship's cargo is free of contraband for the purpose of facilitating the vessels' passage through the blockade.

BEER BILL

incal election for Assemblyman shall be entitled to cast one ballot only, that is to say in the electoral district in which such person resides;

Such plebiscite shall be conducted as nearly as may be possible, mutatis mutandis, in the manner provided for the holding of Provincial general elections, but subject to the provisions hereinafter set forth:

(e) Deputy Returning Officers shall not count the ballots cast in their respective polls but the said ballots shall be returned uncounted to the Returning Officers, who shall retain custody thereof until the same are counted by, or under the supervision of, a board of three scrutineers to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

(f) One of such scrutineers shall be recommended by the Attorney-General; and the other two shall respectively be appointed on the recommendation of the Prince Edward Island Temperance Federation and the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, if the said organizations or either of them wishes to make such recommendation.

(g) The scrutineers shall proceed to count the ballots and tabulate the results of the vote as soon as the counting of the ballots and the polls shall report the said results to the Clerk of the Executive Council.

(h) The decision of the majority of the scrutineers on any disputed point shall prevail and the count made by the said scrutineers shall be final and absolute.

(i) At the time of taking the affidavit of the Lieutenant-Governor any question or questions for the opinion of the voters.

Mr. Mustard moved an amendment to the bill that the word "wine" be added to beer, ale, stout, porter and lager already listed in the bill. Both amendments were passed.

When discussing the bill in committee, Mr. Mustard said that breweries had not "the slightest interest in the matter," nor had they suggested any measure to amend the bill.

Premier Campbell reiterated Mr. Mustard's statement and said if "any brewery exerts any pressure to influence public opinion when the position of the Government is being considered, they will be cut off from their private business with this province."

Purpose of Bill
Purpose of the bill was to attempt to stamp out "moonshining" on the island, Mr. Mustard said. He was fully in accord with the Government's policy of prohibiting liquor.

There were many idle young men in the province equipped with small-scale distilleries for making moonshine. "Something new to find a private member attempting to amend a Government measure," The Conservative party went to the country in this Province to find a member which substituted Government Control for Prohibition. The party was defeated, he said, and therefore he was against this bill as the people had rejected it and did not want the Prohibition law changed.

Premier Challenged
After being challenged several times by the Conservative opposition to clarify and give his views on the bill, Premier Campbell said he thought the press, clergy and temperance workers had misunderstood the purpose of the bill. "It simply is beer sold on permit for beverage purposes instead of for medicinal use on a Doctor's prescription. I support the Government's measure."

"Undoubtedly there is a question as to whether conditions would be improved, if the bill was passed," he said. "I feel the people should be the final judge and the bill provides for that."

The leader of the opposition said the Government did not "have the courage to amend the Prohibition Act, but was going to cure the evil by the back door." Mr. Mustard retorted that the Campbell Government was attempting to "scuttle the Prohibition Act."

"I believe I am entitled to introduce legislation in this House," Mr. Mustard replied. "A vote was called on the bill with the plebiscite amendment and the vote was against it. On standing vote on the amendment to the Prohibition Act, the opposing vote was Hon. Dr. MacMillan, Mr. W. A. Kinross, and Hon. Douglas Macdonald."

Dr. MacMillan during the discussion, said that just because the Prohibition Act had failed to legislate against moonshine, it did not mean there was no reason for condemning it. He asked if the promoter of the bill thought the introduction of the bill would be a "back door" method of getting around the conditions existing in districts where large quantities of moonshine were being manufactured.

After the vote was taken, Premier Campbell explained that several sections of the Prohibition Act had been rendered useless by the technicalities of the Courts and submitting some minor amendments which were adopted.

The following bills were given the first reading:
An Act to Amend an Act to Incorporate the Town of Georgetown. The Security Frauds Prevention Act.

Denmark's Oil Supply Small Commons Told

LONDON, April 16 (CP)—Ronald Cross, Minister of Economic Warfare, told the House of Commons today that Denmark's oil stocks at the time of the German invasion were not more than 200,000 tons, scarcely enough to meet the little country's own needs for 3-12 months.

He was answering a question by Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, who had estimated the total supply at 240,000 tons of gasoline and 160,000 tons of diesel oil.

According to his information, the stocks of petroleum products in Denmark on the date of the German invasion were probably not more than 200,000 tons, which is equivalent on the average to 3-12 months' requirements.

He declared that it is "only proper that a discussion be held" and every member should stand up and declare himself.

He pressed the Attorney General for an expression of opinion and added that before the Government could know the policy of the Government.

Premier Campbell said that there should not be any misunderstanding of the Government's policy. He explained that the bill provided for the sale of beer without the need of doctor's prescription. It could be obtained by permit.

Dr. MacMillan asked if any delegations waited on the Government. He asked for the amendment to the Prohibition Act.

Premier Campbell answered that there had been delegations waiting on the Government. He said that they were not representatives of breweries and declared that if any brewery were to be cut off from their private business with this province, they would be cut off from their private business with this province.

Dr. MacMillan declared that there had never been any representative body asked for the amendment to the Prohibition Act.

Mr. Jones declared that he was opposed to the bill. He said that a plebiscite as it would cost a lot of money and Charlottetown would vote for beer and the country would vote against it. He asked the Government to declare their policy.

Dr. Stewart said that the amendment would be a "back door" method of getting around the conditions existing in districts where large quantities of moonshine were being manufactured.

After the vote was taken, Premier Campbell explained that several sections of the Prohibition Act had been rendered useless by the technicalities of the Courts and submitting some minor amendments which were adopted.

The following bills were given the first reading:
An Act to Amend an Act to Incorporate the Town of Georgetown. The Security Frauds Prevention Act.

Third Reading
The following bills were given the third reading and passed:
An Act to Amend an Act to Incorporate the Kingston Hall Co. The Amusement Tax Act.

An Act Respecting Public Inquiries. An Act for the Care of Ancient Burial Grounds. An Act Respecting the Law of Partnerships.

BRIEF FOR FREE SCHOOL BOOKS IS PRESENTED

Arguments in favor of providing free school books were presented in the House of Commons yesterday by a delegation representing the Women's League, the delegates were Mrs. W. J. McIntrye, Mrs. M. M. Murphy, Mrs. Adriane McInnis (Souris), Mrs. Sylvia Paquin, City, Mrs. E. J. McDonald, City, Mrs. A. J. Howitt, City.

Following is the text of the brief: Honorable Premier and members of the Legislature, Gentlemen:

This delegation which represents the Catholic Women's League is here to present to the Hon. Premier and Minister of Education and to all the members of the Legislature a brief for free school books (Grades one to eight) for the schools of Prince Edward Island.

We have come to voice an appeal which has been repeatedly brought to our Diocesan Convention by delegates from all parts of this province. We feel confident that the Government are aware of the problem and are anxious to solve it.

Conditions today in most of our rural districts, as well as the lack of employment in our towns and villages make this demand imperative. The high priced school books have become a distressing problem for parents with large families. This accounts in a great measure for the parents with large families in the country cannot procure the books for their children.

Varied Program Of Opera Music At Women's Club

The Women's Music Club and guests enjoyed a splendid programme in their final meeting of the season held last night in St. James' Hall.

Opera music was the theme, and many comments of appreciation were heard on the sustaining excellence of such a varied programme, the music being presented in choruses, solos, duets and effective piano arrangements.

A special word of praise must be said for the women's chorus of thirty-two voices, and its director Mrs. G. E. Full. For a chorus of this size and considering the short length of time its members have been working together they have remarkable finish, their singing of Verdi's "Ave Maria" was altogether beautiful.

The chorus sang, though each was differently from the other, were all equally well done. One fitting tribute indeed was the bouquet of exquisite snapshots presented to Mrs. Full at the conclusion of the concert by Mrs. Frances Holl Trainor on behalf of the chorus.

Mrs. James Macmillan read a delightfully informative introduction to a program prepared by Mrs. K. S. Rogers for the program, the preparatory introduction dealing with the great importance of sound, and later of music in our lives, and the effect which it has on the mind in which it is conceived. And opera is the most complex and artificial of all the forms of musical expression.

As the programme proceeded Mrs. Macmillan read a most valuable notes on the composition about to be performed, adding considerably to the pleasure of the listeners.

The evening's musical programme was supplemented by the guest artists Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Reynold and Mr. Percy Williams, whom Mrs. Full warmly thanked for their outstanding contributions.

The first number was the "Waltz Song" from Gounod's "Faust"—Women's Music Club Chorus, directed by Mrs. Full with vocal solo—Mrs. Full, Miss Macmillan, Miss Lillian MacKenzie and Miss Suzanne Brenton.

Tenor solo—"Ye Lovers Who Glimp"—Mr. P. D. Williams, accompanied by Mrs. K. S. Rogers.

Vocal duets—"Song of the Swallows" and "Hast Thou Ever Wept"—Mrs. Full, Miss Macmillan, Miss MacKenzie, accompanied by Mrs. Full.

Piano—Very striking eight hand arrangement of the famous Toreador song from Bizet's "Carmen"—Mrs. Full, Miss Macmillan, Miss MacKenzie, Miss Suzanne Brenton.

Arts—"I Am Not Faint Hearted"—Mrs. Full, Mr. Percy Williams, accompanied by Mrs. Full.

Chorus—"Ave Maria"—Music Club Chorus.

Vocal solo—"Angel of Light"—Mrs. Full, Miss Macmillan, Miss MacKenzie, Miss Suzanne Brenton.
