MANY ORIENTS IN CANADA

OTTAWA, May 21—The new Chinese citizens of Canada, who are now arriving in greater numbers than ever before, contributed no less than $3,349,443 towards the public revenues during the last fiscal year. The 7,745 Chinese who came to Canada during the year contributed this much in poll tax to the Federal and Provincial treasuries for the privilege of entering Canada. Of this amount approximately $1,500,000 went to the coffers of British Columbia where nearly all the entries were made. The law provides that half of the poll tax shall go to the Province where entry is first made into Canada. The tax for entrance is $500 per head. There were 367 Chinese admitted under the exemption clause for students, merchants, etc. Altogether there are now about 30,000 Chinese in the Dominion of British Columbia, and some 3,000 in Ontario. The Immigration Department reports that the money to pay the poll tax is being advanced to Chinamen either by Chinese labor organizations in the Republic, or by relatives in Canada who have accumulated a thrifty bank account. Despite Premier McBride's anti-Oriental immigration policy he is making a good thing out of Oriental immigration for the Treasury of his Province.

STRIKERS REJECT COMPROMISE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21—Striking stevedores and longshoremen have been advised by shipping interests that they can return to work if they will accept the advanced rate of thirty cents an hour, agreed upon last week. Meanwhile much of the ocean-going shipping is at a standstill, and the coastwise traffic is badly crippled. Trans-Atlantic liners are being sent to other ports for cargoes while vessels at sea have been notified by wireless to hold off until a settlement is completed for them to be unloaded. Elsewhere shippers say they cannot pay thirty-five cents an hour. Disorder, which is attributed by the police to the longshoremen strike, broke out near the Specabes Sugar refinery today. Mr. Carvell Condemns Expenditure on Militia Extravagance

OTTAWA, Ont., May 22—The budget debate was resumed by F. B. Carvell of Carleton, N. B., whose said that, in the first place, he could not commend the paying off of the national debt, if it injured the people. At the same time he announced that the Conservatives intended to eat up the surplus as fast as they could and not to pay off the debt. He said that the expenditure of millions on the militia was downright robbery. He did not believe that the two million dollars of the appropriation went to the men, the bulk of it going to the dukes and warlocks now running the militia. Dealing with the argument that a protective duty on agricultural implements was necessary to offset the duty on raw materials, Mr. Carvell said that duty did not amount to more than $2 per ton and there was not a machine that weighed half a ton. He added that they pay also a few cents duty on all the paint they put on to cover up the deficits.

"Who proposed the tariff?" asked Col. Currie. "We did, Mr. Carvell replied, what may have been necessary five years ago is not necessary today." When we have a big surplus it would be necessary to tax the people to that extent.

He dealt with the effect of the British preference, observing that under it the Canadian manufacturers had made great strides. Reduce the duty and put the people in a better position to buy and they will buy more, concluded Mr. Carvell. It will be better also for the manufacturers themselves and more honest than to cling to it as they do now, like highway robbers, so far as the laboring man is concerned. Dr. Edwards of Frontenac, who followed, congratulated the Finance Minister upon the excellence of his budget speech which he said was such as to render serious criticism impossible. As expected, Mr. Carvell, in his remarks upon the condition of the woolen industry, had made a personal attack upon Mr. Thoburn.
