Powell, became the wife of Gunner Robert (Bob) Downe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Downe of Charlottetown. Rev. W. J. Phillips of Milton performed the ceremony which took place in the drawing room, beneath a nicely decorated arch. The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Mrs. (Adj.) Lynch. The bride who descended the stairs on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. Weston Carmody, whom she was given in marriage looked particularly charming in a street length dress of rust crepe with accessories to match, she carried a beautiful bouquet of Talisman roses. Miss Edna Powell attended her sister, she wore green taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of American beauty roses. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Edward Downe. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a yellow gold locket and to the groomsman a gold tie set. After the ceremony a supper was served to relatives and friends, the remainder of the evening was spent in music and songs by Charlie Chamberlain and Russell Downe. Everyone conveyed their best wishes to the bridegroom. Previous to her marriage the bride was tendered several miscellaneous showers at which she received many valuable and useful gifts. The wedding gifts were numerous and valuable; which included a very generous gift from Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. Raymond, now in Halifax.

The gifts of which there was a magnificent display were opened by Miss Kathleen Carter and Miss Louise Bain, while the accompanying verses were read by Miss Ruth Bain. Miss Etta Clow arranged the gifts on the table. Miss Frizzell made a fitting speech and in her own pleasing manner thanked all for their lovely gifts. After singing "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow" the bride-to-be was bounced and showered with confetti from a large baloon which hung from the streamers. After lunch was served the remainder of the evening was spent in social intercourse. Music on the violin was furnished by Mr. Lyman Dunsford and Mr. Francis Doyle and on the guitar by Mr. Charlie MacKinnon, Lloyd Scott and Terris Miller. Golden Wedding Anniversary At Clyde River

A pleasant social evening was spent on Tuesday evening, Nov. 7th at the home of Dr. A. J. and Mrs. Murchison, Clyde River, when the members and adherents of the Presbyterian Church gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Daniel MacDonald on their Golden Wedding anniversary. Mr. MacDonald of Appin Road, married Mrs. MacDonald, nee Miss Christie MacLennan of Hartsville in Boston, Mass., 50 years ago later coming to Clyde River where, excepting for occasional visits to the U. S., they have since resided. Having no family, their niece, Mrs. A. Alison Auld, Kingston spent her early girlhood with them and much regret was felt, that because of her then serious illness she was unable to be present on this happy occasion.

Mr. John MacNevin, Clyde River, who spent part of his boyhood with Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald was also unavoidably absent. Dr. and Mrs. Murchison who have been near neighbors escorted the "bride and groom" to their seats. Mr. Norman MacFadyen, Elder, presided and in a neat speech offered his felicitations. Mrs. Dixon read the address, Mrs. Hugh J. MacLean presented the wedding cake, Miss Jean MacLean, the purse of money, and little Miss Norma MacFadyen very charmingly presented the bouquet to Mrs. MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald to whom the presentation came as a complete surprise feelingly thanked the people for their great kindness. Mrs. MacDonald added her word of thanks to the W. M. S. and to the Dr. and Mrs. Murchison for their kindness down through the years, and also for lending their lovely home for the occasion. After the company sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" Mr. James MacPhail, Meadow Bank, Mr. Alex MacKenzie, Long Creek and the Rev. Mr. Goodwill spoke words of commendation and good wishes. Mr. Goodwill elicited many hearty laughs as he told stories suited to the occasion, in his inimitable way. After congratulation and good wishes, a sing-song of old favorites with Mrs. Fulford Darrach at the piano, and a delicious lunch, the singing of Auld Lang Syne brought this great occasion to a close.

The cake, prettily decorated with white roses golden leave and candles, was cut by the bride assisted by Mrs. Hugh MacLean and Mrs. George Dixon and a piece presented to each one present by Mrs. MacDonald.

Following is the address:

To Daniel and Mrs. MacDonald:—

We, the members and adherents of the Clyde River Presbyterian Church have gathered here this evening, to offer you our congratulations, and best wishes on this, the occasion of the 50th anniversary of your marriage. From Nov. 7th, 1889 to the present is a long time and during this period you naturally have seen many changes both economic and social.

You have seen the miracles science has wrought in every undertaking and calling in life; the marvels of present day communication and transportation when the four corners of the earth are knit so closely that what concerns one, concerns all. You have seen old customs discarded, now ones instituted. Too, you have seen old friends go "down the valley one by one." And all down these years Providence has dealt very kindly with you. You have both been endowed with "sound minds in sound bodies" having had exceptional health and strength. You have also by your industry and thrift prospered materially until now in the eventide of your years you are able to enjoy the fruits of your labors. You have also no doubt experienced trials and discouragements, for dark days will come, but always your innate perseverance and faith have led to better days.

And this evening we have come to tell you how we have learned to esteem and respect you for your true worth and integrity.

In our community, you have always been with us heartily in any worthy enterprise.

In our Church you have been very faithful in the discharge of your religious duties.

In your home you have been hospitable and kindly good to the needy, the sick and the "wayfarer." To the young people reared in your home, you inculcated your splendid principles so that they have been a credit to your teaching and example and have since established happy homes of their own. And on this your golden wedding anniversary we bring your gifts, tokens of our esteem and good will.

To Mrs. MacDonald, the W. M. S. presents this cake and a nosegay of pansies to show that you and your good works are ever in our thoughts. We wish we could have added a sprig of rosemary for remembrance so to help you both, on this great occasion, recall the many precious, worth-while incidents in your long and happy wedded life.

And the Church presents you both with this purse of money to do with as you will. With these we offer every good wish and we pray that Providence may continue to guide and bless and keep you both for many years to come.

On behalf of the Clyde River Presbyterian Church, Dr. Alexander J. Murchison, Senior Elder and Sec'y-Treas.; Hugh J. MacLean, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Mrs. George M. Dixon, Pres. W. M. S.

Sees Fur Trade Continuing On Large Scale

"There is little doubt in my mind that trade for furred skins will continue as heretofore on a large scale," Mr. Jack Ashford, representating Anning, Chadwick & Klever, London, England said last night. It was the "intention of everyone in London as far as possible to carry on in a normal manner and even try to do better than has been the case during the last two or three very difficult years," the speaker continued.

As one example of what was going on in England Mr. Chadwick pointed out many thousands of girls had recently found employment in armament factories and other essential war work. No doubt they would spend some of their earnings on furs, as they did in the last war, the speaker believed. The present price of silver fox skins "will be within their reach, and world fashions will undoubtedly continue to advertise the profound beauty of the skin, and create widespread encouragement to facilitate the sale in numerous quarters."

London auctions would be held throughout the 1939-40 season as advertised, and it was certain the usual quota of foreign orders would be available from South America, France and other countries.

Apples Assume Many Disguises To Win Markets

OTTAWA, Dec. 1—The rosy red apples which have been a symbol of Canada on the United Kingdom market for so many years have adopted many new disguises now that the majority must stay home on the Canadian market.

Boats to carry Canadian goods to Great Britain have been at a premium since the war started and preference is given over apples to less bulky and more concentrated foods. So apple growers, aided by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, have had to devise other schemes to market that part of the apple crop which cannot be sent abroad.

Campaigns to increase home consumption of attractively boxed top grade Canadian apples have proven quite successful, but something had to be done about the left overs. The answer was to process them. Apple pie, apple dumplings, apple turnovers and applesauce have long been staple Canadian diet, and apples in new modes had to be added.

Some 1,125,000 barrels of Nova Scotia apples will be processed this year, it is estimated, and like the surplus of the British Columbia export crop, will go to market through new channels.

Best prospect, it has been found, is in fresh apple juice for the breakfast fruit cocktail or for roadside refreshment stands. If the apple industry could capture half of the Canadian market now devoted to imported fruit juices, the problem of what to do with sub-standard apples would be solved, according to Government experts.

After the juice has been pressed from the apples, the mash that is left at the ratio of six gallons from a barrel of apples can be profitably sold for $3 or $4 a ton as livestock feed. Apple feed for livestock has been found as efficient as the standard fare of mangels for dairy cattle and milk production has not been impaired. Pigs, horses and other animals also thrive on the apple diet.

Apples are effectively dehydrated, and the concentrated apple sold as the familiar "apple rings," as apple concentrate rolled in flat sheets, or ground into a flour for use with grain flour in making apple bread, which has the additional virtue of remaining fresh longer than ordinary bread.

Candied apples satisfies those with a sweet tooth who like apples too, and apple meat has also been successfully made into a confection similar to Turkish delight. Also familiar in candy shops is the apple on a stick dipped into melted candy.
