

SEES METHODIST GROWTH IN THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT

MONTREAL, Oct. 20—The Herald says: The fact that a very considerable proportion of the new members of the Canadian Parliament are Methodists is taken by Sir Robert Perks, the distinguished British parliamentarian who is in the city, and who has been a prominent figure at the Ecumenical Congress at Toronto, as an indication of the hold which Methodism has got in Canada.

Sir Robert is the first person to enquire into the denominational distinctions of the new Parliament, and speaks of mine to find out what is the real strength of the Methodist church in the newly elected Dominion Parliament and my friend, who has access to a very accurate source of information, told me that there are seventy-two Roman Catholics, and, strange to say, an equal number of Methodists and Presbyterians, there being forty-six of each.

EXPERT ON BOOKS GETS A LONG JAIL TERM.

CHATHAM, Ont. Oct. 21—Richard P. Canning, convicted of uttering about $2,000 worth of forged cheques on a local bank of the Dominion branch, was sentenced to seven years in Kingston penitentiary by Magistrate Houston.

Canning's career is one of pathetic interest. An accountant and mathematician with an international reputation, he twice previously served long terms in Sing Sing prison for forgery. On both occasions he had his terms shortened for good behavior and he established a system of book-keeping in Sing Sing that is in existence in that institution today. It was while in Sing Sing that he conceived the idea of coming to Canada and making a clean start in life.

An Ottawa despatch says: A partial explanation of where the people of the Maritime Provinces have gone during the past decade is supplied by a glance over the list of homesteads in the annual reports of the Department of the Interior. This shows that during the decade homestead entries were made in the west by 1,732 persons from Nova Scotia, 881 from New Brunswick, and 55 from Prince Edward Island. To this extent at least there has been merely a displacement of population and not the exodus which there used to be. It is the rule of the Department to average that each homestead entry means the placing of five people on the land, but this is hardly likely to be the case in the position of the young men who went west from the Maritime Provinces. Still they are not lost to Canada, as their fathers were twenty years ago. There must also have been a great displacement of population in the case of young people who went west to take up positions as teachers or in commercial life.

MORE TROUBLE EXPECTED IN MEXICO SOON.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21—Though the so-called Reyes revolt in Tabasco and Southern Yucatan is not regarded generally as important, the federal government and population of the peninsula are in a panicky state.

Troops are held at Merida, the capital of Yucatan with a train ready to transport them to disaffected points should the report of an uprising prove true. There is great excitement over a rumor that a mysterious ship landed arms and ammunition on the Yucatan coast.

The transport Progresso is ready at Vera Cruz to carry troops to Tabasco. Zapataists chiefs in the demand which they sent to Ismael Rivera, cashier of the San Rafael paper mill at Ozuama, the largest plant of the kind in the republic, for 8,000 pesos, threatening to attack the place if the money was not paid.

From Mazatlan comes the news that Gem Randeras, the erstwhile self-styled governor of that town, but who had promised to be peaceable, is with others collecting troops and guns in Culiacan Rosales to resist the federalists who are going there to pacify the state of Sinaloa.

Boy's Foot Badly Scalded.

MOTHER SAYS ZAM-BUK ACTED LIKE MAGIC! Mrs. E. Capell, 31 Sydenham Street, Hamilton, tells how beneficial Zam-Buk proved in her family. She writes: "My little boy, aged one and a half years, put his foot into a pot of boiling water. The foot was so badly scalded that the skin came off with the stocking, and he had a shocking scald, from instep to toes.

I at once sent for a supply of Zam-Buk, and as soon as this was applied, it seemed to act like magic and gave him ease. It was good to tell that Zam-Buk stopped the pain, because up to applying it I had to nurse the child all the time, but soon after I applied Zam-Buk he was anxious to get on the floor and go on with his play!

"I only used four boxes of Zam-Buk, and the scald was then entirely healed, so I consider this the best investment I ever made. I believe Zam-Buk would have cured the scald even more quickly had the boy been lying down all the time, but after beginning with Zam-Buk, it made the sore so easy that he was soon on his feet and playing about again.

"I might also tell you that my next boy to him, aged five years, had some bad broken chilblains. We used Zam-Buk on these also, and it cured them. For sores of any kind, I shall in future use only Zam-Buk." Housekeepers everywhere speak similarly of Zam-Buk. It is a sure cure for eczema, rashes, ringworm, chapped hands, scurvy, heat rashes, abscesses, ulcers, discharging sores, cuts, burns, piles, inflammation, festering and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for price. For skin diseases use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

REPORT ON BIG ENGLISH STRIKE IS VERY POINTED.

LONDON, Oct. 21—In a report issued yesterday by the Railway Commission of Inquiry, which was appointed in August last to endeavor to effect a settlement of questions at issue between the railway companies and their employees who were then on strike, opposition is expressed to recognition by the companies of the men's unions. "The commissioner thinks," the report says, "that with their great responsibilities the companies cannot and should not be expected to permit any interference by their men on the subjects of discipline and management."

The commission recommends the adoption of a new scheme, to be in force until January 6, 1914, by which all questions affecting hours of work, wages and conditions of service that cannot be settled by negotiations should be referred to a conciliation board to be formed along the lines of the existing sectional boards of conciliation. It is proposed also that the existing agreements between the companies and the men shall remain in force until January 7, 1912. The commissioner recommends in conclusion that men on strike shall not be allowed to coerce by threats or intimidation other men who wish to work.

GERMAN VIEW OF THE CHINA TROUBLE

The provinces of Honan and Hupeh are divided by a high range of hills, through which the only pass for many miles is traversed by the railway. It is reported that this pass is held by the rebels, who have posted many guns. They are supposed to have cut off 3,000 imperial troops, who are fleeing northwards from Hankow.

The government first mentioned Kwang Shui, which is on the south slope of the hills, as the place of Yin Tchang's mobilization, but evidently the minister has been content to assemble his forces on the north side of the hills. The pass is believed to be impassable by the troops under Yin Tchang. Whether he will reinforce them is questionable, because of the growing feeling that it will be necessary to retain all available forces as near to Peking as possible. It is stated significantly that Yin Tchang intends to perfect his organization before advancing against the rebels holding Hankow, which is some miles below Hankow, at the narrowest point of the Yang Tse Kiang.

A reliable report has reached here that on the morning of October 18 the third brigade of government troops arriving at the Liu Chia Miao stations were fired upon by the rebels with thirty-six field guns, whereupon the whole brigade stampeded to the north. The provincial troops hastened to their aid, but without avail. The imperial troops were in a state of consternation and the rout advised add that the brigade had no option but to return to Sin Yang Chau and await reinforcements. Liu Chia Miao is about 65 miles to the northeast of Kwang Shui, and it is therefore evident, is report of the rout is true that the government does not hold Kwang Shui.

INDIANS AS TRAILERS

Assuming the correctness of a recent statement in the Office Window in which it was held that the eyesight of the Indian is less keen than that of the white man, it will be conceded that in one branch of outdoor work the red man is unequalled, and that is trailing. The Indian will find and follow a trail which the average white man could never discover. The Indian himself cannot clearly account for his success in this sort of work. It appears to spend three days in vain efforts to track them. Then four young Indians attending the Carlisle Indian school were asked to take the matter up, which they did with so much success that in half a day they had led the police to a country church several miles away in which the plunder was hidden. Those Indian boys found the trail and held it over territory in which the paleface sleuths had seen nothing at all.—New York Evening Mail.

PORTLAND, ME.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 22—As the climax to months of hardships, during which he and his little band of followers at times suffered from hunger and thirst, as their yacht Coronet was buffeted about by sea and wind, the Rev. Frank W. Sanford, leader of the Holy Ghost and Us Society of Shiloh, was brought to this city tonight in the custody of the county authorities.

His arrest was made on a writ in a civil suit brought by Mrs. Florence N. Whittaker, wife of one of the Holy Ghost and Us leaders, who alleges that she was illegally detained aboard the Kingdom, formerly on of the Sanford fleet. She was released on Habeas Corpus proceedings in June, 1911, and since then the authorities have been waiting the appearance of Sanford within the jurisdiction of the State that they might place him under arrest.

When Sanford was brought ashore from the Coronet, which swings at anchor off the quarantine station, a wrecked and disabled craft, he was accompanied by the husband of the woman at whose instance he was arrested, the Rev. A. A. Whittaker. The latter came ashore that he might assist in arranging bail for his leader. Tonight two men were brought ashore from the Coronet by health authorities and placed in a local hospital, both suffering from scurvy. Seven others, six men and one child died of the same disease and were buried at sea during the past few months according to statements made by members of the crew. Many others have had touches of scurvy.

The men taken to the hospital tonight were: John Cummings, a sailor, whose home is in Canada; and John Holster, a Maine man, for seven years past a missionary to Africa. Both in a serious condition. Although the Coronet made port early in the day, it was not until after the health officers were allowed to board her. Immediately the quarantine flag was lowered, Deputy Sheriff Arthur M. Pickett, of Cumberland county, who has been waiting for hours clambered over the side and took Elijah Sandford into custody. He was later released on bail.

Capt. Everett Knight and several members of the crew of the Coronet were taken ashore after the quarantine was removed, the former to telephone to the chief of station for a new crew to take charge of the yacht, and relieve the worn out sailors. Not a sail of her original suit of canvas was left whole and there was a foot of water in the cabin when the Coronet entered the harbor and dropped anchor off the quarantine station today. Her flying jibboom both her jibs and joresail were carried away in recent storms and her mainsail was split to ribbons. The pumps were being worked continually.

In the vessel's larder there was not a loaf of bread and no fresh meat has passed the lips of the religious seafarers for many days. So exhausted and weakened were the crew and passengers that it is doubtful if they could have kept their craft afloat for many days. For four months the Coronet had struggled against the elements as she beat her way up the coast but never once did her commander ask aid. His only request from passing vessels being for food for the crew and passengers. The Coronet has been at sea since June 27 when she sailed from a Haytien port and was reported on Sept. 27, when she was sighted by the steamer Lapland flying signals which indicated that she was short of provisions. The Lapland sent relief and proceeded. At the time the Coronet was off Cape Sable.

For the last week the staunch craft been beating her way along the coast, her crew despairing her ability to reach port. On board were 55 people, including Rev. Sanford and his wife and five children. Besides the thirty-one survivors of the wreck

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 20—A verdict of acquittal of Thomas W. Lawson, Boston financier, on a charge of disposing of property by a lottery, was ordered by Judge Joseph F. Quinn in the superior court yesterday. The court took the case from the jury at the conclusion of the testimony hearing any evidence for the defense. This reverses the verdict of the district court, which found Mr. Lawson guilty and fined him $100.

The case was instituted on complaint of the Watch and ward society of Boston, after Mr. Lawson had presented a horse and carriage to the holder of a numbered ticket, one of those given to each buyer of a ticket of admission to the annual fair of the Marshfield fair association, of which he is president.

The court ruled that no evidence had been introduced to show that Mr. Lawson had been connected with a lottery.

of the barrenest Kingdom there were 24 persons who were on the Coronet when she left Maine waters; the party included 11 children, ranging in age from four to sixteen years of age, and just 19 able-bodied men. Worn by the terrible hardships of months at sea, half starved and with faces emaciated, it was a ghastly looking company of seafarers which confronted the boarding party at quarantine. For several days the men and women have been working incessantly at the pumps in relief of three watchers and this terrible labor in their Reekened condition had reduced even the strongest men of the crew to mere skeletons as compared with their former selves. While they worked at the pumps, men and women prayed incessantly. In the storm every small boat was smashed to kindling wood, and if the yacht had foundered the Shilohites would all have perished, without a chance to save themselves. The Coronet, which was more than 20 years ago defeated the schooner yacht Dauntless in a race from Sandy Hook to Queenstown, has been battered by many seas since she left Portland in 1910. When asked where she had been, the sailing master, H. F. Witham, replied: "Everywhere." He said later that they had been to the Holy Land and spent much time in the tropics spreading the faith of their sect.
