

For Sunburned Skin

In the glorious outdoor life of summer there is one thing that will add greatly to your comfort—Penslar Vanishing Face Cream.

It is by far the most delightful of "summer" creams—a certain protection against sunburn and windburn and certain relief if applied to the already sun-burned skin.

It is also used as a foundation cream just before the application of face powder. You will find many other uses for it, once you become acquainted with this exquisite product of the Penslar laboratories. Try a 25 cent jar to prove the quality—ask at our Penslar Store. No other store has it.

TRICKS OF THE TYPES

Indignant Caller—See here, what do you mean by printing in your paper that my wife and I arrived from abroad "very ragged looking" and that we were "well known in police circles"?

THE GOOD OLD U. C. C

By one interested in the Union Commercial College.

Far above the din and bubble, Of the city's noise and strife, Stands the College that has fitted, Many a youth for active life; Stands the stately Alma Mater, Dear alike to you and me, Standing pointing onward, upward, Proudly forth the U. C. C.

Now this grand institution, Needs not me to spread its fame, For its great success has for it Won alike renown and fame. As a mighty stream proceedeth From an humble, lowly source, And goes rushing on to power, Gaining grandeur in its course, So this College when first founded Occupied no brilliant hall Claimed no generous benefactor, Was inferior and small. But, by dint of patient labor, Honesty and manly zeal, It has come to be a power, And its influence hundreds feel. And 'tis now no simple College, Carried on for sordid gain, But a glorious house of learning, Which would listless disdain. Teaching not alone mere business, But endeavoring to inspire Each young heart with sterling manhood, Which leads on to something higher.

From far and near our students come, To attend the U. C. C. To maintain their rights and ever more Her followers to be. They come from town, from village and farm And from wherever they may. Come some of the truest and bravest hearts, To follow the red and grey. But whether they love the bonnie Scotch heather, Or whether their hearts beat ever true, To the Stars and Stripes the white, When all attending the U. C. C. And being her followers gay, They're united in one band of student-ship By the colors—red and grey. In town and city far and near, Our graduates you'll see, The ones in demand are the ones who learned At the good old U. C. C.
