TO PRESERVE BROOMS

Put them for a minute or two in a kettle of boiling suds once a week and they last much longer making them tough and pliable. A carpet wears much longer swept with a broom cared for in this manner.

TO KEEP FLOWERS FRESH

Exclude them from the air. To do this wet them thoroughly, put them in a damp box, and cover with wet raw cotton, or wet newspaper, then place in a cool spot. To preserve bouquets, put a little saltpetre in the water you use for your bouquets, and the flowers will live a fortnight.

Child Almost Strangled

You never know what minute a child can develop a bad cold or be seized by croup. For this reason it takes a great burden off every mother's mind to have at hand Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsed and Turpentine.

Mrs. E. W. Silver, South Milford, Annapolis county, N. S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsed and Turpentine for my little boy with most satisfactory results. His throat would fill up with phlegm so bad that he could scarcely make a sound, and I thought he would surely strangle. He grew worse, and had frequently had attacks, so I began using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsed and Turpentine. Scarcely half a bottle was used when the strangling ceased. This medicine had a wonderfully soothing effect, and when he had taken two bottles I could not tell that he had any throat trouble. We have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with equally good results. It is a grand medicine for salt rheum. There are imitations, but the genuine Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsed and Turpentine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author."

A Wonderful Discovery

An eminent scientist, the other day gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poisoning. Not one specimen of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or a skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and is totally cast off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co., and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

EGG PRODUCTION IN CANADA

(By T. A. Benson)

A message to the Montreal Star, dated Toronto, February 5th runs as follows: "There are practically no domestic eggs on the local market this week, and as a result the City wholesalers are bringing in eggs from Chicago every day. Receipts from this source average roughly about 5,000 cases per week these days which means about 150,000 dozens eggs."

A duty of $4,500 per week is being paid on these eggs. We may be certain that this is not all of it, and what did we see during the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1913, no less than nearly 14,000,000 dozens eggs imported into the Dominion from the United States. We have a peculiar condition prevailing here, some of the middle western States have produced more eggs than they need for home consumption since mixed farming became general in those States, but some of the eastern States do not. Such prices can be obtained in this country that these western States will export to Montreal, Toronto, and more western Canadian cities, in the face of a duty of three cents per dozen. There is no duty on eggs going into the United States from Canada now and if we need States markets we have a great opportunity, especially so far as the east is concerned.

Now we find on looking into the figures that ten years ago Canada was exporting large quantities of eggs, today she is exporting practically none; she has been doubling her imports yearly and to some extent increasing her production. Here we have three factors which would be expected to militate against an advance in market prices at home, but what do we see? Just this, prices have steadily advanced year by year, and what is the explanation? The explanation is, that there is a tremendous demand for eggs of genuinely good quality put on the markets in such perfect condition as only sound marketing system can do. This demand is increasing so much more rapidly than our production that we are allowing others to do more and more of our business every year. Supposing that we should some day reach a point where with egg production we could supply our home demands, there would be the export trade to exploit again, and at present this looks like a very remote necessity.

What should our farmers do? They should give these questions of egg production and marketing their serious consideration and then they would awaken to the fact that if this problem is properly taken in hand the poultry department on the farm will be almost their most valuable asset. Why not adopt careful and correct methods of breeding as with other live stock, up-to-date methods of housing, feeding, and general care which may be simple, time saving, and inexpensive. In this way we could increase the average egg yield of our flocks by almost double, and if we can induce a given number of hens to lay say even fifty per cent more eggs than at present it must be a paying proposition even supposing we obtained a little less price, because with proper feeding and up-to-date methods, little more outlay would be needed. Then eggs would prices have been lower again taking our winter production of eggs, would prices have been lower this winter had we produced one hundred per cent more eggs? How many consumers have had to do without eggs this winter simply because they could not get them sometimes at any price? Greater production, and better quality with a more even distribution of production are of urgent needs to-day. The demand is ready made and increasing more rapidly than we can hope to increase production!

Let us remember that the question of what season a hen will lay is as important as how many eggs she will lay; and bearing this in mind let us keep the breeds that will give us more even distribution with correct methods. Taking the general purpose American breeds such as barred Plymouth rocks, white wyandottes, or Rhode Island Reds, early hatching will mean early winter laying and early broodiness, early hatching again and so on. Then if we have a flock of pure bred single comb white leghorns these will commence to lay well just when the heavier breeds which lay well in the winter will be coming broody. If we can keep two breeds, this is an excellent combination in each breed is kept pure. If we can only keep one breed let us keep one of the general purpose breeds for ordinary farm purposes by all means.

We can still further increase the profits of the farm flock by adopting a just and sound method of marketing and this the egg circle system will give us if the organization is carried out on a basis, strictly independent of any dealers but giving all dealers a fair chance to purchase the eggs on a quality basis.

HOW TO KEEP SAUSAGE. My way of preserving sausage for summer use is exceedingly easy, yet seems to be unknown to many people. I keep on hand a quantity of inexpensive enamel basins of sizes holding from one to three quarts. As we mix our sausages at butchering time I pack it at once in these basins, which are placed in a moderately hot oven and allowed to bake until the fat draws out and meat browns a little on top—usually from 15 to 25 minutes, according to size of basin. It is then removed and a weight placed on the meat so that the melted fat rises over it; I like to place an inverted plate under the weight and leave it covered with the fat when it becomes cold.

With a paper tied over the top these basins are set in a cool dry place. When the meat is cut it looks and tastes like fresh sausage, having been cooked just enough to cover it securely with the fat. It browns in the frying-pan, making the browned gravy the men think indispensable with sausage. We usually eat the last of it in August when it is still in good condition. The object of using such small receptacles is that but a small quantity need be cut at once, since it does not keep long after being exposed to the air in hot weather.

A WHOPPER. The stage-drivers in Yellowstone Park are bothered considerably by the foolish questions asked by their passengers, and often resort to satirical answers. Once a lady tourist who seemed deeply interested in the hot springs inquired: "Driver, do these springs freeze over in winter?" "Oh, yes, yes; a lady was skating here last winter and broke through and got her foot scalded."—Everybody's.
