Based on the sensational fiction story by Anne Austin, it gives Miss Christians a role that covers every human emotion. Train Travelling May Be Noiseless

(Canadian Press)
 LONDON, March 16—Noiseless travel by train is the latest novelty in the campaign for the abatement of unnecessary noise, and people who watched a certain train slide out of Euston station one day recently might almost have imagined it a phantom passenger carrier. It was the quietest train that ever ran on a British railway—so quiet that permanent-way workers did not hear it until the engine whistled them out of the way. Folks on outside stations merely heard a swish of air as it passed. The train was the new Coventry Pneumatic Railcar on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, running on pneumatic tires fitted to its 16 wheels. Noise was banished except for the rush of the wind and the faint hum of the 12-cylinder petrol engine. Railways for years have been trying to find a light and economical unit for branch lines and for intermediate services in populous districts. They have been fighting weight and noise. This railcar looks like the nearest approach to success.

Plan Poison For Hoppers In 1935 War

(By The Canadian Press)
 OTTAWA, March 16—Midwestern Canada is preparing this spring to renew its fight against an insect scourge that last year cost it 15 per cent of the grain and feed crops in some areas and threatened to cause destruction of as much as 65 per cent of the crop. Officials of the Department of Agriculture here are drawing up battle lines that will bring provincial departments and farmers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta into vigorous conflict with hordes of grasshoppers. They believe recent surveys indicate they have the enemy on the run.

IN MEMORIAM
 MRS. JABEZ WILLIAMS

Seldom have we been so forcibly reminded of the uncertainty of life as when on January 20th the sad news was flashed over the wires that Mrs. Jabez Williams had passed away. Just a week before (Sunday) she had sung in the Tyne Valley choir. On Monday she went to Summerside to spend a few days with her sister, Mrs. Wm. N. Huestis, and the two were having a delightful visit together until Thursday when as a "bolt out of the blue" Mrs. Williams suddenly became very ill and on Friday morning was taken to the Summerside Hospital. Medical skill proved unavailing and on Sunday morning, bidding farewell to those who loved her, she could reach her bedside, she passed away. On Sunday evening the remains were brought to her home in Tyne Valley where many of the neighbors and relatives had already assembled. The husband, who had been in delicate health for some time, seemed to have overcome his grief, but through the efforts of his loving family and friends he has rallied. It seemed like an ill dream that she, who had always been such a wonderfully bright and cordial hostess should not be able to give us a welcome that evening, but when we thought of her as one dead, but rather as one just resting for a short time among her flowers before going on some wonderful journey and we would be selfish to wish her back to earth. That look of joyous expectancy and perfect peace made us feel that even her death had left her body she had glimpsed some of the glory of the life on which she was entering.

ASKS MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

(By The Canadian Press)
 MONTREAL, March 18—A French teacher in the Province of Quebec receives not more than $200 a year, unless she is unusually lucky; some receive as little as $80 a year, it was stated here recently by Abbe Auguste LaPalme of St. Henry. Comparing these salaries with those paid in Western Canada, Ontario and the English schools of Quebec, Abbe LaPalme asked for more adequate remuneration of French teachers, particularly in rural districts. Future generations would have to pay in lowered standards of education unless something were done.

Trans-ocean Race Again Mooted

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
 GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 16—The proposed trans-Atlantic race between the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, prize of the New England fishing fleet and the Canadian schooner Bluebonnet, champion of North Atlantic fishermen, looked up tonight. Captain Ben Pine, managing owner of the Thebaud, announced he would go to Lunenburg, N. S., on Tuesday to confer with the Bluebonnet's backers. The race, if it can be financed, will be sailed in conjunction with the Silver Jubilee of the King and Queen. The two craft will compete, not only in their eastward crossing but also in a series of races in English waters and on their westward run to North America. Pine will meet Captain Angus Walters of the Bluebonnet at Lunenburg and will confer as well with other owners of the famous schooner and representatives of Nova Scotia business interests anxious to have the race materialize.

Ontario Nurses Propose Bureau

(By The Canadian Press)
 TORONTO, March 18—Plans for the establishment of a proposed Community Bureau of Nursing, with the idea of providing a more adequate nursing service to the public, were discussed by the special committee appointed recently by the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario to study the question. It had long been recognized that the nursing needs of the public could be more adequately met if there was a reorganization of the nursing service, it was pointed out. Moreover, at the present time a large percentage of sick people in Ontario go unattended, and if Bureau of Nursing were established throughout the province where all types of nursing service and home help could be obtained, a very urgent need in the community would be met.

Boost Rabbits Advises Farmer

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
 G.P. MONTON, March 18—A farmer writes to the press concerning the homesteader's emergency ration—rabbits. "Here in our door yard, everybody's door yard, from the Red Deer River to the Arctic, running wild, crying out to be gathered, such a crop of food and raiment as perhaps cannot be duplicated anywhere else, and all you need to gather it in is haywire. Food for the million, by the million. "The chef is not yet born that knows all the ways there are to serve up rabbits. You may bake them and boil them, roast or fry them, stew them, curry them or jerk them and eat them or serve 'em in a camp kitchen style 'somewhere in France,' according to taste. If these were good for our boys those days they should be good for our Eskimo and Indian brothers these days. "Just give the rabbit one-tenth of the advertising we are giving our economic problems and we shall have no problem."

IN MEMORIAM
 JOHN J. FRIZZELL
 The village of Bedouque and the surrounding communities were shocked to hear of the sudden passing of John J. Frizzell on February 14th. Although he had been confined to his bed for two weeks, his condition was not considered to be serious until the day before when a serious heart condition developed. Mr. Frizzell was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frizzell, of Norboro, where he was born in 1878. During his earlier years he worked at the tailoring trade at Freetown, for a time in Souris and Summerside, and finally for Mr. William Callbeck, of Central Bedouque. About fifteen years ago he gave up the tailoring business and took over the usual mail route, and fox ranching. For the last three years he has been highway superintendent in District No. 9, in which capacity he proved, as in all his other branches of work, a most capable and untiring worker and manager. The work he carried out to many homes in all the different districts where he was ever welcomed by old and young alike. The children always counted on Mr. Frizzell's visit and counted him their special friend. He will be greatly missed by the farmers of the surrounding community who always found him ready to help when there was any sickness among their livestock. John was always ready either day or night to answer a call for help, even since he has not been in very good health.
 To mourn the loss of a loving husband and a kind and indulgent father, there are left his widow, former Mrs. Carrie Inman, of Central Bedouque; George, of Summerside; Kathleen, Mrs. Otto Doull, of Chelton; Marion, teaching school at Wilmot; John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Doull; also the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Hugh Gamble, of Rose Valley; Mrs. Robert Reeves, of Freetown; Mrs. J. Hilbert Lohnes, of Charlottetown; Miss Emma Frizzell, of Stanchell; Hugh, of Colorado, U.S.A.; Samuel, of O'Leary; Robert and Joseph, of Port Egan, N.B., and James, of Stanchell.
 The funeral took place on Saturday, February 26th. After a short service at his old home in Central Bedouque, the remains were taken to the Centreville Bedouque United Church, where, in spite of the inclement weather, a very large number had gathered, further testifying the esteem in which the deceased was held. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. L. P. Archibald, of the United Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Crowe, of the Central Bedouque Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Archibald brought a message of comfort to the surviving "windows" of the bereaved family, and paid a fine tribute to the life of the departed. Mr. George Bowness, of Summerside, rendered the hymn, "There is Power in the Blood." The hymns "From Every Stormy Wind," "Lead Kindly Light," rendered by the choir were favorites of the deceased. The pall bearers were Messrs. Marchbank Webster, Rufus Bagnall, George Taylor, Daniel Noonan, Calvin Leard, and William Bowness.
 The floral tributes were: Pillow, the family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reeves and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gamble; crescent, Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert Lohnes; sprays, Bible Class and W. M. S. of Bedouque United Church, King's Messengers S.S. and Class of the United Church, Lot Mrs. Percy Miller and Helen Clarke, 16; Misses Lulu and Helen Clarke, of Summerside; Miss Jean and Mr. Francis Cassey, of Wilmot Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Tucker, and Mr. and Mrs. Melville Johnson.
 Interment was in the United Church Cemetery at Bedouque. L-5444-3-19-11

Weak Kidney Action
 From Exhausted Nerves

Digestion and other bodily functions are the result of muscular contraction. The action of the heart in pumping the blood, as well as that of the kidneys in eliminating poisons, is entirely dependent on the nervous system. If nerve force is running low The kidneys become tired and weak and sluggish, just as you suffer from fatigue and languor. To pep up the action of the kidneys And ensure a proper filtering of the blood, It is advisable to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This treatment is well known, almost everywhere, As a most satisfactory restorative of the nervous system. New nerve force is sent tingling through the body, Bringing new pep and vigor and energy To every organ of the body.
