WESTERN ROMANCE ENDS IN SUICIDE

Special to The Guardian. EDMONTON, November 23.—The suicide of "Buffalo Bill" Moore, in jail at Altham, Alta., marks the end of a western romance. Moore, who became famous as a trapper and guide through western Canada, eloped with a fourteen-year-old girl from Edmonton, the girl wearing male attire. They eluded the police until their supplies gave out, when they were forced to return to the city where they were recognized and Moore was arrested on a charge of abduction. The girl refused to leave her lover, who was forty years of age. Moore snatched a revolver from the hands of the guard in the jail and before he could be prevented, blew out his own brains.

COMMITTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Special to The Guardian. DIGBY, November 29.—The preliminary examination of John Tebo Jr. charged with the murder of Edward McGregor, terminated rather suddenly when the magistrate today concluded that the evidence already procured warranted him in sending the prisoner up for trial. DIGBY, November 28.—At the preliminary examination of John Tebo Jr., charged with the murder of Edward McGregor, most of the day was occupied in getting on the minutes the evidence already brought out at the corner's inquest. Tebo boarded with Mrs. Haight and between the time of his discharge on the first charge and his second arrest, Tebo told Mrs. Haight that a man went to the wicket of his cell and told him that he and another man went out the railway track to McGregor's house to get a drink of liquor, and when they got to the house they looked through the window and saw three men with McGregor. They listened to a conversation about going for carrots and cabbage. McGregor did not want to go at first but afterwards consented to come out, locked the door and departed with the other three men. These two fellows, who were watching, followed them and saw them go into the woods and get one armful of cabbage and carrots and throw them down where McGregor was sitting. They then went back for more. When they came with the second armful, McGregor was trimming the cabbage leaves and right after their return all hands got wrangling about something. One of the fellows then hit McGregor with the hand ax, now in possession of the authorities and used it as evidence today. Then they threw the ax away. The man told Tebo that if the latter got in jail the second time, he could clear him of all connection with the crime. This was Tebo's story to Mrs. Haight, but he did not tell who the man was.

BOY PERISHED ON THE PRAIRIE

Special to The Guardian. FLEMING, Sask., Nov. 29.—Joe Kelly lost his only child in Saturday's storm. The little fellow was playing outside and wandered away. Speedy search was made, when his absence was noticed, but he was not found for several hours. He was alive when discovered, but he died from the effects of exposure about an hour later.

J. J. SAYRE NOW IN CHARLOTTETOWN

J. J. Sayre, Moncton, arrived in the city on the mail train last night. Mr. Sayre, when speaking to the Guardian representative, referred to the recent McDonald-Anderson match in Moncton as the classiest match he had ever seen. It was a grand exhibition of the game and in it he said Dan McDonald showed his advantage over Anderson in footwork and strength. Mr. Sayre tells of a private bout on Monday in Moncton, which the above two principals indulged in to decide who was the better man. They had a 20 minute go in a theatre with five persons as witnesses. The result was no throw for either contestant and was as fast an exhibition as one could wish for. It still remains to be seen who is the better man. Sam Anderson left Moncton yesterday morning for Boston where he is preparing to meet a man named Willoughby whom he won from two years ago. Mr. Sayre was the promoter of the McDonald-Anderson match and exhibits a keen interest in sporting matters generally and wrestling in particular. He is an authority in this game his knowledge coming from actual experience on the mat.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Nov. 29.—Geo. Tufts, former cashier of the Rockport National Bank, recently indicted for the larceny of $8,000 from the bank, committed suicide by shooting himself here yesterday. He was out on bail, pending an examination. EXPLOSION OF BENZINE. BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Four tanks containing 2,500,000 gallons of benzine exploded in the suburbs of Rummelsheim. WRITE THAT LETTER HOME

Thousands of sons and daughters there are who are away from home living their own lives. Some are earning their own living; some are married; all are busy with their own concerns. And, unconsciously, they have forgotten their mothers. At least their mothers think so, and how can they think otherwise? For their children do not write. The mother looks every day for a letter but in the postman's hand or the post-box there is nothing. The mother says, "nothing, for silence is the badge of the suffering mother; but she unconsciously thinks back over twenty years and more of pain and care and self-sacrifice, when there were nights without sleep, and weeks of nursing, when social pleasures had to be put aside for the children's sake, and a hundred economies had to be practiced that the children might be clothed and educated, when her whole life was devoted to the children. And the silence is pretty hard to bear. Of course the mother makes allowance: a mother always does. "The children forget," she says. "Their lives are full, and they do not think how small and empty mine is." And she thinks to herself that some day their children, when they have children who have left them, will understand. Mothers are so patient! All the same, a letter is so small a thing. True, that is why it does not get written. But it gives such pleasure, such heart satisfaction to a mother. And the mother-heart does rejoice when she feels that though her children are far away from her, and no longer need her, they still think of her—and show that they do in the only way they can. Put yourself in her place, you son or daughter, far away from the old home; think of how little comes into that home, and then fancy how big an event would be a weekly letter from Mary or John in the city! It is so worth doing—this writing to Mother while she is still where letters can go to her! It won't always be so, you know. So many there are who would give their all just to be able to write a letter to Mother. You can't write—Ladies' Home Journal.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT OF VICTORY IN CAMPAIGN

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The election address of Arthur Balfour, leader of the Opposition, in the House of Commons is a brief document. THE ELECTION IN UNITED KINGDOM

TO OPPOSE R L BORDEN'S AMENDMENT

Special to The Guardian. OTTAWA, November 29.—Mr. Monk announces that he will vote against the naval amendment of Mr. Borden on the ground that his own amendment is more comprehensive than that of the Leader of the Opposition. His amendment provides for taking a plebiscite on both the question of a Canadian navy and a direct contribution to the British navy, while the amendment proposed by Borden calls for a plebiscite only on the question of creating a Canadian navy.

EXPEDITION TO THE SOUTH POLE

Special to The Guardian. CHRIST CHURCH, N. Z., Nov. 29.—The ship Terra Nova, bearing the British South Polar expedition under command of Capt. Robert Scott, sailed from Port Chalmers for the Antarctic today. The Terra Nova sailed from London on June 1 and has gradually worked her way south. Capt. Scott, who joined the vessel in New Zealand, hopes to reach the South Pole in December of 1911.

BANK CLERKS NOW HAVE A UNION

HALIFAX, Nov. 29.—The Herald says the Bank Clerks' association of Canada is being organized. According to circular letters, the object of the association is to unite together all the employees of the different banks into an association for their mutual benefit, protection, improvement and advancement. The Monetary Times says that the association is not organized with any hostile intention towards the banks, but, on the contrary, would be of great assistance to them in their dealings with their employees. The membership fee is to be $10, of which $5, it is estimated, will be required for organization expenses. One of the conditions of membership is that the membership shall be kept secret as long as desired. What is the object of such secrecy? If it is hostile, it will probably be met with hostility. If it is friendly, hostility will be created as the result of the secrecy and lack of proper co-operation. An association of bank clerks obviously one day would meet the general managers. What would be the final result of that meeting one attendant at which will be a half-hearted association organized in secrecy, and without the support of employers? Those who have already subscribed to this cause may well ask for the return of their subscriptions, frankly approaching instead their employers saying: "We would like an association and we want your help." The proposed secretive roundabout, almost underhanded method now being employed will surely damn what might have become a good cause.

TO OPPOSE R L BORDEN'S AMENDMENT

Special to The Guardian. LONDON, November 29.—Lloyd George, in response to cheers, made a speech in which he said he hoped the Newport people would do their duty and the Lords would topple over. There will be contest in every division in London with the exception of the city. It is said the unopposed returns will approach 100, but it is doubtful if they will reach so high a figure, as candidates are appearing in places where a contest was regarded as unlikely. The Liberals are even fighting Westminster and Strand, two boroughs overwhelmingly Unionist. Joe Martin is opposed by a second Liberal candidate, Levi Jacobs. LONDON, November 23.—With the dissolution of parliament today, all formalities preliminary to the election of a new parliament were completed. The proclamation of dissolution summoned the new parliament to assemble on January 31, 1911. Among the first of its members to be elected unopposed will be Arthur J. Balfour, the opposition leader, the Liberals having decided not to contest his seat for the city of London. On the stock exchange, where regular dealings have been instituted in bets on the election, the feeling today seemed to anticipate a reduction in the Liberal majority. In Ireland the struggle is growing more bitter every day. A meeting of delegates representing every Ulster constituency was held in Belfast today, at which a resolution was adopted on motion of a Presbyterian minister, to draw up a solemn declaration refusing to pay rates or taxes imposed by a Dublin parliament or obey its decrees, which $50,000.

Mothers are so patient! All the same, a letter is so small a thing. True, that is why it does not get written. But it gives such pleasure, such heart satisfaction to a mother. And the mother-heart does rejoice when she feels that though her children are far away from her, and no longer need her, they still think of her—and show that they do in the only way they can. Put yourself in her place, you son or daughter, far away from the old home; think of how little comes into that home, and then fancy how big an event would be a weekly letter from Mary or John in the city! It is so worth doing—this writing to Mother while she is still where letters can go to her! It won't always be so, you know. So many there are who would give their all just to be able to write a letter to Mother. You can't write—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE ELECTION IN UNITED KINGDOM

TO OPPOSE R L BORDEN'S AMENDMENT

Special to The Guardian. OTTAWA, November 29.—Mr. Monk announces that he will vote against the naval amendment of Mr. Borden on the ground that his own amendment is more comprehensive than that of the Leader of the Opposition. His amendment provides for taking a plebiscite on both the question of a Canadian navy and a direct contribution to the British navy, while the amendment proposed by Borden calls for a plebiscite only on the question of creating a Canadian navy.

EXPEDITION TO THE SOUTH POLE

Special to The Guardian. CHRIST CHURCH, N. Z., Nov. 29.—The ship Terra Nova, bearing the British South Polar expedition under command of Capt. Robert Scott, sailed from Port Chalmers for the Antarctic today. The Terra Nova sailed from London on June 1 and has gradually worked her way south. Capt. Scott, who joined the vessel in New Zealand, hopes to reach the South Pole in December of 1911.

BANK CLERKS NOW HAVE A UNION

HALIFAX, Nov. 29.—The Herald says the Bank Clerks' association of Canada is being organized. According to circular letters, the object of the association is to unite together all the employees of the different banks into an association for their mutual benefit, protection, improvement and advancement. The Monetary Times says that the association is not organized with any hostile intention towards the banks, but, on the contrary, would be of great assistance to them in their dealings with their employees. The membership fee is to be $10, of which $5, it is estimated, will be required for organization expenses. One of the conditions of membership is that the membership shall be kept secret as long as desired. What is the object of such secrecy? If it is hostile, it will probably be met with hostility. If it is friendly, hostility will be created as the result of the secrecy and lack of proper co-operation. An association of bank clerks obviously one day would meet the general managers. What would be the final result of that meeting one attendant at which will be a half-hearted association organized in secrecy, and without the support of employers? Those who have already subscribed to this cause may well ask for the return of their subscriptions, frankly approaching instead their employers saying: "We would like an association and we want your help." The proposed secretive roundabout, almost underhanded method now being employed will surely damn what might have become a good cause.
