Give the children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

A prominent physician says:

"It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion too, and acts as an anti-septic wash for the mouth and throat. Several flavors—all of WRIGLEY'S quality.

EGG LAYING CONTEST

Notes on the Prince Edward Island Egg Laying Contest for the Fiftieth Week of the Contest, Ending Oct. 15, 1924

The birds in the contest laid 450 eggs during the week, or 21 less than last week. This was very satisfactory, considering the time of year. The total number of eggs laid to date is 30,483, or an average of over 167 per bird. Forty have passed the 200 mark. Hen No. 123 has laid 262 eggs.

Mr. Spurgeon Jenkins' Banded Rocks tied with Mr. Howard Roper's White Wyandottes for first place, with 39 eggs each; Mr. A. Wisner's White Wyandottes tied with the Experimental Station's pen No. 13 for second place, with 35 eggs each; Mrs. Frank Halliday's Banded Rocks were third, with 32 eggs; Mr. D. F. McDonald's Banded Rocks were fourth, with 29 eggs; Rev. A. MacAulay's Banded Rocks tied with Mr. Joseph Carmichael's Banded Rocks for fifth place, with 27 eggs each; Mr. Edward Bullpitt's White Leghorns were sixth, with 26 eggs.

The Experimental Station's pen Nos. 13, 12, and 14 were first, second and third, with 2,089, 2,020 and

"Jump in to the river, Bill; here comes a train!" "I can't swim." "You won't need to—it's only knee-deep."

—SUMMERSIDE AGENT.—Mr. Byron MacDonald of the MacDonald Drug Co., is now Guardian representative in Summerside, and will be pleased to receive news, advertising and Job Printing. Mr. MacDonald sells the Morning Guardian at his store. His telephone No. is 12-2.

—NOTICE—I HEREBY GIVE NOTICE that after the 31st day of October 1924, all persons owing taxes to the Town of Borden, will be placed on the defaulters list and after three weeks of publishing of said list, Judgment will be applied for.—Cornelius Slavin, Town Clerk, Borden, P. E. I. 135-10-15m61

—WHIST CLUB.—The C. W. L. Kensington held their weekly social meet in the Strand Theatre there on Wednesday night and it was the most enjoyable one yet held. The tables were all patronized and a wistful intelligence was maintained throughout. The ladies' prize a mounted Pyrex pie plate was won by Miss Nina McCoubrey, and the gents, a Safety razor, by Mr. George Higgins. The next event is set down for Tuesday night when all expectations will be realized.

—DRAMA IN KENSINGTON.—The Colonial Stock Company played a two nights engagement in Kensington last week and their performances which were received and duly appreciated. The audience on each night was numerous and keenly enjoyed the high class dramas that this efficient company are able to present. On the first night they played "Won by Waiting" and on Monday, "Going Straight." Both dramas good in themselves were well presented and interest in the performance never once abated. The specialties between acts were very well rendered especially so by little Hazel Fox, a child only six years old, who is able to perform in a manner that would shed lustre upon actors of mature years. The orchestral selections were well chosen and capably rendered.

—KENSINGTON FORWARD.—You should see the manifestation of enterprise that is now so evident in Kensington. Going down street you see the new store of John McGoughan standing ready for the plasterer, further on you note the site of the Laird & White meat shop and the Bank of Nova Scotia looking across at their business again flourishing. The large building of R. Tuplin & Co., only needs the placing of the necessary interior fixtures to accommodate the business now being handled immediately across the street. The new Commercial Hotel the new Drug Store and the new store of J. A. McPherson are all rushing to completion. Before the snow flies, visitors to the town will be asking where was the fire? The enterprise deserves the merit encouragement. The new Mc-Nutt building on west side is fast rushing to completion.

Injuries received Aug. 6, when he was struck by an automobile while on traffic duty at Broadway and Eleanor street, Chelsea. The driver of the automobile, William Kilger, of 29 Rossiter street, Dorchester, who was arrested at the time of the accident on various charges, will be re-arrested in the Chelsea court this morning on a charge of manslaughter.

The car which hit Patrolman McKenzie failed to stop, and later struck Patrolman Charles Kennedy. The machine was found abandoned on Shurtleff street, Chelsea. According to the police, Kennedy boarded a car and went to Revere, where he told the Metropolitan police that the car had been stolen from him. The Metropolitan police turned him over to the Chelsea police, and he was identified as the driver by Patrolman Kennedy and by Thomas A. Thomas, of 4807 Washington St., Roxbury.

Patrolman McKenzie was born at Prince Edward Island June 16, 1872. He was appointed as a reserve officer in Chelsea, Nov. 5, 1906 and as a permanent officer Oct. 18, 1911. He is survived by his widow, Celia, and by eight children. He will be buried in uniform, Thursday morning.

Vikings Of Old Times Showed Great Skill As Hardy Navigators

(United Press.) REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Oct. 17.—American naval officers who last month visited Iceland in connection with the globe encircling flight of the American aviators, were greatly interested in the navigational methods of the old vikings who, more than 1,000 years ago, sailed their little vessels, without compasses or other instruments, across the storm-beaten north Atlantic to Iceland, Greenland and even the shores of North America.

Even today the charts of these waters are largely based on observations and soundings made by whalers and the early explorers, scores of years ago, and the few large vessels that today visit these seas proceed with the utmost caution. Sailing directions, the "Bible of the Sea," are carefully consulted, and when new soundings are made the results are sent to the different governments for incorporation in the charts. But when Leif Erickson and the other adventurous old Norsemen of more than ten centuries ago set out on their dangerous voyages there were no charts, and the stars were the only directional guides. The observations they made were for centuries the only sailing directions, and the galleys swept over the rough seas. Some of these sagas exist today, and old pilots at Reykjavik are familiar with the lore they contain.

One of these, describing the journey from Norway to Greenland, not only takes account of the physical features to be watched for, but advises the navigators to keep a lookout for the birds and whales that mark the approach to the Icelandic coast. A naval officer who made a study of this route found it was almost a perfect great-circle, or shortest sailing route, worked out without any scientific aids by navigators who probably could neither read nor write.

"I FEEL awfully anxious about my wife," said Black to his friend; "she's out in this downpour of rain."

"Oh, she'll be all right, old man," answered White; "she'll shelter in some store."

"Yes," sighed Black, "that's what makes me anxious. She's got a ten-dollar bill of mine."
