PROCEEDINGS IN THE PROV'L LEGISLATURE

General Discussion on the Estimates in Which Many of the Members Take Part.

MONDAY, APRIL 22, 1918.

The debate on the Budget was concluded on Monday evening, when the House went into committee on the Estimates for the year 1918.

Under the heading "Supreme Court," Mr. Johnston took exception to the grant of $100.00 for the Crier for the Supreme Court and Court of Chancery. He was of opinion that this officer might be dispensed with as being unnecessary, especially in this time when it was essential to save as much as possible. All that the officer was doing, he said, was to cry "Oyez! Oyez!"—a ceremony that might be done away with in view of the great need for economy, and the democratic tendency of the times.

The Premier said that so far as he was personally concerned the officer might be dispensed with; but there were certain formalities attaching to the Courts that, while of no material necessity, were indispensable to their proper decorum and dignity. The Crier was just as necessary as the lawyer's gown, and the Judge's.

"The item was passed."

There was considerable discussion of the item "Agricultural Department" which was taken up the next evening.

Mr. Bell said that the Government was proposing to save on exhibitions some $8,440, the cost of the exhibitions last year. The total cost of the Department last year was $14,663, so that if they saved $8,440, the net expenditure ought to be about six thousand dollars. There must be a serious discrepancy, because the estimate provided for $10,920. There was also an item of $500.00 to fall on the shoulders of the Government during the coming season for agricultural purposes, for the purchase of seed or whatever purpose the Government might put it to. He didn't see that $500.00 included.

THE PREMIER: Isn't that an expenditure that can well come under the head of "War Expenditure?"

MR. BELL: No; it would seem to be rather in the direction of greater production.

THE PREMIER: Why?

MR. BELL: Well—

THE PREMIER: On account of the war.

MR. BELL: It would seem to me that when we are making a proposed expenditure of twenty thousand dollars for war purposes, that ought to be separate and apart and not included. It would seem to me that some provision should be made for that increased expenditure under the head of the Agricultural Department. What amount we may have to supply is indefinite; it is $5000 anyway. I understand there was some proposal that possibly the amount we would have to supplement would be $7000.

Mr. Bell went on the state what his position was with regard to the increase of production. He said he was not arguing whether it was expedient to introduce into the schools the subject of teaching agriculture by means of home projects. While he was in accord with that proposition, which was introduced by the Government a day or two ago and for which they deserved credit, the proposition which he was submitting to the house was purely a question of making a war appeal to the country and to the scholars of the country. He said there was a great necessity for labour and the Government should avail itself of every ounce of labour that could possibly be obtained for the purpose of greater production, and the Government should make an appeal to the teachers and scholars to assist in greater production. The teachers and scholars were really awaiting the word of command from the Government. As regards the suggestion made by Mr. Saunders, that the Home projects was a childish and foolish proposition, Mr. Bell quoted a statement contained in the "Agricultural Gazette" to support an excellent thing. Having read that authority, he asked the question: Would Mr. Saunders dare to say that the proposition of home projects was foolish and childish, in the face of that quotation? (Laughter.) His proposition was to spend the money that ought to be spent on the school and the teachers. Part of the $10,000 might be used for prizes, part might be used for the purpose of implementing the teachers salaries.

Mr. Bell suggested that, in connection with the appeal, which he advocated to the school teachers and children to assist in greater production the money could be used to give the prizes in any shape or form, preferably medals and ribbons.

HON. MR. MCKINNON: said that there was an item of $1400 for a professor of agriculture and travelling expenses. This item and others were not in 1917 charges to the agricultural professor of agriculture was not employed; but they were left in the estimates for this year as they would likely be required. Reference was made to the sum of $5000, which was made to the Opposition and should be provided. As far as that grant was concerned, that would be an extra expenditure. "In connection with the agricultural appropriation there is a considerable organization now for the agricultural work. $10000 will go on as usual. As to the $10000 extra to be spent $5000 of which is to be supplemented by this Government) there is no definite organization, only in so far as it was done since this House met, and hon. members know all about it. As far as the spending of it or any part of it is concerned, if it is to be left to me, I desire the assistance of members on the other side as well as this side, because I think it is work that has to be done over and above the work usually done, and it will require the assistance of everybody who can give advice. I am ready, as far as my part of the work is concerned, to take advice from any member.

Reference was made by the hon. member to the work done in the public schools in the way of home projects and other work in connection with the schools. The hon. Leader of the Opposition was good enough to give the Government credit last year and this year again for that work. In that he was a right, I consider it good work and a success and I appreciate his commendation of it. It came at a time when certain parties were willing to jump on the whole proceeding and say it was no good. The hon. gentleman assisted it very largely by expressing himself as plainly and emphatically as he did on that matter.

As far as the other proposition is concerned, that is, enlisting the sympathies and efforts of 18,000 school children throughout this province towards increased production, I have only to say, as regards enlisting their efforts, that I am certain, and I will show by and by that I have good reason to approve. I mentioned in my remarks the other evening the statement made by the member for the Second District, but I only mentioned it to show the difference between these two hon. gentlemen in the Opposition, and how hard it was, when they were offering help so freely, to accept that help, when they could not agree among themselves. I don't agree with the hon. member for the Second District that the home projects is a foolish undertaking. On the other hand, I think it is a splendid thing. The hon. member from Victoria a few evenings ago read from a report, where somebody in authority who has a good deal to do with the education of this province, stated that he disapproved of the course followed by the people of this province, that they were manuring too much land and growing more crops in the field and more cattle, and so on, and all of which he disapproved. I took the same view then as the hon. member did, and thought it was a statement that should never have been made. It was a statement that was not a credit to the people of the province. He that just shows this house the condition of things at that time and the reason they were in that condition. It shows the difficulty of doing anything along the line of agricultural education in the common schools and Prince of Wales College in the face of such a statement as the hon. member quoted, and it was a face to face with that difficulty for twenty years or more, trying to remedy it without success, because there were men who would find a way to sidetrack everything that was done. That statement had more to do with a determined effort to get over the difficulty than anything else, and from that time to the present there was no let-up on the effort to bring agricultural work into the public schools and Prince of Wales College, as the people of the province demanded for a good many years. The result is, we have to-day in a large measure what we desire. It has not failed to large proportions yet, but it is growing and is on a good footing; as far as anything that the Agricultural Department did or did not do is concerned, there is one thing I don't hesitate to do, and that is to take some credit to the Department for that work. If we were in the position of the Leader of the Opposition, and were only now thinking of organizing this work, the war would be over before it could be done. It started it four years ago and it has been going ever since, and the very organization he is asking for is in existence now. They are working now and the opportunity is before every school and school teacher, and it is only a matter of how they can be kept enthused.

The Leader of the Opposition proposes that the $10,000 should be paid in prizes, and some of it should be paid to some teachers for extra work they have in connection with this. If the hon. gentleman were more in touch with things, he would know that this is not as necessary as he thinks it is. As far as prizes are concerned, they have been to a very small extent given. It is better to let the work grow along lines you are sure you can handle. It is not so quick that you will not be able to handle it. It is not an easy matter to handle work of this kind, and if the organization had not been made and good men put in charge of it, it would not have been as successful as it is. This has been done by the school inspectors, who took hold of this work and the school work—men who have been condemned year after year. We are providing for it as fast as it grows. We made arrangements that one of these men should give his whole time to directing and assisting in this work, so that there would be no danger of getting into difficulties. The teachers are already

THE SECOND DRIVE BEGINS FOR POSSESSION OF AMIENS

After Three Weeks Preparation the Germans Began Their Second Drive for Amiens. They Succeeded in Capturing Two Villages But Their Attacks Were Repulsed at Several Other Points.

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, April 25.—After three weeks of preparation in the Somme, during which time they launched an offensive in Flanders, the Germans have resumed their hammering at the front door of Amiens. For days there has been heavy artillery firing along the northern sectors of the Somme Salient and finally the German infantry began their attempts to advance on the line passing Villers Bretonneux, Hangard, Haches and Castel. The first attacks were repulsed, but subsequent attacks centred about Villers Bretonneux have caused British withdrawal from this village according to a report from Field-Marshal Haig. This marks a machine gunner was captured.

GERMAN ATTACK BROKEN UP.
An attack above Albert came after half hour's bombardment by the enemy. As the German infantry left their trenches, the British deluged them with rifle and machine gun fire and forced a hasty retirement.

BRITISH OPERATION COMPLETE SUCCESS.
A British operation yesterday over a 2000 yard front in the River de Vignage sector was a complete success and greatly improved the defending lines.

On the British sector, Villers Bretonneux, which nestles on a ridge overlooking the long stretch of the Somme front, was the storm centre and here the enemy for the first time since the war began had tanks in action. Three of these engines of war accom-

DAIRY INSTRUCTOR'S REPORT.
During January and February I attended several sessions of the Short Courses in Agriculture held at different centres throughout the Island. The subjects dealt with were milk production from the standpoint of keeping individual records, and the care of milk and cream on the farm. Both subjects were selected as having a practical bearing on the work of the average dairyman, and from the discussions with which they were accompanied an indication of the intended improvement in that regard could be had. The need for more efficient cows is self-evident so that milk may be produced at the lowest possible cost per cwt. The usual business principals are being adopted to dairying as never before.

The President gave a very interesting and comprehensive review of what had been accomplished since the last annual meeting. He stated that as at that meeting no provision had been made for assessing the factories the executive had been handicapped and in their endeavor to produce funds from the Government had been informed that it was necessary for them to formulate some definite line of progress before any further funds would be granted. He laid particular emphasis upon the necessity of the meeting, putting forward some such proposition. He also urged that the discussion to follow be of a constructive rather than of a critical character.

Following the President's address the Dairy Inspector, Mr. F. T. Morrow, submitted his report which follows:—

During March I attended the Truro Dairy School, and assisted Mr. Barry and Mr. Robertson in the cheese and butter instruction work. This course was a decided success. The nine teen makers in attendance expressed favorable opinions of the work and the benefits that must follow. Before returning to P. E. Island I spent some time with the commission merchants in Halifax discussing the
