'PURSUED' NOVEL ACTION DRAMA NOW AT PRINCE

All the excitement and thrills that made the wild west so wreckless and violent at the turn of the century, is vigorously captured in Niven Busch's "Pursued" a United States Pictures production released by Warner Bros. which co-stars Teresa Wright and Robert Mitchum, and is currently holding forth at the Prince Edward Theatre. Niven Busch, author of both the original story and the screenplay, has written a dual saga of pioneer days in the old southwest and a long lasting family feud back in the 1890's. Specifically, it relates the stirring plight of Jeb Rand (Robert Mitchum), who is doomed to a life of stark terror and unhappiness by an unseen enemy. It also presents the intrepid romance of Jeb and Thorely Callum (Teresa Wright).

and more popular as many youngsters may be seen on the vacation with gloves and baseball. This is the age at which this game is learned, and now that it has been resumed in the local loop, the youngsters will have an inspiration to start learning how to play. It is expected that next year juvenile teams will be organized, and that a league for these kids will be set up for play among the different centres. Mr. John Hiltz, Red Cross swimming instructor, has in mind this type of organization, and although at present he is devoting most of his time to swimming instruction, he may be able to lay plans for organization next year. —Lan.
