Great Hospital Drama At Prince Edward

A dramatic story of love and tense emotions in the life of a great metropolitan hospital between two women opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre, with Franchois Tone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Virginia Bruce in the leading roles.

The story was an original, based on actual observations by Erich Von Stroheim, one of the most colorful characters in Hollywood, formerly a noted director.

Tone is excellent in the role of an ambitious young interne. Miss Bruce is an heiress who goes to the hospital as a patient and falls in love with him. Miss O'Sullivan appears as a nurse, unhappily married, who secretly loves the interne herself.

Doctor and heiress marry and their union is a failure. She concentrates on another man, also a doctor. Tone knows that he loves the nurse. Then her husband is brought in, an emergency case. If he lives, they will be separated forever. Should he die, the way is open to them for happiness. Tone operates and saves his life.

The story is strengthened by effective backgrounds and realistic atmosphere. The players are at their best, without exception. The supporting cast are Edith Edwards, as a reporter, Helen Troy as a telephone operator, Janet Beecher, Broadway stage star, as head nurse, Leonard Penn, actor-husband of Gladys George, as a plastic surgeon, and Charley Grapewin, Grace Ford, June Clayworth, Edward Norris, Anthony Nace and Hugh Marlowe.

CHRISTMAS CLOSING AT THE CHARLOTTETOWN BUSINESS COLLEGE BUSINESS TRAINING DEPARTMENT

In presenting a report of the work accomplished by the students of the Business Training Department of the Charlottetown Business College up to this period in the term, the results have been taken from tests submitted from time to time, and in many cases do not reflect the full knowledge or correct standing of the student. The month of December is necessarily a much broken month, where so many have to skip tests and examinations because of Christmas employment. Many who entered at the beginning of the term (Sept.) completed the Short Business Training Course early in December and were allowed to enter the Shorthand and Typewriting Departments, to take their final examinations with the large number who have now completed their work in this department. This practice causes students to keep their work up-to-the-minute. Under our system where a student is taught to very carefully consider every negotiation he enters into, it is wonderful to notice how quickly the most timid-at-first-become self-reliant. Such is the result of ACTUAL BUSINESS PRACTICE, where you gain a practical knowledge of accounting and salesmanship.

A test was given on Trial Balances, Proving and Closing the Ledger and Classification of Accounts, with the following result:
