Grand Circuit Results

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Walter N. Reynolds' Reveler divided honors with Albert S. Pratt's Ben Hur in the Tuckahoe trot, contested in two one-mile heats, yesterday at Empire City track. The event marked the concluding program of a week of Grand Circuit racing.

Reveler won the first heat in 2:05, defeating Ben Hur by a half-length. In the second heat Reveler got away running and dropped 20 lengths behind the leader before he was brought to a trot.

Reveler made a mighty bid in the Straightaway and finished in a four-way photo, but Ben Hur Hollywood Garnett and Siskille were ahead of him in the picture.

Volunteers Work Hard At Distributing No. 3 Ration Books

The five Local Ration Boards in Prince Edward Island, composed almost entirely of voluntary workers, are all set for their third big war-time job — issuance of Ration Book 3 to the people of this province. Situated in Charlottetown, Summerside, Alberton, Souris and Montague, these Boards won their spurs in the No. 2 Ration Book distribution campaign, shortly after their organization, when they successfully distributed a total of 83,895 books.

Sharing the honors in this initial campaign were scores of voluntary workers throughout the province who rallied to the support of their Local Ration Boards when the call for help went out. Once again the call for assistance had been sounded by the chairman of each Board, Mayor B. Roy Holman for Charlottetown, Mayor W. Lidstone for Summerside, Mayor Wilfred Tanton for Alberton, Mayor A. H. Smallwood for Souris and Mr. Keir Clark for Montague.

Four days, August 25 to August 28 inclusive, have been set apart for the distribution of these books to the 2,000,000 people in Canada. All or any of these days can be chosen by the Local Ration Board or the distributing chief of each centre for handing out the books. For instance the distribution in Charlottetown will begin August 25 and conclude on August 27, distribution in the town of Souris will take place August 27 and 28, and, as far as can be ascertained, all other distributing centres in the province will be open for the four days.

Hours as well are equally diversified. For instance the Charlottetown distribution centre in Queen Square School annex, Richmond street entrance, will be opened on the three days from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. These hours will be closely adhered to by the other

"Porterettes" Join Railway War Workers

SHORTAGE of man power due to enlistments has compelled Canadian National Railways Express to employ women to perform duties previously performed exclusively by men at the Central Station in Montreal. These women act as clerks, load and unload railway express cars. An experimental squad of seven women having proven satisfactory the number of women workers is being increased. As a general rule, express parcels are not heavy, but occasionally an overweight shipment is offered. Instructions to these women are to attempt nothing over fifty pounds. They work on eight hour shifts, their working conditions and wages being similar to those enjoyed by men in the same occupations.

While some of these workers had employment prior to joining the Canadian National Railways, the majority of them gave their previous occupation as "housewife." Occupations of others ranged from office workers to charwomen. The "porterettes" now working with the Canadian National Express say they are well satisfied with the new job. The platform trucks on which the women load parcels in the express rooms below the tracks are hauled by tractor up a ramp to the track level to be placed along the railway cars into which the parcels are laden. In a similar manner form trucks loaded from the cars are sent to the lower level by tractor. There are no hand-drawn trucks in the Central Station, mail, express and baggage each having its own power units to haul the heavy loads. Photographs show some of the new wartime porterettes at work.
