CANADIAN LEGION CONVENTION

PROVINCIAL PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Following was the address delivered by Provincial President, Capt. Jas. J. Leightner:

Comrades- This is the Third Annual Convention of the Provincial Command Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. I desire to extend to all Comrade delegates here a most cordial welcome, and trust that our deliberations will prove mutually beneficial, thereby promoting the welfare of the branches of this Command.

It is with extreme pleasure that we meet in this historic village of Mount Stewart where some of the pioneer settlers of the Province began the labors which today make Prince Edward Island known far and wide as the Garden of the Gulf. Mount Stewart was called after John Stewart, Paymaster to the Forces, whose home was here. He was the son of Chief Justice Peter Stewart, who came to the Island in 1778. John Stewart was Speaker of the House of Assembly for a number of years and took a notable part in early affairs under British rule in this Colony and also in Newfoundland. He was known by and earned the name of "Hell-fire Jack." In 1806 he published "An Account of Prince Edward Island." He died in 1834 and is buried in the Church of England cemetery on Elm Avenue, Charlottetown. His home at Mount Stewart was situated on the mount south of the river.

We are honored today by the presence of our Dominion President Major J. S. Roper, M.C., K.C., who at considerable inconvenience to his private business affairs, has met the wishes of your Executive, in attending the convention of the smallest Command in Canada. What we lack in size, I trust, will be more than made up in the warmth of welcome and the earnestness that ex-service men of this Province have for the success of returned men's organizations in this country, particularly the Canadian Legion.

It is gratifying to me to report to you that at the present time we have seven branches in this Province. Two new branches were formed during the past year; one at Tignish, the other at Eldon. All our branches are active, and with exception of the Charlottetown Branch report an increase of membership since our last Convention. I have found when visiting the branches at Summerside, Mt. Stewart, Tignish, Eldon and Charlottetown that the membership is aware of the necessity of keeping up in-

And for ideals they could not utter many comrades fought and died. Will you let all memory perish? Time wash out unlit blood Of Cambrai, Lens and Vimy, Ypres, Somme and Sanctuary Wood? You grasped the torch still gleaming, will you let its flame burn low By forgetting of the lessons that you learned not long ago?

Do you shirk a bounden duty? Is it that you do not care? Have you lost your pride of service, is the burden hard to bear? You're a duty; then perform it . . . all for one for all, JOIN THE LEGION all you veterans, for divided we must fall.

It's not what as individuals you will gain from Legion aid, You've a debt to kin and comrades and its time the debt was paid; You're the keepers of the altar, yours the voice of voiceless dead, Will you let their memory perish? Time wash out the blood they shed.

It is up to each one of us to get new members. May I quote from an address delivered by our dear Corp Commander Sir Arthur Currie, G. C. M. G.K.C.B. at a meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, last November. "Today, as never before in our history as an organization, we of the Canadian Legion are called upon to stand fast. It is not a time for forgetting our ideals, for dropping our membership. We must stand together as never before. Selfishness or petty difficulties or personal grievances must not separate us in any of our Branches. Our demand must be fair. If we are to hope for sympathetic consideration in the future, when "boom" times return, we must be moderate in our requests in this time of stress. Seventeen years ago, and for four years thereafter, we answered our country's call to service-the call to save her from disaster. We did not go in a spirit of mere adventure-a desire to see the world-as some critics have unjustly said. We counted the cost. We had no delusions. We answered with a solemn realization of the chance involved; but the path of duty, we thought, was plain before us. There could be no hanging back. I am convinced that behind the enlistment of at least 95 per cent. of the Canadian Corps, was the idea of the sacredness of duty to one's country, rather than the romance of adventure. We can answer the critics who try to refute this statement by our conduct now.

Canada is passing through a crisis in many ways as grave as that of 1914. Then our national existence was threatened. We surmounted the difficulty by united effort. Today the call to battle is again sounded. Our enemy today is not an external foe, but is an economic situation. Today there is in our country another army not stimulated to great deeds by the applause of the nation-the dejected army of workless men and women who are fighting down want and suffering through no fault of their own. They need our support. For dependent upon them are little children who cry for food and whose future-and the future of our country-is at stake. These suffering friends and fellow-countrymen of ours must not be allowed to lose their courage. They must not be allowed to lose their confidence in the Canada of their fathers. They must not be allowed to become imbued with fantastic foreign theories in their despair. Our attitude to their problems will be a test of the principles and ideals of the Canadian Legion. Faced with this national problem, all selfish aims disappear, all petty differences are silenced. We are again in battle formation about to go over the top. Zero hour is upon us, we are again calling to our aid the spirit of co-operation and service unto death. And I am sure that this spirit still lives and that as men of the Canadian Corps, as parts of Canada, and further it ex-will respond like Canadians. I am sure that until the battle is won, and until prosperity, comfort and happiness crown our country again, we will do our gallant share as we did in other days to lighten our country's burden."

Hopeful of Conference
The Economic Conference now in session at Ottawa is wrestling with the major problems concerning the welfare of our Empire, let us hope and pray that its efforts will prove fruitful so that the misery and suffering of many may be alleviated. It is always a pleasure and a privilege for me to speak at returned men's meetings, I take this occasion to thank you most sincerely for the honor you conferred upon me when you selected me as President of this Command. It gave me an opportunity to render some slight service to forward its interests. On the occasion of the visit of His Excellency, the Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough, to Prince Edward Island, I had the honor of representing you, at the invitation of the Provincial Government, at the dinner given in honor of His Excellency at the Canadian National Hotel. This invitation was rare recognition of the esteem in which the Legion is held. Before concluding I wish to thank the various Government officials both Federal and Provincial for assistance rendered me in placing some of our members in employment; also the Dominion and Provincial Command Executive officers, and most especially our Provincial Secretary Comrade G. E. Sherren who has at all times been my chief aide and "storm troops," he has a very comprehensive grasp of Legion affairs and is a valuable asset to our Command. Before this convention closes you will have placed before you for consideration resolutions and other matters pertaining to the welfare of the Canadian Legion. Kindly give these matters your best attention and considered judgment. May the spirit of this occasion, conceived and nourished on the battlefields of France and Flanders increase with the passing years and continue until and after the "last hundred" branch of the "good old corps" is founded.

6-EMPIRE TRADE: Resolved that this Provincial Convention of the Canadian Legion, B. E. S. L. assembled at Mount Stewart, Prince Edward Island desires again to place on record its belief in and hope for increased trade within the Empire, and would therefore urge not only all members of the Command but the whole public to choose first goods manufactured or produced within the Empire. Further resolved that we express the hope and pray that our Empire statesmen now assembled at the Economic Conference in Ottawa will be guided along the path which will first make possible through goodwill and trade a closer bond of unity throughout all portions of our great Commonwealth of Nations, and finally help bring about a stabilization of world economic conditions and the peace of all Nations.

6-EMPLOYMENT: Resolved that this annual Provincial Convention of the Canadian Legion, B. E. S. L. assembled at Mount Stewart, P. E. Island bearing in mind the conditions existing at this time, which conditions tests the resources, strength and patience of all our people, would urge upon our comrades the need of setting an example of putting good service into whatever daily task they may be called to, and so help in the work of restoration of normal conditions in our Province. Further resolved that believing the great majority of our comrades are willing and ready to serve this country to the best of their ability in peace as well as in war, we would respectfully urge upon the Government of the Province, Civic authorities and employers of labour, that they in so far as is possible give preference to men who saw service during the Great War.

THE LEGIONARY: Resolved that since "The Legionary" is the official organ of the Canadian Legion, and that it is impossible for our membership to keep fully informed as to the great work our organization has and is doing for the returned men of Canada, this Annual Convention of the Provincial Command would urge upon our whole membership the advisability of subscribing to so splendid a magazine. Further resolved we would strongly recommend to our various Branches that they take immediate steps to bring this matter before their members, and further that eventually the Branch membership fees be so arranged as to cover the subscription of "The Legionary" for every member; in good standing.

8-WAR HISTORY: Resolved that the Government of the Dominion of Canada is to be congratulated and thanked for the efforts they have made in securing data looking toward the completion of an Official Canadian War History. Further resolved that, the said Government be respectfully asked to advise progress to the heads of the Canadian Legion, so that this information can be handed on to all veterans through the medium of the Legion's official publication, "The Legionary."

9-APPEAL COURT: Resolved that this annual Provincial Convention of the Canadian Legion, B. E. S. L. assembled at Mount Stewart, Prince Edward Island desires to place on record its decided disappointment in regard to the delays in the award of Pension to those applicants who have been favorably passed on by the Pension Tribunal. This disappointment is aggravated by the unreasonable number of these favorable decisions which are appealed to the Appeal Court. Therefore resolved that after hearing of the recommendation No. 4 of the Legislative Proposals relating to this subject, as submitted to the Prime Minister and members of the Dominion Government by the Associated Veterans Organizations of Canada in January last we wish to give our hearty endorsement and support to said recommendation.

10-REMEMBRANCE DAY: Resolved that the Provincial Convention of the Canadian Legion, B. E. S. L. assembled at Mount Stewart, Prince Edward Island, again places on record its appreciation of the fact that November 11th has been set aside as a day of Remembrance by the Government of Canada, and that the day last year was apparently observed by suitable religious services in all parts of Canada, and further it ex-
