THE LATE MOTHER ST. AGNES

Friends throughout the city and more especially former pupils will regret to learn of the death of Mother St. Agnes of the Cross, B. A. B. L., which occurred at the Mother House, Congregation de Notre Dame, Montreal on Saturday last, where she had gone some weeks ago for medical treatment.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. Patrick Clarkin who for a number of years conducted a coal business with his brother, and Mrs. Clarkin and was one of two daughters, a sister Mrs. M. Morrissey residing in Earncliffe.

Mother St. Agnes, after completing her school education at Notre Dame Academy entered Prince of Wales College where she took two years studies in one year.

After securing her diploma she taught school for a time after which she entered the Novitiate in Montreal and after taking her final vows was sent to Notre Dame Academy where she taught for a time, after which she was transferred to Westmount, Montreal, and later to Waterbury, Conn., in each convent teaching the graduation classes.

While in Montreal Mother St. Agnes studied for her degree of B. A. and B. L., which were conferred on her while there. Later she was transferred to St. Joseph's convent here where she taught in Rochford Square School until ill health forced her to curtail her work. Finally she was advised to go to Montreal for treatment where it was found necessary for her to undergo an operation from which she failed to recover.

To her bereaved mother and sister The Guardian extends heartfelt sympathy.

but memories of his sojourn in the Dominion Capital. His visit to Ottawa served a high purpose, for while it was in the nature of a family call, it enabled leading Canadians to hear from the lips of Ramsay MacDonald himself the story of what was accomplished at his conferences with President Hoover in Washington; it gave Mr. MacDonald opportunity to ascertain the Canadian point of view on a variety of subjects of vital importance to the Empire and it served to show that Canada is recognized as one of the foremost nations of the world.

was as follows:— 1. Hark, Hark, the Lark, Schubert-Liszt—Mr. Horace McEwen.

(a) On Wings of Song, Mendelssohn. (b) Passing by, Old English.

(c) Ave Marie, Bach-Gounod—Mrs. Kenneth Richards.

3. Vissi d'arte (Prayer of Tosca), Puccini—Mrs. Kenneth Richards.

4. Scherzo in B Flat Minor, Chopin—Mr. Horace McEwen.

5. Keys of Heaven (Old English country air), Unknown—Mrs. Richards and Mr. Chas. Earle.

6. (a) Trees, Rasbach. (b) Slumber Boat, Gaynor.

(c) Lindy Lou (d) Little Banjo, Dichmont—Mrs. Kenneth Richards. Miss Gwynneth Coombs and Miss Lillian Earle, accompanists.

God Save The King In the first group of songs sung by Mrs. Richards, perhaps the most enjoyed by the audience, was the Bach-Gounod Ave Marie. The melody of this is written over the harmonic background of the first prelude in the "Well Tempered Clavichord" of J. S. Bach. This composition is, with slight changes played on the piano as accompaniment. The rendition of this, as also of Mrs. Richards' final encore number, the hymn "Softly now the light of day," to a musical setting by Carl Van Weber was in that spirit of devout simplicity so befitting their character.

In the "Vissi d'arte" from Tosca Mrs. Richards' dramatic talent had full scope. The result was a reading of the Aria such as few in the province have ever been privileged to hear.

The final group of songs comprised some very lovely pieces in a quieter vein. "Slumber Boat," a delightful little lullaby, appealed very strongly to this listener.

Mrs. Richards also favored the audience with very delightful encore numbers. Among these were the familiar and well loved songs, "Cumin' thru the Rye," "The Last Rose of Summer" and "The Rosary," which latter, though often heard, took on, as interpreted by this artist, new and higher values. One of the most interesting of her offerings also appeared as an encore number. It was "Spinn, Mein Kleine Tochter," a 14th century German folk song.

The song, "Keys of Heaven," Old English) was delightfully sung by Mrs. Richards and Mr. Charles Earle. Mr. Earle was in splendid voice and has never been heard to better advantage than in this and his two encore numbers, "De Master of de Sheepfold" and "The Gallant Salamander."

Like Mr. Earle, Mr. Horace McEwen is well and most favorably known to Charlottetown audiences. His playing of the Chopin Scherzo in particular was fine indeed and shows that this young man has a brilliant musical future before him, should he pursue that line of endeavour.

Miss Gwynneth Coombs and Miss Lillian Earle furnished most sympathetic accompaniments to the vocalists.

At the close of the programme Rev. H. D. Raymond expressed the thanks of the Ladies Aid of the Prince Edward Island Hospital to Miss Richards and the other artists who had so kindly given the entertainment which was held under their auspices. He also thanked Mr. George DeRiols for having placed at their disposal, the fine grand pianoforte, which was used throughout the evening.

Mr. McLure, who received an enthusiastic ovation on his arrival at the meeting, said the convenors, the delegates and the electors in general should feel proud of such a wonderful convention. In accepting the nomination he wished to assure his hearers that not only did he appreciate the confidence placed in him but he would endeavor to retain it by conscientious work and by co-operation with his electors.

"The Conservative party," continued Mr. McLure, "is a party founded on true democracy. Therefore, by the co-operation of delegates, electors and candidates we can have a voice in framing the policy of the Conservative party, which will be the policy of Canada. The highest aim of our party is to do the best we can in Federal politics for the Dominion as a whole; and it is up to the electors to see that the candidates they have chosen as representatives do their duty faithfully and intelligently. It is all the work of the organization, of the delegates from the different polls representing the party, to make it possible that every man and woman of voting age in this riding shall have an opportunity of becoming a member of the Conservative party."

"I desire on this occasion to pay a tribute to the leader of our party, the Hon. R. B. Bennett. Few men in America today are endowed with the intellectual gifts that he has; few men have his wonderful personality and business experience. As one member of the Conservative party I adhere to the principles that Mr. Bennett has expounded throughout Canada; and I believe as the present indications show, that he will be leader of the Government of this Dominion after the next election. (Applause.)"

"There is one thing that always strikes me with regard to Federal politics," continued Mr. McLure, "and that is the importance of the trade or tariff issue. That has always been and will continue with both parties to be the big issue, because it deals with basic economic principles. I have often thought of the tariff in this way: We all know it takes a certain amount of overhead expense to run our country; according to the Canadian Year Book it takes twenty per cent of all our production to run Canada. That is to say, twenty per cent of our mineral production, our farms and fisheries, etc. So that out of every 100 bushels of wheat or potatoes, or every 100 dozen of eggs, twenty per cent goes, directly or indirectly, for the upkeep of the country, leaving the farmer with 80 out of every 100 bushels which he produces. And with his 80 bushels he must compete with the 100 bushel production of the farmer coming in from other countries. All that we ask is fair competition in our market, and this we have a right to expect even if it takes a twenty per cent tariff on products coming into the country to equalize matters. (Applause.) You may argue the tariff question; you may talk high tariff or low tariff, tariff for revenue or tariff for protection, but our home market must be protected for our own producers. The best markets we can have are the markets that we build up at home. After all, if we are good citizens we are both consumers and producers. The laborer has his labor to sell, and if he gets a fair value he is in a position to buy from the farmers their products at a reasonable price. Thus one man is dependent on another, and the more we build up a market in our own country and the more employment we have for labor the better for all concerned."

Mr. McLure concluded by again thanking the convention and assuring them that the Conservative party under Hon. Mr. Bennett would undoubtedly be returned to power if the present enthusiastic gathering was any indication of the co-operation and assistance which the Conservative candidates might expect during the next election campaign.

Hon. Mr. Stewart.

Hon. J. D. Stewart, K. C., leader of the Conservative party in the Province, was received with cheers and applause as he rose to speak. "To one who, like myself, for many years has had the heat of political battle in his nostrils, it is a pleasure greater than I can express to stand on this platform and see before me this sea of Conservative faces," he said feelingly.

Mr. Stewart declared that he could personally vouch for both the gentlemen nominated. Mr. Myers as Minister of Agriculture in the Government which the speaker had the honor to lead, had distinguished himself both in debate and in the administration of his department. "The only evil thing he ever did, to my knowledge," Mr. Stewart continued, "was to desert me for the Federal field. I can assure you I felt the loss very keenly at the time; but as a Conservative soldier I realized that wherever his position he would serve under the same colors and with the same objects in view." The speaker referred particularly to Mr. Myers' genial personality and to his recognized ability as an outstanding platform speaker.

In Mr. McLure, continued Mr. Stewart, the party has a business man, first, last and all the time. This is a business age. The man who gets things done is the man of value both in public and private life. The ideal candidate today is the man who has the reputation of always putting things over; and we all know that Mr. McLure has that reputation. His political experience in the local Legislature will serve him in good stead, he having proved himself a most capable and efficient representative of the metropolitan constituency of Charlottetown.

Mr. Stewart then proceeded to discuss organization matters, laying particular stress on this important phase of activity. He concluded with an eloquent tribute to Hon. Mr. Bennett as leader of the Conservative party and to the future of Canada under the sane and progressive policies which that party has advocated.

Confidence in Mr. Bennett. The following resolution, moved by Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, M.L.A., was carried unanimously:

WHEREAS this Dominion of Canada is approaching another dissolution of Parliament, when the policies of the two great parties will again be placed before the people;

AND WHEREAS the effect of the policy of the Government now in power has been detrimental to the best interests of Canada, as indicated by the continued exodus of the youth of this country to the United States; by the increasing drain upon our natural resources and the loss to Canadian industry through the export of raw materials, fabricated abroad and reshipped into Canada under low tariff duties, and by the failure of the Government to protect Canadian agricultural interests against unfair competition in the home market at a time when prohibitive tariffs are being raised against Canadian producers;

AND WHEREAS the Mackenzie King Government has failed to implement fully the terms of the Duncan Report, has unjustly discriminated against the Eastern Provinces in the matter of Old Age Pensions, and has otherwise sacrificed the interests of these Provinces to political exigencies;

RESOLVED that we, Conservatives of Queen's County in Convention assembled reaffirm our confidence in the principles and policy of the great Conservative party under the leadership of Mr. Bennett, and our belief that Canada's future prosperity lies in his early return to power.

Dr. MacMillan, in a brief address, warmly supported the candidates nominated and paid a high tribute to their ability and integrity.

Mr. Donald MacKinnon, K. C., called upon, was equally enthusiastic. He thanked the representatives who had asked him to allow his name to be placed before the convention. He had declined to do so, and now felt very well satisfied in the nominations which had been made.

Provincial Leadership. The following resolution, moved by Lieut. J. J. McDonald, Glenfinnan, was carried unanimously:

WHEREAS the present Liberal administration in this Province has utterly failed to implement the solemn promises on which it was elected to power in 1927, and has proven itself negligent and incompetent in safeguarding the interests of the Province and in the administration of public affairs generally;

AND WHEREAS under the Premiership of the Hon. J. D. Stewart, K. C., the pre-election pledges of the Conservative party were faithfully carried out, law and order prevailed, and the various departments of Gov-

The Welsh Singers

AN APPRECIATION

By Gladys Bell Owen

The celebrated Welsh Imperial Singers paying their third visit to Prince Edward Island shores, submitted a program of notable excellence in their appearances at Summerside on Saturday and Sunday evenings. The large audiences assembled from town and neighboring sections were rewarded with music that for perfection of balance, exquisite nuance and genuine expressive power represented the pinnacle of artistry. It seemed to one that a closer approach to an ideal achievement would be difficult of attainment from merely human voices.

Under the distinguished directorship of R. Festyn Davies these artists (individually great) have developed that admirable co-ordination which has made this ensemble the most enchanting of units.

If any one number be isolated for special praise one might choose their moving interpretation of Sullivan's "Lost Chord," or the beautifully chiselled performance of "Sleep, Fair Lady, Sleep." But the variety of items given was judged to suit all tastes.

Artistic perception is undoubtedly as sensitive here as elsewhere and the sponsors of these programs are to be congratulated in bringing to their Island doors this great festival of musical art.

Mr. Stewart then proceeded to discuss organization matters, laying particular stress on this important phase of activity. He concluded with an eloquent tribute to Hon. Mr. Bennett as leader of the Conservative party and to the future of Canada under the sane and progressive policies which that party has advocated.
