"CALL NORTHSIDE 777" AT CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE
—Facking a terrific wallop with the head-on impact that only a story free of make-believe and based on tough, unrelenting truth can achieve, Twentieth Century-Fox's "Call Northside 777" emerges as a unique and unforgettable motion picture experience. Yesterday's audience at the Capitol Theatre, where the picture which stars James Stewart is on view, was visibly stirred by its tremendous dramatic power and were filled with a wonder, excitement and deep satisfaction that few pictures

Gorgeous Undies For Men, But No Lace

NEW YORK—Eugene J. Hynes, a bow-tied financier, is out today to get the American male into such "beautiful, gorgeous, riotous" underwear that the ladies will have to do the whole call.

The women, Hynes said, should be his biggest boosters in the project, if they only knew what was good for them.

"They would have dressed their men up long ago," Hynes said. "It's good for their ego. After all that's what makes them better men."

Hynes says the campaign is doing fine already despite the women.

About one-third more are wearing giddy shorts today than were wearing them a year ago, he estimated. Colorful pyjama sales haven't gone up, he said, "because men are still buying the pyjamas."

Hynes doesn't give himself too much credit for the bright color craze however. It's prosperity and leisure that are doing the trick, he said.

The five-day week has got more men into gym and country club locker rooms he, pointed out, "where they really want to show off."

And "while mom was making up her mind whether to buy a longer skirt, pop just went off with scrooching of the money and bought himself some underwear."

Pink, Orange, Lavender

He's buying it in pink orange hunter's green and lavender polka dots. Hynes said, and there's no telling which colors are most popular. But the conservative blues and browns that used to be the only alternatives to white are fading fast.

Hynes is perfectly willing to leave the cut-until-ordinary-conventional city suit—or out in the country.

He didn't even mind when a Saratoga hotel made him put a collar on his fireman's red sports shirt last week.

"We like to wear coats," he said. "That's dress up."

"Anyhow, every waitress in the place whistled."

Farewell Address To Rev. Owen Kiggins

The following address was read by Mr. S. S. Hessian, K.C., on behalf of the parishioners and the presentation was made by Mr. Louis A. MacDonald, son of Mr. Mary MacDonald, wife of the late Lieutenant-Governor A. C. MacDonald, from whom the Parish received its name, Saint Mary's.

The late Mrs. MacDonald was instrumental in starting the building of the Church in Montague.

"We the parishioners of Saint Mary's Parish, Montague, have learned with deep regret that you are to leave us and take up your permanent residence in the neighboring Parish of Georgetown. While we are delighted and grateful that our beloved Bishop has seen fit to give us a resident Priest at the same time we think with sadness and regret of losing you as our Pastor.

"For over a quarter of a century you have laboured faithfully amongst us and have seen this Parish through its present state, which ranks amongst the best in the Province, both spiritually and in numbers. We ask you good Father to forgive us if we have failed in any way to co-operate with you as loyal sons in bringing Saint Mary's up to its present religious state, as we honestly feel this high honour goes to you personally.

"We now cast our minds back over the years and recall your lovable traits both to the young and the aged, in guiding the young and bringing their tender years under the influence of the Holy Spirit. Your faithfulness and devotion in the administration of your high office brought and will bring in future years, peace and comfort to our minds. Your regularity in attending each Sunday offering the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, travelling from Georgetown to Montague, under conditions that would seem almost during the winter months, were fulfilled by you. We will always recall you as our Priest offering the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass on the altar, your kindness to the sick, your wave on the street and more particularly your eloquent sermons, your carefulness in teaching, catechism, your gentleness and prudence to us sinners, your generosity to the poor and unfortunate, and above all your interest and friendliness to all of us under your care, can never be forgotten. We sincerely thank you for your kindness and generosity to our non-Catholic neighbors, especially your work in the Hospital and other matters pertaining to its true religion in driving out bigotry and jealousies and promoting peace and good will for all men. Saint Paul in all his teachings brought no truer message on this point than yourself and which has been spoken of by the people of Montague of all faiths.

"We your loyal sons pray God to grant you many happy and fruitful years of quietness, and now less strenuous work while residing in the neighboring Parish of Georgetown. We your parishioners will always welcome you back to Montague and if at any time you may need assistance we will always be ready and willing to be at your service.

"We ask you to remember us in your prayers, especially in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, and to return promise that we will not forget you in ours.

"As a token of our sincere feelings, we this morning ask you to accept this gift to the Parish of 'Parishioners of Saint Mary's Parish.'

"Louis A. MacDonald, James Cain, Joseph Brothers, Trustees."

Field Day at New London

The New London Illustration Station field day has for many years been looked upon as a social event where one is sure to find friends from far and near.

The station, in charge of Mr. William E. Johnstone, whose farmstead nestles in a beautiful valley, called by the prosaic name of Long River, is surrounded by gently rolling hills, now at their loveliest, in the near distance, with the gold of the grain in arresting contrast to the rich green of the luxuriant vines in the neighboring potato fields.

The great mushroom of a tent, from the Experimental Farm, is pitched beside the beautifully kept lawns with their shrubs and flowers of every hue, and the seats are quickly occupied. The lure, perhaps, is the prospect of education on a pertinent subject, agriculture in many phases, in the midst of delightful surroundings.

On Wednesday last, some 200 men, women and children attended field day at New London and were addressed by Mr. R.C. Parent, Sup't. of the Experimental Farm, Charlottetown and by Mr. W.N. Black, Supervisor of Illustration Stations, who conducted a tour of the farm. Of special interest was a two-acre field of potatoes divided into many small plots for the purpose of testing all kinds and quantities of fertilizing agencies. The permanent pasture adjacent and was found to be in good turf, and providing satisfying grazing, for a large herd of cattle. Mr. Maurice Deacon gave some details of treatment given this field over a period of nearly twenty years.

While the men were viewing the fields, Mrs. H.W. Cuffmore, director of First Aid Swimming and Water Safety, Canadian Red Cross Society, gave a most instructive and timely address on first aid and the prevention of accidents which, she said, was being observed and treated by the patient after the damage was done. With the willing co-operation of several boys, she gave a demonstration of artificial respiration.

With the return of the men, Mr. Black introduced a number of speakers. The Hon. W.F. Alan Stewart spoke briefly and expressed concern over the fact that so many of our girls leave the farms and the province. Mr. H.W. Clay, Senior Livestock Fieldman followed with an account of the advanced registry lists, which in twenty years has brought the breeding stock of the bacon type hog in P.E. Island to such a point of excellence that breeders from all parts of Canada and many of the States are buying their breeding stock here. He deplored the fact that there are not enough interested people in our province to keep most of the breeding stock at home. He stated that a rack of clover hay be kept before sows and growing pigs to maintain health.

Mr. S.C. Scranton, Dominion Poultry Fieldman, gave an interesting talk on poultry raising, and displayed an up-to-date brooder house model.

Dr. J.E. Lattimer of Macdonald College suggested that the letters P.E.I. stand for pretty every thing. He believes that the future is not so dark as it is sometimes painted.

The usual tea hour followed when an abundance of tea, sandwiches and cake were served by the ladies of Long River who are well known for their mastery of the culinary art. This year the proceeds will be used for school improvement. — Bur.

to his long years as Parish Priest and thanked the parishioners for their kindness and gift.
