USE OF HORSE BY POLICEMEN NOW DECLINES

(By The Canadian Press)
KINGIA, Oct. 30.—One of the first requirements of the early mounted policeman, that he be a skilled rider and able to spend 18 to 20 hours in the saddle, is daily becoming of less importance.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters, recognizing the modernization in skilled police organization, may soon remove equitation from the syllabus of recruits, and substitute a special mounted section in which certain selected men will be trained in mounted drill and stable management.

The move is proposed because of the large amount of time at present allotted to riding in the recruit six-months course; time which officials feel could be better employed on more necessary subjects. Under the proposed arrangement some recruits will take mounted duties, while others will be trained in the newest methods of travel.

However, there is no intention of dispensing with the horse as an aid to police work. Major General Sir J. H. MacEwen, commissioner, stated in his report, "that there is absolutely no intention whatever of dispensing altogether with the mounted man. A well trained mounted unit is invaluable to any force which may have to deal with unruly crowds."

The report shows that at present the R. C. M. P. carry 388 saddle horses, while the strength, 19 team horses, 411 passenger cars, 34 motorcycles, 19 motor trucks, 3 railway gas cars, and 413 sleigh dogs. The force also operates 11 cruisers and 8 patrol boats in preventive service in the eastern and western coasts.

Alpha Rebekah Lodge Celebrate 39th Birthday

A large attendance of the members of Alpha Rebekah Lodge No. 10, I. O. O. F., were present Tuesday evening in connection with the 39th anniversary of the Lodge.

The lodge room had been tastefully decorated. The regular business of the lodge was first attended to and a very interesting program was presented including an address of welcome by the Noble Grand, Miss Ethel Sutherland; vocal solos by Miss Jean Fraser and Mrs. L. H. Howatt; a short history of the Lodge by Mrs. A. J. Houle, Past President; and a short presentation "The Three Links" was nicely done.

A beautiful silver cup was presented to the degree staff from Mrs. M. P. Harrington, Past President, of Bridgewater, N. S., in recognition of the splendid work done during the sessions held here in August.

The presentation was made by the D. D. President, Mrs. Preston Sentner and accepted by the degree captain, Mrs. Jean Crockett, and Mr. Angus McEachern, who then presented them to the Noble Grand to be held by the Lodge.

Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Harrington for her kindness in sending this beautiful cup an expression of her regard for her home lodge, and its team.

A telegram of best wishes was also received from Mrs. Harrington.

At the conclusion of the business of the lodge, refreshment was served and the sisters, dressed in white preceded by the presiding officers escorted the birthday cake into the lodge room, and the Noble Grand cut the cake, which looked very dainty with pink and green candles.

This was one of the most successful birthday socials yet held and the committee under the sponsorship of Mrs. Jas. Campbell were complimented on the splendid manner in which arrangements were carried out.

The Common Bond

BEING THE POPULAR REPORT OF THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY FOR 1935.

The title of this report is very suggestive, the Bible, "The Common Bond" between the British and Foreign Bible Society, the Rev. John A. Pattee, M.C., M.A., Literary Superintendent of the British and Foreign Bible Society, has very effectively told the story of its work during another year, tracing the history of the Bible as "The Common Bond" through the ages. His chapters are entitled: "The Bond of the Translated Word"; "Servants of the Common Bond"; "The Power of the Bible"; "Our Share in the Enterprise".

There are many literary allusions and extracts from relevant prose and poetry. Perhaps nowhere is there a better parallel tracing of the Bible amidst diverse peoples than the experience the Society has had in its distribution in the Dominion of Canada. The book tells of the gracious ministry carried on for a long year by the Society in Canada and Newfoundland, and the following extract gives some intimation of how the presentation of a portion of Scripture makes a common bond in a Dominion where at least 100 different languages are spoken today:

"Not very long ago a secretary was speaking in a large Mennonite meeting in Saskatchewan, and in the course of his address mentioned Russia. He noticed an old man in the front, and when his beloved land was mentioned the tears coursed down his cheeks. One of those at the meeting he told the secretary the moving story of how he had left his Bible behind amongst his Mennonite brethren in Russia, for he knew they could not read it. And then he added a tribute to the Society as he told in broken English of going up the ramp in Saint John and being presented by an agent of the Society with a Gospel in his mother tongue, and then he knew he had entered a land where the Bible could be read, and where he would have freedom to worship God."

Very interesting reference is made in the book to the jubilee celebrations and to the daily practice of King George in reading a chapter from the Bible in accordance with a promise made years ago to Queen Victoria. The following is an extract from the hymn, "We Praise Thee O Lord, our King":

"We praise Thee O Lord, our King, who through a mining disaster, finds comfort and strength from the Book."

All through the report there runs the note of certainty that in spite of all appearances to the contrary, the Bible is and may increasingly become, a bond of brotherhood and peace for all the nations. Stress is laid on the necessity to strengthen this "Common Bond" by the wider circulation of the Scripture in every language, and the Society, in the name of a needy world, appeals for the prayers, the service, and the gifts of Christian people.

Regular Report certainly maintains the standard of excellence set by its predecessors, and gives further proof of the ability of its gifted author.

TAILLESS HENS EXHIBITED

DOUGLAS, Oct. 30.—There was a large attendance at the annual show of the Isle of Man Agricultural Society held here, and visitors showed special interest in a breed of tailless hens, exhibited in the poultry section and in fallow cats, which differ from ordinary cats not only because they are rumpy but because their forelegs are longer than their forelegs. They are renowned as being good ratters.

Police pounced on the cache but no arrests were made.

CATTLE KILLED BY TRAIN

The cow catcher of the Borden-Charlottetown express lived up to its name last night when it hurled two straggling heifers and a cow from the tracks between Hunter River and North Wilshire, preventing a serious accident. Police reported yesterday that George Hughes had heard cries for help coming from the waterfront near Bruce Stewart's wharf Monday night. ### POTATO SHIPMENTS

A larger quantity of table stock potatoes has moved this season than during a corresponding time last year. The price to the farmers here remains quiet firm at 35 cents a bushel. Practically no seed has yet been moved. Turnips have eased up this week. The price now quoted is 12 cents a bushel. Prince Edward Island's total yield of tubers is only about 60 per cent of last year's crop it was learned, due to a poorer crop and a decreased acreage.

New Yorkers In The Money

JOINT ACTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 30

Adolph Marlowich is going to quit digging graves—his wife won $17,000 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, she learned today.

"Now Adolph, my husband, won't have to dig any more graves," Mrs. Marlowich, 70, said. "He's been a grave-digger in Flushing Cemetery for years. But it's had for his rheumatism. I'll take him to a good doctor and see if he can't cure it."

For Mr. and Mrs. William G. Schubert, Jr., their $49,000 ticket will provide a new car, the honeymoon trip they didn't have time to take after their wedding three years ago, and a tidy sum for savings.

Louis Rabinowitz, furrier, was told he won $147,000.

"I'm going to set up a trust fund for my children's education, and I'm going to invest some more money in this business," he said.

Leo Weitz, 45, dealer in rare books, is going to buy a long cherished "Tom Sawyer" edition and expand his business. His ticket won $49,000.

In all 10 residents of the metropolitan area won $1,025,000 on the three winners—Commander H. J. Man's Pal, and Finalist who placed in that order.

Toronto Doctor Undisturbed By Good Fortune

TORONTO, Oct. 30

— Good fortune which came to Dr. Herbert H. Murray by holding an Irish hospital sweepstakes ticket, on Finalist, which finished third in the Cambridge bridge stakes at Newmarket, England, today, will not change the physician's plans, he said.

After taking a short vacation, Dr. Murray will continue his medical practice. "My job is taking care of sick people and I've got plenty of them," he said, adding that now he had "a little money" he would not have to press his poorer patients for payment.

The value of the ticket will be about $49,100 but Dr. Murray sold a half-interest to a New York party whom he declined to name. He said he was not excited when he heard the news that Lady Hall's horse had finished third in the classic because he had intended to carry on his business anyway.

SHEEP DOG TRIALS

THRILL ONLOOKERS

(By The Canadian Press)
MOOSE JAW, Oct. 30.—The pick of Saskatchewan's sheep dogs, nine in number, vied for first honors here at the province's feeder show and thrilled 2,000 interested spectators with a performance almost uncanny in its intelligence and understanding.

First, second, and third prizes all went to dogs owned and trained by one man, veteran William Martin of Maple Creek, Sask. Mr. Martin handled his own dogs during the trials.

The dogs were loosed one at a time at one end of a large field. A quarter of a mile distant lurked a group of five uncertain, aimlessly wandering sheep. It was the dog's job to round up the sheep and place them in the pen where their master stood, after forcing them through two narrow gates. Each dog was allowed 20 minutes.

The dogs accomplished the feat almost faultlessly, training, teasing, and nipping the heels of their charges until they were safely placed in the pens. Although some took longer than others in the end all were successful and gave a surprising display of painstaking training.

and Italy might make a quick attack together upon France, defeating her before Britain could expand her army and get help from the Dominions.

"The Mediterranean would become an Italian lake and France's eastern European allies would be unable to fight alone and would have to surrender," he said. "When Britain got ready, the war would have ended on the continent."

British circles said it was possible that Eden, who was scheduled to reach Paris tonight, would leave a copy of his "basis" for an Italo-Ethiopian settlement with Laval, but this was uncertain as he had intended to go straight to Geneva without talking to the French Premier. These circles thought the first real discussion of a settlement would come in the meeting of Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary at Geneva.

"The Emperor hasn't been badly enough beaten yet to be ready to accept the suggested basis," they said, "and Mussolini isn't sufficiently discouraged with the Ethiopian prospect to take the middle course for peace."

It was explained Mussolini submitted a peace plan to Laval two weeks ago, but it was refused in London. Then, it was said, British and French experts devised a plan which is the basis of the draft Eden is taking to Geneva, "with slight changes."

The report abroad that Laval was preparing a Fascist coup with the help of Francois de la Rocque was described as "purely fantastic and groundless in the names of the Chamber of Deputies and in the Premier's own office."

ROME, Oct. 30 (G. P. News)— Great Britain wants a second division of Italian troops removed from the Libyan-Egyptian border as proof of Premier Mussolini's peaceful intentions. It was reported here tonight, while Italy was believed little disposed to any new conciliatory gesture until the British have withdrawn some warships from the Mediterranean.

Il Duce and Sir Eric Drummond, British Ambassador to Rome, had a long conference yesterday.

The belief was expressed in informed quarters that Mussolini is willing to consider a peaceful

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—The $1,000,000 Toronto Island tunnel, as well as other projects authorized at the last session of Parliament, has now become an object of investigation and review. While the new government is looking into these projects, work will be stopped.

Hon. P. J. A. Gardin, Minister of Public Works, said today he had given instructions for work on the Toronto tunnel to cease. Also work had been stopped on the $855,000 records building at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa. These are the largest jobs thus far affected by "a general policy of retrenchment" of the Liberal administration, but public buildings at other points, it is believed, will also be held up. In discussing the Toronto tunnel today the Minister of Public Works declared no discrimination against any locality or province would be permitted. The Toronto project involved a large expenditure of public money. The new government had decided it was advisable to look into such projects. Precedents existed for taking such action.

There will be no delay in looking into the Toronto project, Mr. Gardin stated.
