PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Ended by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fusilier, Sask.—"For two or three days every so often I would have such pains in my back and sides that I could not do anything—could not even lie quietly in bed, and my head ached, too. I was this way about three years, but was worse after I was married. I was on a farm with not a horse nearer than five miles and there was not a person to advise me, as my folks live in Manitoba. My sister-in-law told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took her advice and have been thankful for it ever since. After taking the medicine for three months I can say it has helped me a lot and I am doing fine. I am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to others and you may publish my testimonials."—Mrs. HELEN BALANOFF, Fusilier, Saskatchewan.

Often some slight trouble will cause a general upset of the system. Such symptoms as nervousness, painful times, irregularity, backache and headache indicate some form of female weakness. Women so bothered should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. This dependable medicine has helped thousands of women and it is reasonable to expect that it will help you. Try it today. Your druggist sells this medicine.

F. O. Lowden Traces Ease Of Farmers To Crop Failure Abroad

(United Press.) CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—If the success of American agriculture depends upon the failure of crops either at home or abroad, it hangs by a very slender thread. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, said in an address today before the Inland Daily Press Association and told that because of improved conditions in the wheat belt and in those portions of the corn belt where the farmers have raised a normal crop, "we are too prone to say that the farmer's troubles are over." Mr. Lowden declared, pointing out that the better prices for wheat and corn were due principally to the virtually complete or partial failure of these crops in other sections.

"It will be better not only for agriculture but better for the country, if we face the fact and admit that there is a real problem waiting for solution more important than any other domestic problem we have," Mr. Lowden asserted. "We are coming to recognize that we have a farm problem, which in itself is a decided gain for when we admit its existence, we already are on the way to its solution. The business and financial world underestimated the injury that American agriculture received.

"The American farmer produces more than eight times as much as does the farmer of other lands. This has largely been possible by the culture, and this in turn has made possible the phenomenal industrial growth of the country. It is clear that without commercialized agriculture the whole mighty fabric of our industrial and national life would fall.

"We may assume commercialized agriculture has come to stay. Agriculture, then, must conform to the economic laws and limitations which control the other portions of our commercial structure. One of these is that production must be adjusted to compensation. Only through organization can this result be achieved, because only through organization does progress come. In the modern world, the farmer alone has been the last to realize the value of organization for his own sake. In all other industries the marketing problem has been the problem stressed for a generation, yet in the marketing of farm products the producer has been content with the methods of a century ago.

"In all other industries, Mr. Lowden continued, there has been a growing tendency to stabilize prices, and if the farmers are to put themselves upon terms of equality with the great industries of the country, they too must organize. "It is not desirable or necessary that in doing so they imitate the great industries," he added.

Those who oppose the principle of co-operative marketing, Mr. Lowden said, think that in some way the associations are seeking to avoid the operation of the law of supply and demand. "Quite the reverse is true. The laws of supply and demand extending over a series of years, in fixing what the political economists call the normal price, still obtain. To fix the market price fairly, that law is effective only with free competition on both sides. There must be equality of understanding on the part of buyers and sellers before this law can operate successfully."

—INTERESTING EVENT.—On Monday evening, Oct. 13, 1924, a miscellaneous shower and dance was given at the home of Mrs. Daniel O'Hanley, St. Peter's Bay, in honor of Miss Mary McInnis, of Cable Head, who is one of the principals in a pleasant event which takes place Wednesday of this week. At 9.30 a large table, heavily laden with presents, including money, aluminum, china, silver, bedding and linen, proved the high esteem in which the bride-to-be is held by the people of St. Peter's and surrounding district. A handsome parlor clock was also presented by the boys of St. Peter's Bay. While Miss Blanche Warren, who presided at the organ, played "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," the bride was led into the sitting room by Miss Lavina Morris and Miss Mary Whitty, where the presents were opened, and the verses thereof (many of which provoked hearty laughter) read. After the serving of a dainty lunch by the ladies of the district, the kitchen was cleared away, and dancing was indulged in until "late in the morning." Excellent music was furnished throughout the whole evening by Messrs. Harry and Lewis McEwen, James Lewis and Ronnie McInnis. (Patriot please copy.)

Russian Baroness Tells of Her Experience

(Canadian Press) WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 15.—The Baroness de Hueck, a refugee member of the Russian nobility, now living in Toronto, in a lecture here on Sketches in Russia told of her own harrowing experiences. On one occasion her husband, she said, was taken from their home with the parting information that "in six hours he would be brought back—dead". He was saved, however, by the intervention of a friend of his who had a position of authority with the Red forces.

"When Great Britain sent an expedition against the Bolsheviks," said the lecturer, "I joined them as nurse and interpreter, and when the expedition came home I came with them and have since lived in Canada." The Baroness explained she was interested in the question of Russian refugees, immigrants in Canada. With her husband she has been instrumental in bringing about 30, and they were hopeful of attracting more. Those who had come had chiefly settled in Ontario. They were members of the Russian nobility mostly, and were all highly educated and took a serious view of the question of Canadian citizenship. She had organized a Russian church in Toronto and was organizing a library and clinic. The Baroness, who on the platform wears the costume of a Russian noble lady of the Czarist days, paid tribute to the Canadian people in the east for the great help they had given her in her work.

Women's Work Exhibit At Calgary

(Canadian Press) CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 15.—During the next few months Calgary women will be urged to bend all their energies toward the assembling of one of the most representative exhibits of women's work ever held in Canada. The fact that next year will see the celebration of Calgary's 50th anniversary, when everything that is a larger and better scale than in previous years, has prompted this movement to improve the women's section, which has received the unanimous endorsement of the societies affiliated with the Local Council of Women, under whose auspices the plan will be carried out. Far more important than the showing of prize bread, delectable preserves, art needlework or handpainted china, is the display of such things as go to show the intellectual cultural and spiritual progress made in the province since settlement began, attributable in most instances to efforts of brave, earnest women. Officers have recently returned from the United States and England where they observed modern methods of control.

Already in Berlin the police have instituted reforms, but as the officers entrusted with traffic control are inexperienced, the first effects have been a decided slowing down of pedestrians and motor traffic on crossings in the central section of the city, and much dissatisfaction.

Starts Out On Three Year Hike

(Canadian Press) HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 14.—With the aim before her of visiting the majority of the capitals of the world, Miss Nell A. Walker of Los Angeles, California, arrived in the city after a long covered on foot over 5,000 miles of a hike which will take at the very least two or three years to complete. To date she has visited capitals from Mexico to Quebec. Brown-eyed and bobbed-haired, with her hair and dressed by life in the open, she is in favor of walking as a health-giving exercise for her sex. Attired in neat khaki knickers and coat, with a red silk bandana around her neck, she carries a leather pack, weighing with its contents, about 20 pounds, slung over her back. "There is no use in my carrying a gun, for men are afraid of me," said Miss Walker, laughingly, "and on many occasions when I request a lift make no answer and speed up their horses to make quick time out of the vicinity."

German Motorists Talk Back To Cops On Traffic Duty

(United Press)

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—Germans are the greatest "jay-walkers" in Europe. Automobiles have been so few in the larger German cities, and for the most part the streets are so broad, that pedestrians have paid little attention to traffic. Accommodating drivers have limited their speed and movements to suit the public, which walked all over the streets. But the times are changing. With the stabilized mark motor cars are appearing in large numbers, and the German cities have been forced to study methods practiced abroad in controlling traffic. Several police officers have recently returned from the United States and England where they observed modern methods of control.

Already in Berlin the police have instituted reforms, but as the officers entrusted with traffic control are inexperienced, the first effects have been a decided slowing down of pedestrians and motor traffic on crossings in the central section of the city, and much dissatisfaction.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are pleasant to take, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or the price direct to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat. You can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tireless exercise and starvation diet with fearful effects. Get a box and start getting slender now.

Lawyers of World Call For Program Of Peace

(United Press)

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 15.—International good will peace, and increased cooperation are reflected in the proposals and decisions of the International Law Association congress held here recently, attended by 400 delegates representing 20 different countries. One of the most important recommendations of the congress calls for a more humane treatment of prisoners of war, protecting them under international law, preventing exploitation by forced labor, and providing for control of their treatment by a neutral power.

The aerial defense committee of the congress worked out and submitted a bill for a new law stipulating legitimate objects for attack by air forces, and forbidding aerial warfare with the object of terrorizing the civil population. Sir John Fisher-Williams, of England, called upon all law experts in the world for a thorough revision of the international law in the interests of peace in order to form a new basis for international intercourse. A committee was appointed by the congress to work out these principles.

Castiglioni Affair

(Special to Guardian) VIENNA, Oct. 15.—The decision in the Castiglioni affair has again been postponed. The situation, however, is considered more pessimistic than a few days ago when the Italian bank group, of whom Castiglioni counted, appear to have retired from the scene of action.

In this connection the wireless reports are being spread in stock Exchange circles. A sign of the influence of Castiglioni in the financial world is the rapid falling of quotations in the last few days. It is reported that Castiglioni will be forced to request a settlement on Monday.

The Freie Presse in serious comment on the financial situation of Austria, points out that Austria cannot be reconstructed until the financial situation is quieter.
