Crop Report "Arsene Lupin" At The Prince Edward Theatre

(Canadian Press) MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 29.—Grain crops in the Maritime Provinces are rapidly maturing and above average yields are expected, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Oats and barley have been reaped in many districts in all three provinces. Cutting was quite general in New Brunswick during the past week. New Brunswick reports a heavy crop of hay while in Nova Scotia the hay on the marshlands is still in fairly good condition but otherwise most of the hay now standing is over ripe to the extent of lowering its quality greatly. In New Brunswick haying operations have been progressing and three quarters of the crop has been gathered. The yield has been greater than earlier expectations and on the Westmoreland and Albert County marshes is above average. Prince Edward Island reports a good hay crop—better than average and all cut and housed. Pastures have remained good throughout the entire season and the effect milk supplies has been marked as above normal quantity in New Brunswick. The same applies to Prince Edward Island. Nova Scotia reports pastures are beginning to show somewhat dry with a consequent drying off in milk flow. Root crops in New Brunswick have made highly gratifying growth and the total production will exceed that of any recent season. Potatoes, however, are showing the effect of wet weather and the lack of application of the usual quantities of spray. The turnout this year is expected to be less than average. Root crops in Nova Scotia are in good condition and on Prince Edward Island an average crop is expected. Potatoes will show a somewhat smaller turnout due to less acreage under cultivation and curtailed use of fertilizer and spraying. The expectations for the Nova Scotia apple crop this year are good. Apples are continuing to size well and show considerable color. Earlier varieties, crimson beauty, transparent, astrachan, have been harvested and disposed of on local markets. In some districts in New Brunswick trouble has been reported from aphids. The estimated production of creamery butter in Nova Scotia during the month of July, 1932, as compared with the same month last year shows an increase of 12.5 percent, estimated production for July this year being 842,879 pounds. For the month of June, 1932, New Brunswick reports an increase over the same month last year of 1.1 percent, the total production for the month of June, 1932, being 425,637 pounds. Quebec for the same period shows a decrease of 8 percent and Ontario a decrease of 8.32 percent, according to figures supplied by provincial dairy officials. Some rather interesting figures have been prepared as regards size of farm holdings in Canada. Farms ranging between 101 and 200 acres are the most numerous, representing 233,325 farms of the total of 728,664 or 32 percent and the smallest number by classes is 201 to 229 acres, 35,620 farms. Next in point of numbers are 300 acres and over 187,636. The largest group in the Maritimes is the 51 to 100 acre size. New Brunswick has 11,457, Nova Scotia 10,325, Prince Edward Island, 5,071. In the Province of Quebec the largest group is between 101 and 200 acres of which there are 48,823. Ontario shows the largest number for the smaller holdings 51 to 100 acres, which accounts for 68,620 farms. In the Province of Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, the 101 to 200 acre group is the largest while in Saskatchewan the 300 to 479 acre group exceeds in number all the other classes.

Thrills and Humor Blended in Novel Mystery Drama

Spellbinding mystery, sophisticated humor and the engaging romance of a master criminal and the feminine spy who is hired to track him down, are expertly blended in "Arsene Lupin" which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre, presenting the first appearance together on the screen of John and Lionel Barrymore. As the suave drawing-room thief Lupin, John Barrymore gives one of the most delightful and entertaining performances of his distinguished career, while Lionel Barrymore, as the detective, has never been seen to greater advantage. Between the adventures of the two the audience is given more than its usual share of cinema diversions. The story is filled with unique situations. There is a dramatic episode in which the spy attempts to besmirch her honor in order to create an alibi for the thief. There is an engaging sequence in which the grim detective is faced with the choice of releasing Arsene Lupin or losing his daughter, who has been kidnapped by the thief's henchmen. Further high spots are the daring theft of the famous painting, "Mona Lisa," from the Louvre and an hilarious contretemps when the police detectives mistakenly arrest their own chief as a result of the machinations of the Wily Lupin. The acting of the attractive Karen Morley as the spy, John Miljan as the prefect-of-police, and Tully Marshall as a millionaire rouse measures up to the high standard set by the two Barrymores. Equally effective is the direction of Jack Conway, who has kept his story moving at lightning speed with laughs crowding close on the heels of the thrills.

Pal And Bride Battle To Help War-Time Hero

Unique Triangle in Drama of "Man from Yesterday"

A war-time pal and a war-time bride fight it out for the possession of a war-time hero in "The Man from Yesterday," a Paramount picture, with Claudette Colbert, Clive Brook, Andy Devine and Charles Boyer in the leading roles. It opened at the Capitol Theatre yesterday. Miss Colbert, a war nurse, marries Brook in haste during the hectic days in Paris in 1918. They are very much in love, but Brook is called to front line duty. A few weeks later he is reported killed. Claudette turns to Boyer, a young surgeon, for friendship and finds a new love. While visiting a reclamation hospital years later, Claudette discovers Brook. He has been reduced to poor health by his war experiences, and the only joy of his life is Andy Devine, his devoted buddy, who keeps him cheered with his amusing antics. They are inseparable. Claudette persuades Brook that her friendship with Boyer is meaningless, and that she will never forget her duty as his wife. She persuades Brook to return with her to Paris. This move takes Andy out of Brook's life, temporarily, but the loyalty that started on the battlefield is matched with the loyalty of his recovered wife. All praise is due Miss Colbert and Brook for the distinguished workmanship they bring to their parts as lovers who try to mend a broken romance.

We vowed we would always remember That star-studded evening in May: There must have been music and moonshine When you promised you'd love me for aye; Can it be you've forgotten the fragrance Of lilacs under the yew? Oh, well, that's quite a relief, dear, For I have forgotten it too.

BEDEQUE

The "Softball" season is about to close in this community. The boys have had a splendid season of this recreation and sport, and the games have been largely attended. On Friday evening one of the games of the Bedeque League was played between the Lower Bedeque team and the North Bedeque team, which after a very interesting game, ended in a victory for the Lower Bedeque team, in a score of 20-16. This was the final scheduled game of the league and the win by Lower Bedeque left North Bedeque one point in the lead for the trophy, which necessitates the replay of a protested game between North Bedeque and Centreville Bedeque teams. There being only one point difference in the standing of those teams, the winner of this game will also be the lucky winner of the "Trophy." This game will be played on Tuesday evening. "Good luck, boys, for the last game of the season; may the best team win!"

Miss Jennie Bradshaw of Portland, Maine, has been spending an enjoyable holiday in this vicinity, the guest of her father, Mr. Ellis Bradshaw of Middleton, P. E. I.

A large number of people from this vicinity, motored to Charlottetown on Wednesday afternoon last, to attend the Provincial Exhibition.

There passed away to her eternal reward, Mrs. Patrick Smith, on Thursday, August 17th, at her home in Newton. The deceased had been in failing health for some time, but death came very suddenly at the last. Mrs. Smith was fifty-six years old, and had lived an upright christian life, of a gentle and loving disposition, with the hearts of all who were acquainted with her. In her home, her memory will always linger, as a devoted wife and mother. There are left to cherish her memory, two daughters Hazel and Aveline at home, and three sons, Leonard at the Quebec Seminary, Edmund and Gregory, also at home, all to whom the community extends heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewen Clark of Wilmot Valley accompanied by their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goffery of New York, U. S. A. were visiting friends in Tryon, last Sunday.

A concert and sale of ice cream in aid of the North Bedeque United Church was given in the Wilmot Valley Hall, on Thursday evening, August 18th, by the celebrated New York artists, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goffery (who are spending their holidays here). Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson, pastor, acted as chairman. The hall was filled to capacity, many remaining outdoors, unable to get seated. The programme was varied and consisted of: reading by Mrs. Edward Goffery; violin selections by the celebrated Danish violinist, Mr. Norman Herman, now of North Bedeque; vocal solos by Mr. Edward Goffery. Mr. Goffery delighted the audience with his wonderful versatility as a pianist, performed not only with his fingers but with his nose, elbows and feet. His playing will long be remembered by those who had the pleasure of hearing and seeing him. Vocal solos were also given by Mr. Goffery. Instrumental music by Mr. Goffery; short and humorous speeches were made by Mr. Goffery. Violin selections in sacred music by Mr. Norman Herman, and bright, witty monologues by Mr. Goffery. Rev. Mr. Nicholson extended a hearty vote of thanks to the three artists, for their delightful entertainment, which was brought to a close all too quickly.

Miss Joan Crawford, the well-known film star, has a pretty wit. While visiting the Elstree studios during her recent stay in London, the conversation turned on the subject of pet dogs and the fondness some society women had for fondling them in and out of season. One of the actors held very decided views on the matter. "I hate seeing married women especially cuddling these little beasts," he remarked. "What do you say, Joan?" Miss Crawford reflected a moment.

"Well," she answered gravely, "since you ask me, I should say that it is not fair to criticise a married woman for preferring her dog—until you have seen her husband." A pinch of soda in coffee, when it is perking, improves its flavor.

TREND OF CATTLE MARKETS

The trend of livestock markets for 1932 is summarized in the latest issue of the Live Stock and Meat Trade Review as follows:

"The most prominent feature of the livestock market situation during the past month or so, was the comparatively strong position maintained by cattle, and particularly dry fed stock. A great deal of the strength noted is attributable to the liberal movement of cattle to the British market, where stock of choice quality made comparatively good prices."

"The market there has been particularly desirable in respect to the small cattle carrying good finish, and so far this year the reception of Canadian cattle, in respect to their eligibility, has been quite as satisfactory as during the same period of last year. It is worth pointing out that, owing to the somewhat freer market for Canadian stock, as a result of the duties imposed against the Irish Free State, it is even more essential that Canadian exporters should take the greatest care in the selection of subsequent commitments."

"The domestic market gave reasonably good support to the cattle industry, and in that regard it is noted that the consumption of branded beef for the month of June more than kept pace with that of the previous year, and for the year to date, stands at 10,783,553 lbs. as compared with 8,693,829 lbs. for the same period of last year. The export market also took a fair quantity of beef but not as much as during June last year. The total beef exports to date, however, exceed those of 1931 by a considerable volume."

HOW TO SELECT SEED POTATOES

(Experimental Farms Note) Selecting the seed is one of the most important factors in successful potato culture; unfortunately, far too many farmers seem to neglect this essential point. At the Dominion Experimental Station at Ste Anne de la Pocatiere, much importance is attached to selecting the seed tubers, treating with formalin and cutting into sets. Nothing that will insure a good yield of sound tubers is neglected, for it is not enough to have a big crop, but good tubers which are easy to keep must be selected. There are generally three ways of selecting the seed: 1. Putting aside a certain quantity of tubers in the spring. 2. Choosing the nicest part of a field. 3. Selecting foundation seed in isolated hills.

The first method is the most popular, which does not mean that it is the best, as its adoption is due to the law of minimum effort rather than to its results. It consists in putting aside in a corner of the cellar in the spring, a certain quantity of tubers corresponding approximately to the area which is to be planted.

The second method is followed by a fair number of potato planters who wish to succeed, and it is more logical than the first. The nicest part of the field is chosen for the future seed and all diseased plants are removed.

Finally, here is the most methodical and rational method, which a very small number only has adopted. It consists in using foundation seed which has been submitted to two field and two cellar inspections and an extensive selection.

The procedure is very easy. The best looking plants are marked. At digging time four of five tubers from each of these plants are taken and kept separately. The following spring, each tuber is cut into four sections which are planted in a single hill. During the season of growth, all the grower has to do is watch for and pull out the diseased plants. If a plant in a hill shows symptoms of disease, pull out the whole hill.

By following this last method, the presence of the qualities in the tubers necessary for a successful crop is assured. These qualities are production, varietal type, vigour and freedom from disease.

FROZEN CIDER POPULAR

Modern science is always coming to the fore with some new wrinkle which extends the market for farm products. One of the latest evolutions is frozen sweet cider. When it comes from the press cider is frozen to zero degrees F. and held at that temperature until thawed for sale or use. When thawed out it is perfectly fresh and sweet. It will keep seven months or more held at zero, and there is every prospect that it may be developed into an important beverage outlet, or by-product for orchardists.—Dominion Department of Agriculture.
