Three Great Englishmen

(By Dominion News Service)

LONDON, June 18—When the stamp collectors of Great Britain met in congress at the Hotel Cecil M. Mangy, of Belgium, delivered an address. And this is how he began:

"I am addressing you in the beautiful language of Shakespeare Lloyd George and Horatio Bottomley."

He went on to say that the English-speaking nations collected stamps in a more scientific manner than did the Belgians.

Mrs. C. C. Gardiner

In the passing of the late Mrs. C. Coulson Gardiner, the Guardian tenders its sincere sympathy to the bereaved husband, family, and friends of the deceased.

Mrs. Gardiner, who was the eldest daughter of the late Chief Justice Palmer, was a lady of most cheerful and happy disposition warm-hearted, and a delightful companion. Married some twenty-five years ago, she and her husband, travelled extensively, visiting almost every place of interest in the Old as well as the New World, and she had many vivid and pleasant memories of the places seen. Fascinated with California as they decided to reside there, and built a very pretty and artistic home. Unfortunately Mrs. Gardiner contracted rheumatism abroad, from which she never fully recovered. They finally decided to return to Canada, and arrived here four years ago.

During Mrs. Gardiner's residence in California she made many friends, and was instrumental in organizing a very influential chapter of the Daughters of the British Empire in the United States of America, and was made Regent of the same. She was also a Charter Member of the Royal Edward Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in this city, and was also an active worker of the National Women's Council, from which emanated the Canadian Reading Club, and was of great assistance in all phases of women's work.

In her early days many will remember her as a talented singer, possessing a sweet and powerful voice, and she was much in demand for concerts, and other entertainments. She was a member of St. Peter's Church of this city, from the time the same was opened, and was always a zealous and faithful worker in the same.

She leaves to mourn besides her husband, four sisters, namely Frances in Athens, Greece, Mrs. Hartley, a widow in London, England and the Misses Ella and Margaret at the homestead; also two brothers Mr. H. J. and Captain E. Palmer, both residing here.

The funeral took place Sunday and was largely attended. The remains were interred in the family plot at Sherwood, Rev. Mr. Malone Rector of St. Peter's officiating both in the church and at the grave.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received, among them a crescent from the Royal Edward Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire here.

Storm Causes Great Havoc In Saskatchewan

(Canadian Press)

SASKATOON, Sask, June 18 — One death and a rapidly mounting toll of property damage had been reported here tonight up to eight o'clock in a hurricane which swept Central Saskatchewan on Saturday night. Store fronts were demolished, farm buildings carried hundreds of yards through the air, telephone lines blown down and a farmhouse destroyed by lightning, according to reports received here from points over a hundred mile radius.

Victor Cassidy, 15, was killed when a bunk house in which he was staying on a farm near Rosetown, was picked up bodily and blown twenty yards through the air. The lad fell out and was dashed to death on the ground. Ten miles northwest of Rosetown a shack in which Mr. and Mrs. Nile Woods were sleeping, was picked up by the wind and tumbled for a mile and a half across the prairies. The woman escaped with a bad shaking up, but Woods is reported in a serious condition.

In the Rosetown district and town, many buildings were unroofed and small structures and barns badly wrecked. Telephone lines are down for miles. Six patients on the upper floor of the Rosetown Hospital were endangered when the roof of the structure vanished but the building itself did not give way and there were no casualties.

At Vanscoy, west of Saskatoon, a few miles, minor damage was done, chimnies blown down, elevator doors blown off and fences flattened.

In Saskatoon the storm was at its height about one o'clock Sunday morning and lasted about 40 minutes. It was followed by showers which have continued intermittently all day. Minor damage to frail buildings resulted here, but there were no casualties reported.

At Kindersley an unoccupied farm house was struck by lightning and destroyed. There was no wind damage reported from Kindesley, the storm being an electric one accompanied by heavy rain.

Many persons had miraculous escapes from death during the storm. Arthur Brown was sleeping in a bunkhouse near Rosetown which started a five hundred yard journey, finally sailing over a haystack. Landing on the other side it smashed to pieces. Brown was not hurt, but as he was crawling on his hands and knees to shelter a barrel struck him on the head. He is in hospital at Rosetown and will recover.

Edward Allard's large farm house also in the Rosetown district, containing himself and his family, was switched completely around in its foundation. None of them were hurt. His barn and outbuildings, including six granaries, were badly smashed and eight horses and several cattle were killed.
