Montague Memorial School

The annual closing of Montague Memorial School took place on Friday evening, June 26th, and as usual was well attended and successfully carried out. Mayor Melish, occupied the chair and a large number of interested parents and ratepayers enjoyed the musical program, the distribution of prizes and other pleasing features in connection. Following is the prize list and the valedictory read by Stewart Ives.

VALEDICTORY

Probably the most of you gathered here tonight this date will not be considered of very great significance, but to us, it is and always will remain one of the most important times of our lives. It is one to which we have been looking forward for many years, and which will remain with us in memory as long as we live.

We, the 1930 graduating class of the Montague Memorial School, are tonight finishing the first great act in the drama of life—our school days. There is ever a pause at the end of an act in life's drama, when for a moment the actor reviews the parts performed, then turns and with the mind's eye tries to pierce the shadows of the future. Tonight as we pause to consider the past one fact stands out clearly before us—the time of childhood is over. Hence forth we must shoulder more responsibility and acquire further knowledge to fit us to take our proper place in the world. Each one of us has a niche to fill. Let us resolve that we fill it nobly.

Most of this class spent their first school days in the old building, but the last three years have enjoyed the comforts of our new Memorial School, built in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice, that we of the present generation might enjoy freedom. Let us never forget those heroes and ever keep their memory fresh to the end of time. Here let us pause to pay a tribute also to the Women's Institute who have done so much towards the equipment of our school providing the many comforts that a student requires.

One phase of our school life, which has helped to brighten the routine has been our cadet work so skillfully conducted by our beloved principal, Montague School has always stood high in cadet work and we hope that this year she has maintained the standard of former years. We are proud, and justly so, that in the recent interscholastic sports held at Charlottetown signal honors has come to the Montague School—a graduate of last year winning many prizes and making a high aggregate in all the sports.

We are told that these are our carefree days, the happiest time of life, but to us at present they seem to be made up of endless tasks and duties—duties which child fashion we often shirk for more agreeable if less profitable occupation. But in spite of the tasks, we have enjoyed those years—the progress made from grade to grade, the friendly competition, but best of all, vacation days, when school was forgotten and books hidden away in the darkest corner.

Our last, vacation from Montague

School has come and next week we place ourselves in the hands of the examiners to determine what use we have made of the opportunities which have been ours during the past years. The months and years have passed swiftly by and we do not realize how happy we have been till graduation day arrives and we must bid farewell.

As we bid adieu to the scenes of our childhood, we wish to express to you, the citizens of Montague, our sincere thanks for all you have done to make this fair town of ours a pleasant place in which to live. You will have had a share in helping us attain whatever success awaits us.

To Principal Hynes—the best of teachers—we say adieu. To you we extend our gratitude for the patience and understanding you have manifested towards us and for the time and energy you expended to prepare us for matriculation. We thank your endurance many times but always you proved yourself a gentleman, one whom we could respect. We will never forget you but will always remember the days spent under your tutelage as a bright spot in life.

To our fellow students, we bid farewell. We have worked and played together and have enjoyed a fellowship which we will appreciate even more in later days. In a short time you will be the graduating class of Montague School and will stand where we stand tonight. In the meanwhile our parting words to you are: "make the best possible use of your time."

Pluck wins, it always wins! though days be slow
And nights be dark 'twixt days that come and go
Still pluck will win; its average is sure.

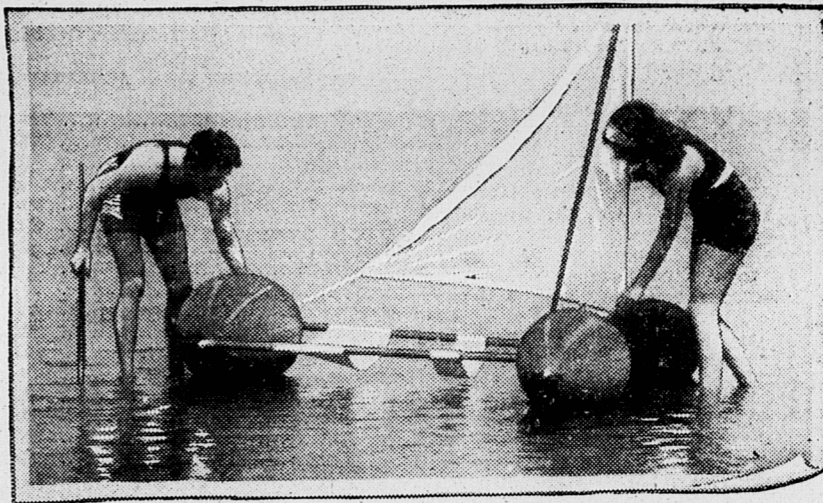

He gains the prize who will the most endure
Who faces issues; he who never shirks
Who waits and watches and who always works.
