The McKinnon Drug Company have put in two new and larger plate glass windows in the front of their store on the corner of Kent and Great George Streets. On Saturday evening many paused to admire the splendid photographed group of the thirteen graduates of St. Dunstan's College for 1910, which was exhibited in the show window of G. H. Cook & Co. on Queen Street. The whole design is a particularly attractive one and represents an assimilation of education. "Let there be light" is the substance for the idea and the result of this demand is shown in the springing forth of education and faith, while the new life is represented by the two Easter lilies from which spring the floral crosses. The college staff are shown at the bottom, their photos being framed in the representation of a college edifice. The whole is an especially good thing in photography and the original idea is splendidly worked out in the attractively designed picture.

The apple trees are beginning to come into blossom and the Dept. of Agriculture, City, is receiving considerable enquiry in regard to spraying. No spraying should be done until after the blossoms have fallen. The proper spray then to use is either the poisoned Bordeau mixture or the Commercial Lime Sulphur Wash and Arsenate of lead. The latter spray is somewhat new in this Province and is being highly recommended by the Agricultural Colleges. It pays to spray at this time of year as this is the application that kills the coddling moth. It should be put on as soon as blossoms have fallen.
