MRS. MAY COULD NOT WORK

MADE WELL AND STRONG BY LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Columbia, Pa.—"I was very weak and run down and had dragging down pains and pains in my back. I could not get around to do my work and had to sit down and rest often during the day. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement in the papers and read the testimonials, so I thought I would try it. Now I am healthier than I ever was in my life, and can recommend it to any woman who suffers as I did."—Mrs. ELIZABETH MAY, R. F. D. No. 1, Columbia, Pa.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so cent lithia-water beverage, and be a good kidney flushing any time, successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence, and the letters which we are constantly publishing from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of this famous root and herb medicine.

FASHIONS FOR CANADIANS

Navy or black taffeta and white organza may be combined in the simple frock shown in today's sketch. A touch of cross stitch embroidery done in thread matching the color of the frock, appears on the band at the edge of the skirt, on the sleeves and collar. The dress buttons in the centre back. Taffeta is the most popular of hot weather silks, regardless of the fact that the softer weaves are quite in evidence for the coming summer. Taffeta has a crispness that makes it look cool whether it is or not, and it lends itself to the fluffy ruffles styles that usually put in their appearance for warm weather.

The bodice of the frock sketched today is a slight indication of the elongated waist-line that is now being talked of for fall and winter. The first line of fall dresses to be brought out will be of wool fabric, serge and tricotine predominating. The low waistline is arrived at in various ways. One frock seen in the advance showing has a fitted upper section of metal cloth reaching about to the hips, with serge skirt attached. There is no indication of a nip in natural waist-line and the metal bodice simply follows the natural lines of the figure, closely but not snugly. The skirt is comparatively narrow. This condition exists in all except the models where pleated skirts appear. When unpleated close reefed is the rule.

Another serge frock featuring the low waistline has flaring cornucopia shaped pockets set on at either side, the upper part of the dress showing an unbroken line to the hips.

A two fabric combination frock makes the development of the low waist line easy, but fully as many perhaps more, dresses in the first

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

BY DELLA E. STEWART

We build so many fences about our lives! Sometimes we hedge ourselves about so thickly that others find it hard to penetrate to the real woman within. We forget, when we do, that we are very likely shutting out more than we are including. For the mere fact of fence building indicates some weakness of character which we would hide from others. There's the fence of ignorance, for one. We seem to think that we know all that there is to know and so resent any well meant attempt to enlighten. "What's the use of trying to learn more about this or that? I get along well enough anyway." "Why should I bother my head with listening or reading? I'm busy enough without." Ignorance is a very high fence, indeed, shutting out easy methods of doing work, splendid broadness of thought and outlook, even health itself.

Then there's the fence of self-pride. Not for us the friendly helpfulness, the pleasant social intercourse. No, indeed! Others might use some of our lacks and make comments. Or we are so self sufficient that we do not care for others. The fence of self-pride is a close one. The fence of jealousy is a still closer one. Some one else has a little more than we have, has a happier disposition, and more friends. So we surround ourselves with the fence of jealous feeling. We prick ourselves on its sharp points many times a day, yet we refuse to take it down. We sit within and envy and suspect and gossip, not because others have done us any wrong but because we've built our prickly fence and just won't come outside.

What do we gain from this fence building? Zero—that's the only answer.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS

Scarlet-runner beans serve a double purpose. They provide both beautiful flowers and nourishing food. Some people do not realize that the beans are good to eat. Yet in England they are grown by the acre by market gardeners for the city trade. A good way to increase the yield is to wait until the runners are about a foot from the top of the pole and then pinch out the top. This will make them throw out additional trusses of bloom and, of course, increase the number of beans.

Silver Fox Farming

Silver fox farming will be largely extended this year. Hardheaded people are realizing that it offers a very large return on the investment. The result is that many people in Prince Edward Island, the Mainland and further afield are taking up this wonderful industry.

The demand for fox wire netting to enclose the foxes will be very great. You would be well advised to secure yours now. We will receive in a few days the largest shipment of ENGLISH FOX WIRE ever brought to America, but of this shipment we have already sold one third and inquiries are piling in so rapidly that we look for a scarcity later on.

We want to impress on you the fact that this wire is the very highest quality, made by the biggest makers of wire netting in the world. You can build a ranch with the absolute confidence that it will successfully hold your foxes. Write us today for prices.
