Calls Communist Coup Treacherous Conquest

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON, June 2. — (AP) — Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep. Mich.) in a major Senate speech said today that the seizure of power by Communists in Hungary "stirs a further sense of outrage" and may require a trial at the bar of the United Nations. He said it "may become America's duty" to sound the call for a trial. Urging prompt ratification of the Italian-Balkan peace treaties, Vandenberg also: 1. Predicted that the Communists will soon follow up the "treacherous conquest" in Hungary with "rigged elections." 2. Raised the possibility of American action to seek a separate peace with Germany and Austria without waiting "too much longer" for Russian co-operation. The forceful language used by Vandenberg in describing his attitude toward delay in the overall peace settlements for Europe reflected agreement with the policy the administration has been taking toward Russia in the last several months. Vandenberg was in tune with the State Department, too, in his attitude toward the political coup in which Communist-supported Lajos Dinnyes replaced Ferenc Nagy as premier of Hungary. He said the Communists had never given "a more cynical demonstration of their idea of democracy" if the facts are as stated, he continued, the United States may find its duty to bring the whole matter before the United Nations. Nevertheless, Vandenberg argued that the United States' best interests will still be served by ratification, instead of rejection, of a treaty with Hungary, which he said has not become "another Soviet satellite." "If we do not ratify that treaty, Soviet control of Hungary continues without any sort of interruption," he said. He contended this would discourage democratic elements in that country. On the other hand he said ratification of the agreement would restore Hungary, "at least in theory" to the status of a free nation. Then any offense against her would be a matter for the United Nations to consider. Also pending are treaties with Italy, Bulgaria and Romania.
