A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THEY CALLED HIM AN "OLD PILL"

THAT was years ago when he packed a terrible grouch, a mighty irritable stomach and a liver that refused to do the things that all good livers should. No wonder his friends called him an "old pill" and stayed away.

But that was years ago—long before he discovered Beecham's Pills and learned that two at bedtime can bring sunshine into a man's life. Today, he's an optimist, a hero to his wife, and a staunch believer in Beecham's Pills.

The cheer that Beecham's Pills bring into a man's disposition, is the incomparable cheer of sound digestion, active liver, and the regular habits that make good health.

Symptoms of Anaemia

An Inherited Tendency to Anaemia May be Overcome

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually and stealthily that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anaemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected much more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure air and wholesome food these blood making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure air and wholesome food these blood-making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid, at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAVE YOUR STEPS IN THE KITCHEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Extension agents of the Department of Agriculture are advising women to wear pedometers in their kitchen to learn how to take fewer steps and save themselves needless loss of energy. Success has attended the experiments so far. One woman, residing in the State of Washington, checked up on her movements with a pedometer and found that through better kitchen arrangements she saved 5,544 feet in one week. This was four and three-eights mile a month, or over 54 miles a year.

"The Love Pendulum"

I don't. But don't you see, I have to have life and I like these people. You needn't ever see them."

I let my hand rest in his, looking up into his face, into his clear gray eyes, trying to look back behind them into the warm soul that used to be Win's. I wondered where that warm, lovely personality had gone.

"We would just where we were a year ago. It would be another separation and more talk. If you feel a little more like looking at things my way—"

I turned, calmly enough, and walked down the corridor to the door. I dared not look back for Win. I opened the door and went out.

DEJECTION.
Chapter 95.

I had walked out clamly enough. But once outside I wondered whether Win would follow me. If he did, one more plea of his would have made me yield.

I knew I was doing not only the right thing but the only sane thing in leaving. But my courage was going, I felt weak in my knees. I dared not wait for the elevator to come up, but ran down two floors and then rang for it.

I went out again and across the street. I wanted a taxi, and looked about for one. I knew I could always find one at the next corner so I started mechanically down the street. Then I looked up at the apartment house, to the windows of the place where I had lived. They still shone with a golden, inviting glow!

I let myself into my new home, the great "studio" apartment that never was planned for work! A touch of a button turned on soft lights about the room, lit up its lovely old furniture and the richness of its silk hangings. The huge studio window that took up almost all the front had long curtains of a golden color silk that hung from it. These were pulled across and gleamed softly in the light of the lamps. It was so rich, so beautiful, so thoroughly useless!

I remembered the studio where Colin worked, the little room that pretended to be nothing, and actually was all that my great living room pretended to be and wasn't.

I sat down in a big chair under a lamp. There was some mail on the table that came in the afternoon, hastily opened, and as yet unanswered. I picked up the letters and dropped them.

What was the use? The gray envelope with the silver seal was an acceptance to a dinner I was giving next week, the square white envelope with the mannish writing declined. I did not care whether anyone came or not, I did not even want to give the dinner. How stupid!
