Loss of Valuable Export Market, Possibly For Many Years To Come, Feared; Maine's Bacterial Wilt Fields Rejected Also.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2—It is preferable to suffer loss of one season than to lose a valuable market.

Dr. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture, wrote J. E. J. Patterson, M. P. for Carleton-Victoria, on Sept. 15, explaining why it was considered a request made by Mr. Patterson on behalf of the Associated Potato Growers and Shippers of New Brunswick for a tolerance of one-half of one per cent on certified seed potatoes for export should be refused.

It is impossible to determine accurately the percentage of infection of bacterial wilt, Dr. Barton stated. "A large number of tubers may have the bacteria without showing any signs of infection even in the spring."

A copy of the letter was released here after Mr. Patterson had announced at Florenceville, N. B., on Sept. 26, or his return from presenting his request here personally that the proposal had been rejected.

The text of the deputy minister's letter follows: "Your telegram of Sept. 11, addressed to the Hon. W. D. Ehler, with reference to the difficulty with certification of the seed potato crop, was referred to this office and was given consideration by officers of this department who are concerned with this work."

"Very Serious Mistake" "It is regrettable that a severe outbreak of late blight has appeared in New Brunswick and elsewhere with reference to the difficulty of your proposal that a tolerance of one-half of one per cent on Katahdins and Bliss Triumphs be permitted in certified seed for export has been considered by the officers here who are in charge of

Potato Tolerance Plea Not Favored

Portland Ore.

"WE HAD A MARVELLOUS TRIP" SAID JAMES TAIT ON HIS RETURN HOME.

"I had a marvellous trip and a delightful time all through," said James Tait, florist of this city who returned recently from a trip to the western portion of the United States where he attended the Florists' Telegraph District Convention at Portland, Oregon, as district representative for the Mar-Tim Provinces.

Arriving in Chicago Mr. Tait left there by special train a quarter mile in length with a large number of fellow florists, making their first stop at Boone, Iowa, where florists were taking them where they drove around the city, to the State Park and were hosts to the travellers at a chicken dinner.

The next stop was Salt Lake City where the delegates were driven around by a group of cars with a motor cycle escort, visiting the Mormon Temple where they heard an organ recital from one of the world's largest and finest instruments.

Salt Lake which Mr. Tait described as a regular Ocean Island was also visited and bathing suits and tickets provided in order that the visitors might have a swim in the salt waters which are so buoyant that "you couldn't sink if you tried."

The special train next went to Yellowstone National Park where we had breakfast at Yellowstone Inn; from there we were taken by bus to Old Faithful Inn where we remained overnight. The following day we went to Grand Canyon Hotel and took a bus ride through the park. After being entertained at Seattle the next stop, the party returned to Portland for the convention on Monday and Tuesday, and attended a School of Floristry on Wednesday and Thursday.

Tuesday evening the delegates attended a fashion and flower show with more than 30,000 people in attendance. This country fared very well despite threatening weather.

Some 200 models were seen on an illuminated runway and music was furnished by Shubert's band. Pieces along with a large orchestra. Many of the gowns were bought especially from Europe for the occasion and one of the was valued at $50,000.

The President's Banquet was held on Thursday night at the Tait, with some 2000 florists in attendance and 15,000 roses decorating the tables.

Friday provided a trip up the Columbia River to the $150,000 Timmerline Lodge where several hours was spent before returning to Portland and leaving for morning for San Francisco where they were again entertained by the florists who took them to Chinatown, the Fisherman's Wharf, bathing beaches and Redwood City, which takes its name from the number of redwood trees growing in that vicinity.

They also visited the Japanese chrysanthemum fields where the days provided luncheon and entertainment before taking the station on a tour of their premises where hundreds of thousands of chrysanthemums were seen in full bloom, also the beauty of the flowers from which the flowers are shipping to all parts of the United States.

Stopping long enough to pick up additional florists at Los Angeles, the party proceeded to San Diego where florists met them and took them by bus on a tour which included a visit to Mexico where they had to check our cameras, explained Mr. Tait, before being allowed to visit the Naval Yards where a number of warships, aircraft carriers and hundreds of airplanes were seen. Returning to San Diego the party entrained for Los Angeles arriving in the evening.

Next day they visited the Flower Market and had breakfast under the palm trees before leaving on a bus tour which included Hollywood, Beverly Hills and Pasadena where they were entertained by a large nursery firm and a student of the University of California. They stopped early next morning at Riverside where they were entertained at the Mission Inn, a beautiful spot, and then to the Grand Canyon of Arizona where they stayed all night and were taken on a drive around the canyon's rim next day.

Halifax Sailor Is "Knifed" In Montreal

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

MONTREAL, Oct. 2—Ernest Giffen of Halifax, 26 year old sailor, was reported "about the same" in hospital tonight, 36 hours after he had been rushed there with serious knife wounds following a waterfront fight here.

Two other sailors, Michael Gaudin, 20, and Daniel Gribben, 19, who gave his address as "Putbury, Ont.," were questioned by police yesterday but were released.

CHARMING OLD LEGENDS

Except in families where certain names are almost traditional, there seems to be a good deal of discussion about the name or names the new baby is to bear. It seems a pity that so many of the old-fashioned names which had real meanings and legends are going out of fashion.

Lydia, a pretty name in itself, has rather a fascinating derivation. Lydia means a descendant of Lud, or Luda, who was a mythical king of Phoenicia, and his name was there was a temple connected with him on the little hill by the River Thames now known as Ludgate Hill. The Welsh name for London is Caer Lud, which means Lud's Fort. In all legends concerning Lud, he is connected with London. The string of two, three, and even four names, which were not considered too many to give a child only a few years ago, are out of date today.

MOSCOW, Oct. 2—(AP)—The Official Gazette today published the names of 321 Soviet Russian citizens who have been disfranchised. The names were mostly Jewish. It was thought possible their disfranchisement may have been in connection with a separatist conspiracy reported Sept. 23 in Birobidjan, an autonomous territory in the far east.

CHAMBERLAIN

The head of the Royal Navy, the mobilization of which last week was considered "one of the key moves in swerving Chancellor Hiler from rash action, assigned because he opposed the Prime Minister's foreign policy of trying to cooperate with Europe's dictators."

If the Munich agreement to the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia and the Hitler-Chamberlain peace pact are subjected to a prolonged attack in the House of Commons, particularly from a large block of Government supporters, it may lead to a general election. At this moment this seems improbable.

A group of prominent Labor members, Liberal and Independent, issued a biting condemnation of Mr. Chamberlain's solution of the Czechoslovak-German dispute. The group included Harold Nicholson, National Labor member of the House of Commons; Viscount Cecil, President of the League of Nations Union; J. M. Keynes, economist; Jacob Epstein, sculptor; and Laurence Binyon, author.

Mr. Chamberlain's statement said, was in danger of forgetting to "our lasting dishonor, that Mr. Chamberlain's peace prize was paid by the Czechoslovak people, brave and tolerant people who showed steadfastness and dignity evoked the admiration of the whole world."

The Lambeth Borough Labor Party wrote to the Prague Labor Council expressing "the shame and horror which the working people in this country feel for the betrayal of Czechoslovakia and the peace which Mr. Chamberlain perpetrated in our name. We can only assure you our efforts to drive this man and all he represents from public life will be redoubled."

Resigns Post The resignation of the 46-year-old Duff Cooper, Great War veteran, came just one day after Mr. Chamberlain returned as a popular hero from Munich.

Mr. Nicholson who declared "I still am not aware that Mr. Chamberlain's final surrender to the approval of his own cabinet."

The Associated Press said names linked with rumors of dissatisfaction with Mr. Chamberlain included those of Walter Elliot, Health Minister; Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Trade; and S. Morrison, Minister of Agriculture, with Leslie Hore-Belisha, War Secretary "in the background."

The Archbishop of Canterbury in a broadcast tonight urged nations of the world to return to the League of Nations to halt "the insane race of armaments" and "as a sign of recovered sanity, determine once and for all that the use of the bombing aircraft shall cease."

"Has been a writing on the wall of our boasted civilization—with its gods of silver and gold and iron."

He declared Britain shared in "the branches of the divine order." "Can we think without shame," he asked, "of the way in which, flanked by the passions of struggle, we treated our enemies after the Great War?"

Maritime Baptist Executive Meeting

The annual meeting of the Executive of the Maritime Baptist Convention was held at the Germain Street Institute, St. John, N. B., Tuesday morning and afternoon. The President of the Convention, Rev. L. H. Cranford of Sydney Mines, N. S. was in the chair. In addition to Mr. Cranford those present were: Rev. A. Rice, Canada; Rev. E. J. Barras, Truro; Rev. M. O. Brinton, Halifax; Rev. A. Gibson, Wolfville; Dr. E. S. Mason, Wolfville; Rev. W. G. Macdonald, Kentville; Mr. G. A. Hubley, Bridge Water; R. D. Miller, Carleton Place; Dr. F. L. Orchard, Yarmouth; Rev. Dr. Z. L. Fash, Moncton; Rev. W. S. Smith, Marsville; Mr. Stanley Fisher, Saint John; Rev. E. H. Cochrane, Saint John; and Rev. L. E. Ackland, St. Stephen, Secretary. Dr. S. S. Poole was invited.

Plans were made to give more publicity to all phases of denominational work and Dr. Z. L. Fash of Moncton was appointed to attempt to raise a fund to support a colored student for the ministry. Dr. E. S. Mason, superintendent of the Home Mission Board was asked to head up the effort. Denominational matters were also thoroughly discussed and the finance committee appointed as follows: Rev. W. G. Macdonald, Chairman, Dr. F. A. Eaton, Wolfville, G. A. Hubley, H. A. Rice, Dr. F. L. Orchard, Rev. H. L. Denton, S. E. Fisher, Rev. E. J. Barras, R. D. Miller. The advisability of certain changes in the set-up and program of the Maritime Baptist convention was given consideration and referred to Rev. L. H. Ackland, Rev. E. H. Cochrane, Dr. E. S. Mason, Dr. S. S. Poole.

The meeting was characterized by a fine spirit of progressiveness

Claims Knowledge Of Missing Craft

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Oct. 2—(CP) Cable to the effect of the 31-foot boat Lydia, sailed by Able-bodied father and three children was sought tonight as reports reached here that Philip Osmond's craft had been sighted at Port Union on the east coast.

Mrs. Nathan Osmond, who lives in this city, said she had talked with the unemployed Toronto carpenter last Monday at Port Union. She said the little vessel with a second-hand engine had reached Middle Brook, farther west, the last Sept. 19.

Osmond's 16-year-old son, John, said in Toronto last week, his father was eight weeks overdue on the long leisurely cruise to his native Newfoundland.

PLANKED BREAD REGER 1-2 lbs ground beef Salt 1 cup fine bread crumbs Butter

Method: I like a steak-like this better when there isn't an egg used. It seems to be tenderer and not so dry. Moisten the crumbs with water and add to the meat with the salt and pepper. Mix well, then form into a flat cake about 3-4 inch thick. Place in a shallow dish with butter and place under the broiler for 15 to 30 minutes, depending on how well done you like your beef. You can turn it if necessary, but it will stay juicy and moist.

Serve with plenty of fried onions and creamed potatoes. And I make them by heating diced cold cooked potatoes in a rich white sauce. Sprinkle with paprika for color contrast, and it's mighty good eating!
