

TWO KILLED IN STREET BATTLE

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, Aug. 3.—A number of persons appointed members of the new Committee of Public Safety which was organized today having refused to serve, and the body has been dissolved, and still another is being organized. The members of the Diplomatic Corps are bending their efforts to secure an equal representation on the committee for the followers of General Leconte; and General Firmin, and for citizens who have remained neutral in the struggle. This afternoon two groups of men, composed of Leconteists and Firminists fought in front of the telegraph office. Two men were killed. Later the city again became calm.

KILLING'S NEW POEM.

(London Standard.) "The Literary Pageant," a shilling volume, after the manner of "Printers' Pie," issued under the editorial control of Stanley Portal Hyatt for the benefit of the Prince Francis of Teck Memorial in Aid of the Middlesex Hospital, is well named. Story and verse, satire and humor, and art in many phases fill its closely packed pages, and many famous names figure in this notable pageant of living authors and artists. Rudyard Kipling is represented by a haunting if somewhat grim poem, "The Spies' March." It is a vivid and glorious picture of the spies of death—the doctors who risk their lives in spry and danger, and the war-plans of the "Fate Horse." It is founded on an extract from a private letter—apparently from a doctor, fighting the plague in the East, in which this comment appears: "I am a queer chap to live with for steady company. It would not be fair to quote the whole poem—for this alone is worth the modest shilling asked for the book—but the following characteristic extracts may be given:

Trained for another use, We march with colors furled, Only concerned when Death breaks loose On a front of half a world, Our yellow flag may fly, Death is a queer chap to live with for steady company. That is the place for a spy Where Death has spread his pinions over nations and dominions— Then there is work for a spy! The dropping shots begin, The simple funerals pass, Or a stinging fly in the street, The howling towns stamped, The helpless villages die, Now it is war indeed— Now there is work for a spy! O, Peoples, Kings and Lands, we are waiting your commands— What is the work for a spy? (Drums)—Death is upon us, spy! Go where his pickets hide— Unmask the shapes they take, Whether a goat from the waterside, Or a stinging fly in the brake, Or a child of the crowded street, Or a smear of spittle dried in the heat— That is the work of a spy!

And again: Stay by him, girth to girth, Sleep with his sentries, car to earth, And hark what the grave reveals, For the smoke of our torment rolls Where the pyres are blazing high, What do we care for men's bodies or souls? Death is upon us, spy!

THE READY-MADE WAIST.

In all the large department shops, and many of the smaller ones, there is a very remarkable showing this year of ready-made separate waists at surprisingly low prices. The great objection to the majority of them is that they are unlined and not always a good shape, but such defects can easily be remedied by a well-fitting underwaist. This may be of India silk or of lace or net—preferably lace, for the latter lace is strong enough to hold the figure, and it is rather more effective than plain with linings, and require only a wide belt to hold them in place. This belt-tape should really be additional to all blouses. It must be snug and well fastened at the back, and then the waist itself will stay down in place, and will have an infinitely better air to it. In fact, with this belt tape and a shaping in at the side seems a waist that has cost only two or three dollars may be just as smart and attractive as one that costs twenty-five.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT AT ALBERTON

Special from Guardian Correspondent. ALBERTON, Aug. 4.—A very sad drowing accident took place in Alberton today. Warren McDonald, a small boy nine years of age, lost his life in the river just below the town. He with a number of other companions about the same size and age were bathing, and in an attempt to learn to swim the little fellow got into the water beyond his depth and before his companions could render assistance, despite his cries for help he sank to the bottom. One little fellow ran and gave the alarm and the body was recovered about half an hour afterwards. The mother of the boy resides in the United States and was expected home in a week or two, she left him under the care of relatives in Kildara but for the past few days he has been with relatives at Alberton.—A.

NO LIQUORS SAY KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

DETROIT, August 3.—The Knights of Columbus in annual convention in this city have seriously reaffirmed the declaration of the order in favor of total abstinence. In executive session an attempt was made to amend the by-laws so that wine and other liquors, which are now prohibited, may be served at banquets and in the club rooms of the organization. There was a storm of opposition and the amendment was overwhelmingly defeated.

CHARLOTTETOWN AND QUEEN'S COUNTY

It pays to buy in this Province. W. B. Frowse, City, was a passenger west yesterday afternoon.

Attention is drawn to the Nullie ad on page seven of this issue.

M. J. McLeod, Hopefield, was in this city yesterday.

His many friends will regret to learn of the illness of His Honor Lieutenant Governor Rogers.

D. M. Condon, District Passenger Agent of the I.C.R., is in the city.

Phillip McNally and Percy Doyle, Abram's Village, were in Summerside yesterday.—S.

F. Stewart, City, was a passenger returning from the east yesterday afternoon.

The prohibition cases against Peter and Alice Martin, City, came up for hearing at the Police Court this morning.

Headly Howlett, W. Scantlebury, W. Bruce and Gordon McDonald, City, who had been in Petawawa with the artillery from this city, returned last night on the mail train. The boys spent a few days sightseeing in Montreal and Quebec before returning home.

Some complaints have been heard as to the condition of that part of St. Peter's Road from Wright's Bridge to the P. E. I. R. crossing. The road, or that section referred to, is said to be in a bad state, loose stones all over the track, making driving over it always liable to injure his horse. It is also said the condition of the road was responsible for the recent accident to Mrs. Pickard.

Among the arrivals on the mail train was "The Bunch of Boston." No apologies were offered for the title last night when the party registered at a late hour at the Victoria but those composing the "Bunch" are Charles McNeil, C. F. Ching, Gus Causting, Hugh N. Tolar, Roy Angus, W. I. Cavilshaw, and O. F. Heinemann. The most of the party will spend a few weeks, some, regrettably, being unable to remain more than a week or so. The majority of those named are frequent and regular visitors and are well acquainted here while one or two are experiencing their first visit to the Garden of the Gulf. Both the old acquaintances and the new visitors will find a hearty welcome awaits them here.

The following were registered at the Queen Hotel in this city yesterday: R. B. and Mrs. Clogston, McAdams, Mass; Capt. A. A. McDonald, Georgetown; E. H. Person, Bellam's Falls, Vt; J. C. Watson, J. Coranston; S. Sinton, Montreal; L. D. Hatfield, R. F. Stupart, Toronto; Mrs. Moore, J. A. Hinton, Toronto; Mrs. W. H. Yateau, New York; B. W. and Mrs. Leppage, Rusticoville, K. A. McAdams, Tignish; A. B. Smith, R. Eckerly, R. B. Campbell, A. W. Taylor, Halifax; W. D. Willis, New York; Wayne, Hermans, Malcolm Hermans, Alford E. Patten, wife and two children, Mrs. C. McDougall, Chicago; A. F. and Mrs. Vickerson, Milton; J. E. Hensly and wife, Washington; D. C. J. H. and Mrs. Morson, Brookline; W. D. Morrison, Cambridge; Mrs. John Lord, B. B. McAnlay, J. F. McAnlay, Brookline.

Refrain from all kinds of stimulants and sedatives; they will shorten your life. One of the best preventives of old age is enthusiasm and interest in affairs of the day.

Keep in the sunlight; nothing beautiful or sweet grows or ripens in the darkness. Avoid fear in all its varied forms of expression; it is the greatest enemy of the human race. Nature is the great rejuvenator; her spirit is ever young. Live with her; study her; love her. Avoid excesses of all kinds; they are injurious. The long life must be a temperate, regular life. Contemplate beauty in all its forms, and you will drive everything that is ugly out of your life.

NEW SUSPENSION BRIDGE. At the meeting of the Provincial government on Friday the construction of a new bridge across the falls was discussed, and Mr. Snyder, a prominent engineer who in company with Hon. Mr. Morrissey, Hon. Robert Maxwell and A. R. Whetmore, provincial engineer, made an inspection of the site proposed for the new bridge, was present. Mr. Snyder said he would submit complete plans for the proposed bridge within the near future. The site selected is between the Suspension and Cantilever bridges. The plans for the triple bridge proposed some time ago providing opportunity for railway, street car and traffic, have been abandoned. The proposed share of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the bridge has been eliminated. When the plans have been finally prepared they will be submitted to the St. John Street Railway Company and a consultation will be held.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS. I know a woman who always keeps a small piece of whetstone in her machine drawer for sharpening needles when they become blunted. It is a great scheme and saves a lot of needles, as I have proved it to my own satisfaction. I have learned to use a gravy boat in canning and jelly-making. The neck is just wide and shallow enough to fit well into all sizes of jars and glasses, and the long handle makes it possible to dip into boiling fruit and not burn the fingers. When making any kind of wash dresses, those for children especially, it is a good plan to fasten a piece of material on the inside of the

DEDICATION OF SCIENCE HALL OF ST. FRANCIS XAVIERS

ANTIGONISH, August 2.—On Thursday, August 22nd, the alumni and other friends of St. Francis Xavier's will meet in large numbers in Antigonish. The gathering will be a large and representative one, to witness the ceremonies and exercises in connection with the solemn dedication of the university's new science hall, which is now complete in every detail, and in connection with laying the corner-stone of the new university chapel. Besides several bishops there will be a number of prominent educationalists here, among them the presidents of all the leading universities and colleges in Canada. One of the principal addresses will be delivered by James J. Walsh, the well-known physician-ordinator of New York. Dr. Walsh is a professor of medicine and the dean of the medical faculty of a New York university. He is considered one of the best platform speakers in the United States. He is the author of almost innumerable articles that have been published in medical and other scientific periodicals in the United States and Great Britain. He has written several books, two or three of which have had a very large circulation. Among his best known works are "The Relations of Science and Religion," "The Attitude of the Church to Science in the Middle Ages," "The Pope and Science," "The History of the Theory and Practice of Medicine," etc.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S METEOR WINS AT COWES

COWES, Isle of Wight, August 3.—Rain and fog dampened the ardor of the yachtsmen today and many of the entries were withdrawn. The third and final heat for the Commodore's international challenge cup was won by the German yacht Paula, which defeated the Sophie Elizabeth, the winner of the first heat. The Paula takes a trophy of $1,250. Emperor's William's Meteor captured the town prize of $500. In the latter race the Herreshoff was second and the Germania third.

STORIES ABOUT WORDS.

(Chicago News.) "Cowboy" was once a sinister word in American politics. In the Revolutionary war the "cowboys" were a set of Tories in Westchester county, New York, popularly so called because of the brutal roughness with which they treated their Whig or rebel neighbors. It was no doubt, in memory of them that the name of "cowboy" was given in a jest to certain people in Connecticut and other parts of New England who were always secessionists. Many of what in England are called "Americanisms" are really good old English. For instance, "theater" spelled "theatrum" was proposed to be distinctively American. But it occurs in an advertisement printed in The London Gazette of May 14, 1668. A man named Ogby at that time invited everybody to buy tickets for his lottery of books in the "old theater" between Lincoln's Inn Fields and Vere Street. "Chortle" was invented by the author of "Alice in Wonderland." The word is a judicious blending of chuckle and snort, and there are other blends which stand a good chance of being permanently established in the English tongue. "Shamateur," for instance, according to The London Chronicle, hits off a tendency of modern sport.

BIRD MIGRATION.

(Harper's Weekly.) Why do the birds migrate toward the tropics in the autumn and toward the poles in spring? It would be easy to suppose that the autumnal migration is in search of food were it not for the fact that in the spring the birds have abundant supplies of food in the warm regions and arrive in the colder regions before the vegetation is far advanced. Another suggestion is that the migration north is for breeding purposes, has been disproved by the fact that the migratory habit is found in birds that do not breed until the second or third year. It has been suggested and argued plausibly that the explanation is to be found in "the search for light."

A RUSTLESS IRON.

(Engineering Magazine.) On the plains of Delhi in India there stands a massive iron pillar, nearly sixty feet in length and weighing about nineteen tons. This ancient column is literally a monument to the "antiquated" processes and metallurgists that produced it, for it has resisted the attack of the elements during a period of about 2,500 years in which fully a million times its bulk of iron or steel has crumbled into useless dust. No one would suggest that civilized man return to the primitive and laborious methods by which the iron of this column was made so long ago, and besides there are not men enough living today to supply our present demands even if all of them should engage in this type of manufacture. But, granting that the world would pay for a limited amount of iron as "passive" as this old Kutub pillar, it is very doubtful whether modern iron-workers know how to do it. Probably this specimen of unusual iron is the result of accident rather than design as far as its resisting qualities are concerned, and it stands today the survival of the fittest, not so much because it was intended to be, as because it proved to be the most lasting. For it is not likely that a process known to give iron of this kind would ever have been used so seldom, since the importance of a rust resistant iron and steel was as much appreciated in those days as now. No doubt all the older processes made iron and steel that were rusted less, and some of it very much less than what is usually produced to-

THREE NATIONS JOIN HANDS

An official note issued at the foreign office after outlining the details of the ceremony of signature, points out that the treaty eliminates many restrictions from the treaty of 1908, assures a means of regulating peacefully all differences which would be impossible of settlement through the channels of diplomacy and adds: "The character of the treaty is clearly defined in the preamble thus: 'The French republic and the United States of America being equally desirous of perpetuating firm and inviolable the constant peace which happily has existed between the two nations since the first days of American independence and which was rendered more sure by the closer relations of friendship and commerce affirming friendship and commerce remain in limitation between them, and resolved to prevent any future difference from being an occasion for hostilities or an interruption of these good relations, and so forth.'"
