LADY LINERS POPULAR FOR HONEYMOONERS

MONTREAL, June 13.—With the proverbial honeymoon season well under way each Lady Liner of the Canadian National Steamships carries its quota of newlyweds bound on a trip to the British West Indies. The sailing of the Liner "Le Rodney" from this port at 10 P. M. last Thursday night on a 25-day voyage to Bermuda, the Bahamas and Jamaica also carried her quota of honeymoon couples for there were eleven such passengers who have an extra night in Jamaica since the sailing itinerary has been changed to allow arrival at the Southern terminus late Sunday afternoon of June 19th instead of the usual arrival early Monday morning. The northbound departure being at the usual time on the following Wednesday afternoon.

also a potato growers' association to handle their potatoes, turnips and other vegetables. They have, further, a wholly co-operative organization to handle their dairy products. To say that the farmers have to sell their products to the merchants is false to begin with, and to state that the merchants get those products at any price is worse still. The merchants and farmers constitute a large portion of the population of Prince Edward Island, and to make such a baseless statement is to slander them. I felt it my duty to make these few remarks to show how false that statement is, and how it libels a large part of the population of the Province. Yet it has been put upon Hazard and vouched for by the leader of the House, and I presume, governs the actions, the attitude, and the policy of the Government in Council in regard to this matter.

Questions Power Of Supreme Court

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

OTTAWA, June 13.—The question of whether the Supreme Court of Canada has the power to render a substitutionary verdict was raised today as the court heard the appeal of William Manuchuk, St. Catharines, Ont., now under sentence of death for the murder of Amy Seabright. The case continues tomorrow.

J. C. McCruer, Toronto, counsel for Manuchuk, who has already faced three trials arising from the slaying of John Seabright and his wife, Amy, in a fence dispute, asked the court in the alternative of quashing the murder verdict to render a substitutionary manslaughter verdict and pass sentence on it.

"The time is past when human endurance can stand it," said Mr. McCruer. "It is difficult even now to get instructions from Manuchuk. He is 40 years old and has to serve 40 years for the death of a woman in any case."

DISCUSSION ON F. C. A. ACT IN SENATE

Prince Edward Island occupied the spotlight in the Senate debate in June 9, on third reading of the bill which amends the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act. Third reading was given to the measure after an amendment moved by Senator J. W. Farris (Lib., Vancouver) was defeated.

The amendment would have cancelled the action of the Senate Banking Committee which added a new clause to the bill setting forth that, except for Saskatchewan and Alberta, no new proposals would be considered under the Act after Dec. 31, 1938. With the June 9th vote of 13 against the Farris amendment, the bill returns to the House of Commons.

The discussion began covering the broad principles of the legislation. It passed to debate on the validity of certain adjustments made by boards of review, and wound up on a note of caution against the Senate overriding the unanimous will of the House of Commons by imposing a time limit on the life of the bill.

The following excerpts from Hansard relate to the administration of the Act in this Province: "Hon. John A. Macdonald, Honorable member, I have a few remarks to make, especially in view of the statement regarding the ability of this House to have a proper point of view on a matter of this kind. Unfortunately, many of those who assisted in putting the original Act through Parliament in the hope that it would benefit our farmers. One of the arguments then used was that business men can invoke the Bankruptcy Act to get their obligations adjusted; the farmers have no such recourse. The Act was passed to provide a means of adjustment for bankrupt farmers. I know of cases where farmers with $2 of assets to $1 of liabilities have applied to a board of review, and their case has been commended adjustment made. Was that carrying out the purpose of the Act?"

"At the outset my idea was that if you give a farmer in financial difficulties a chance of getting his position reviewed as provided under the Act, you are going to put fresh courage into him and so keep him on his farm. But the Act has not worked out that way."

It has been stated that this branch of Parliament cannot possibly have a proper view of the matter as compared with the honorable Minister of Finance and the Governor in Council. What did we get in this House a few days ago? On May 25 the honorable leader of the Senate read a memorandum which, among other things, described debt conditions in Prince Edward Island. This is the part to which I refer:

"Now as to Prince Edward Island. This condition of affairs differs from that in almost every other province, in that the great proportion of these farmers' debts is to local merchants, who have taken mortgages on the farmers' property."

I have been in that line of business for forty-five years, and in all my experience I do not know of a single instance where a firm or any other firm took a mortgage as security for a farmer's debt.

"Many of these mortgages have been in existence for several generations, the farmer turning his produce over to the merchant, who, in turn, sold him his supplies. These merchants are violently opposed to any change in an arrangement which, for many generations, has been extremely satisfactory to themselves, but not so satisfactory to the farmer."

Many cases of hardship have been reported in this connection. The following are two sample cases: "The creditor had been charging his debtors 10 per cent interest on his bills, taking cattle, grain or other produce, whether the debtor farmer could spare it or not. It is reported to have allowed these farmers only one-half of the value of such stock and produce as a credit on his bill."

Honorable members, in all my public life I have never heard more ridiculous statement, nor one so utterly false.

Some Hon. Senators: Hear, hear. Hon. Mr. Macdonald: It has no foundation whatever in fact. I do not blame the honorable leader on the other side (Hon. Mr. Dandurand) for that false and ridiculous statement, but I do want to say to the honorable member from Vancouver South (Hon. Mr. Farris), in answer to his statement, that that is the sort of so-called information which the honorable Minister of Finance and the Governor in Council will depend upon when they come to decide whether this Act shall be terminated or not.

What are the facts in that connection? At the present time 90 per cent of the farmers' produce is not sold to the merchants at all. The farmers need not sell $1 worth of their produce to the merchant, for the simple reason that they have all sorts of selling organizations of their own. The farmers are scarcely ever pressed by the merchants for payment of their debts. In fact they have been given too much leeway; the merchants have been too liberal to them. I repeat, the farmers are completely independent of the merchants in marketing their produce. They have live-stock shipping clubs to handle their cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs. They have

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

Protestant Orphanage Review

Almost, daily we read in the press reports of good work being done by one institution or another; the Hospitals, the Red Cross, the Sanatorium and several other worthy undertakings for the betterment of our human family and the care of those in need.

The Protestant Orphanage has been carrying on its work quietly; doing its full part in the care of the unfortunate.

Suitable foster homes have been very difficult to find but there has been no slackening in the number seeking admission.

The average number being cared for is steadily increasing and our highest days total about 68. Many people know and appreciate the difficulties we face. Societies and individuals try to bring pleasure to the children by taking them on outings or providing other enjoyable treats.

Visitors to the Orphanage are always welcome and it is hoped this summer, will bring several in search of a child to adopt and so relieve the possibility of overcrowding.

The interest from our endowment is being of some help in financing but Mrs. H.S. Henderson, head of the finance committee, shoulders the burden of providing the bulk of the money necessary to carry on in face of increasing numbers, with increasing costs. As President of the Ladies' Auxiliaries, she is surrounded by a tireless band of willing workers without whom this institution could not succeed as it has for many years past.

We believe in maintaining the full confidence of the public. To this end our work is an open book. The manner in which the work is conducted demands much from those who are generous minded and it is only fair that they should be kept fully informed.

Caring for a large family is a great responsibility and your chosen trustees give much time and careful study in their best interest. It is not quite fair to treat their appointments like an ordinary election and forget all about it the day after. These trustees need your backing all the year and one good way to show that you appreciate the work they are doing is to attend the annual meeting, get first hand information, get a positive interest and keep it active. Your assistance in whatever capacity will be very acceptable and you yourself will find, as you work for these children, a newer and broader outlook on life.

The annual meeting this year is Friday evening at 7.30 in Zion Hall. Let us meet you there. Let us be united in our efforts for the betterment of the children in need. Let us strive to keep our fair province fair and all the turmoil of a trustless world. The present scope of our institution is far beyond the dreams of the founders and so it may be with the future of the children we are endeavoring to mould today.

$750,000 Claim Is Filed Against Liner

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP)—A $750,000 lien was filed in United States district court against the liner Acadia of the Eastern Steamship Lines by owners of the excursion boat Mandalay which sunk in New York Bay after a collision with the liner.

The petition, on which the lien was based, set forth that on May 28 last, while the Mandalay under care of competent officers and crew in a rolling fog and varying visibility" was at a standstill in the bay, the Acadia proceeding at "high rate of speed" crashed into the Mandalay's starboard side.

The petition noted that the Acadia did not back away until all of the Mandalay's passengers and crew had been taken aboard the liner.

All news correspondents are considered eligible under this rule.

Rule 3.—Any subscriber who is in arrears may compete on condition that the arrears are paid and the subscription renewed to some date in 1939. Such persons should immediately write to or call at the office of Guardian to learn the amount of the arrears payable. If both or all are paid in advance of Dec. 31, 1940 then the money will be divided evenly among those tying for the prize.
