AT THE PRINCE EDWARD WED. AND THURSDAY THE PHOTOPLAY IMMORTAL

Scene after scene of drifting loveliness in a story that absorbs the attention of the old man of seventy, the young girl of eighteen, the child of five, the college boy of twenty, the tired business man and the mother of the household; humor and laughter in every scene with tears just around the corner in many places; beauty of setting, beauty of face, beauty of story, beauty of acting, everywhere—in the humble cottage, through the window shadows, before the portals of night's secrets, in snow and sunshine and flowers, in the graveyard and in the kingdom of the Future, everywhere, in every scene in every portion of the most beautiful picture ever painted on the screen by the hand of a master-artist.

That's Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird." That and a thousand things more. No story-in-words, no attempt at description, can put before the eye what the picture of Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" really is. No one can tell in words the thrill that comes to the heart as the true meaning of the story gradually unfolds; no one can explain the eternal charm there is in the sight of the sail-ship from the Kingdom of the Future and the mother's singing on the cliffs by the sea.

Such words as "each time you smile I am younger by a year and your kisses put stars in my eyes, my babies!" cannot in themselves bring tears to the eyes, but the picture in which they are silently spoken can bring the thrill that is like the touch of an unseen power. You may not know what it is that grips you, but you know there is something there deeper, truer, more lasting than any picture story you ever saw.

And the reason is this.—Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" is immortal. It is based on things that know no time, nor limitations of age, creed or sex. It is as sure of life as life itself and it will live in this masterpiece of photographic art long after the screen tales of this year and next year and many years after that, are dead and forgotten.

WHAT SOLDIERS NEED

When you send your parcels to the front, don't you want it to contain just what your friend most needs? Read this letter and take the hint! Nothing ends pain like Zam-Buk, and prevents festering. Remember, too, it is just as useful in your home. Mothers should always keep it handy for it is a sure cure for eczema, ulcers, piles, and skin diseases generally.

(Somewhere in Belgium)
 Cigarettes + tobaccos are rather overdone. Measure in doubt as to what to send the men, always depend on Zam-Buk + Socks. being acceptable. Zam-Buk is much in demand for blistered heels, bandaged feet, cuts, + summer sore places + injuries.
 Yours truly,
 A. Brooks (Capt.)
 No 4 Co
 7th Battalion.

Especially suitable for the skin troubles of young children. All druggists 50c. box.

Linens of Before the War Quality—less than Present Wholesale Prices

At The "Shamrock Linen" Store

A FEW DAYS AGO THE TRAVELLER OF the linen department of a big wholesale house dropped in to see us. He looked through the lines shown in that daylight linen room of ours—to the head of the department said he "your selling linens retail here cheaper than I am able to offer them wholesale."

There's a reason. We are selling now linens bought in some cases, 2 years ago. We felt sure it would be impossible to get more of many lines we carried—so bought great supplies away ahead.

That's why we are able to give you the best linen values in the market to-day. Will you drop in while at the Exhibition, and visit the smartest linen department in Prince Edward Island.
