

Woman's Realm -:- Social and Personal -:- Fashions -:- Literature

What the Fashionable Are Wearing

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

By Anabelle Worthington

Form for dressmaking lesson with fields for Name, Street Address, City, State.

Attractive plaited bosom front, showing smart fabric contrast, and tiny button trim. The full flaring skirt in Style No. 2731 is particularly girlish, belted at normal waistline. It combines printed and plain dimity in pinkish rose coloring.

A Morning Smile

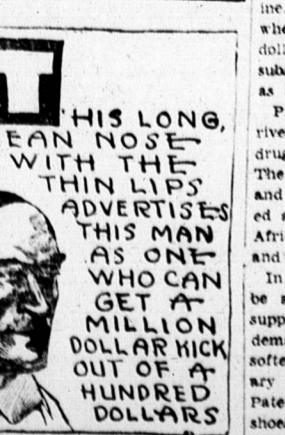

Hostess (sending out cards): "If I meet of the people we are sending to accept, we shall have our work cut out to cater for them."

A SYRIAN IS NOT A EUROPEAN

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 18.—(By the Canadian Press)—According to a decision given by County Judge J. J. Coughlin, a Syrian is not a European. The decision came in a case of Essex Real Estate Company, Limited, against David Holmes and George Nakie.

Character Close-Ups

THIS LONG, LEAN NOSE WITH THE THIN LIPS ADVERTISES THIS MAN AS ONE WHO CAN GET A MILLION DOLLAR KICK OUT OF A HUNDRED DOLLARS

And Have a Clear Skin Gently anoint the affected part with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes.

Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Should a gentleman ever make a present of wearing apparel to a girl? A. No, except some article which would be ornamental, such as a fur scarf, a beautiful handbag, or a fan.

Household Hints

By Roberta Lee

Bronze Bronze ornaments should not be washed. Dust carefully and wipe over with a soft cloth moistened with paraffin oil.

Married 78 Yrs., Claim Ch'Ships

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 19.—(B. U. P.)—Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Blackmer, of Columbus, today modestly claimed two world's championships—the oldest married couple and the couple longest married.

Floating Shark Factory Stranded

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Nov. 17.—(British United Press)—Shark fishing in South African waters, a promising new industry, has come to a sudden halt with the stranding of the steamer Istar on the Madagascar coast.

When Those Evil Days Come, What Sort of Wife Will You Want?

When those evil days come, what sort of wife will you want? If you should be stricken down by disease, would you want a wife who would leave you sick and alone, perhaps with nobody to even hand you a glass of water, while she went off to amuse herself?

Or Would You Want a Wife Whose Tenderness and Devotion Would Be Doubled Because You Were Helpless and Who Would Find a Sacred Joy in Ministering to Your Needs?

Or would you want a wife whose tenderness and devotion would be doubled because you were helpless and who would find a sacred joy in ministering to your needs? If you were invalid, would you want a wife who would divorce you because you could not make as much money as she wanted, or would you want a wife who would go out and get a job and support you if it were needed?

I Have Known Plenty of Women Who Have Nursed Sick Husbands Through Illnesses That Lasted Through Years and Years and Who Never Even Once Thought of the Sacrifices They Were Called Upon to Make, So Obsessed Were They With Pity for the Poor Sufferers.

I have known plenty of women who have nursed sick husbands through illnesses that lasted through years and years and who never even once thought of the sacrifices they were called upon to make, so obsessed were they with pity for the poor sufferers. Every day I see women bearing with angelic patience with the querulousness and nerve-racked demands of sick husbands.

So What Do You Want, Brother, in a Wife? Do You Want a Fair-Weather Wife, or One Who Will Stick to You Come Rain, Come Shine?

So what do you want, brother, in a wife? Do you want a fair-weather wife, or one who will stick to you come rain, come shine? Do you want a quitter or a stayer? Do you want a wife who will take you for better or worse, or one who considers that her marriage vows last only as long as you can give her good times?

Personally, I Think That a Wife Who Would Turn Her Back on Her Husband When He Was Down and Out; a Wife Who Would Divorce Her Husband Just Because He Was Sick, Is the Poorest Specimen of Femininity in the World.

Personally, I think that a wife who would turn her back on her husband when he was down and out; a wife who would divorce her husband just because he was sick, is the poorest specimen of femininity in the world. She is nothing but a mass of selfishness. She hasn't a heart the size of a chicken's. She has no loyalty, no principle, not even any pity. Nothing that any decent man can want in a wife. Nothing on which he can build any hope for a happy union.

Why, I Think That the Lowest Woman Who Sticks to Her Man, Who Lies and Steals for Him and Who Waits Outside of a Prison Gate to Take Him Back When He Has Served His Term, Is a Better Woman Than the One Who Leaves a Sick Husband, Whose Prosperity She Has Enjoyed, Just Because He Is No Longer Able to Work and Make Money for Her.

Why, I think that the lowest woman who sticks to her man, who lies and steals for him and who waits outside of a prison gate to take him back when he has served his term, is a better woman than the one who leaves a sick husband, whose prosperity she has enjoyed, just because he is no longer able to work and make money for her.

If You Marry This Woman, You Will Deserve Just Exactly What You Will Get.

If you marry this woman, you will deserve just exactly what you will get. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Which Do You Think Would Make the Better Husband, the Boy Who Has Lived at Home All His Life, or the Boy Who Has Roomed or Boarded?

Dear Miss Dix—Which do you think would make the better husband, the boy who has lived at home all his life, or the boy who has roomed or boarded? I think the boy who has roomed would be because he would be so glad to have a home of his own and a dinner that his wife has done her best to prepare, that he would overlook the small things that a young wife finds so difficult to do, whereas the boy who has always lived at home would expect his wife to be as good a housekeeper as his mother. MOLLY.

All Men Expect Their Wives to Know How to Cook and Manage and Set a Good Table, No Matter Whether They Have Lived at Home and Feasted on Mother's Pies, or Have Battered Around from Boarding House to Boarding House and Cafeteria to Cafeteria.

All men expect their wives to know how to cook and manage and set a good table, no matter whether they have lived at home and feasted on mother's pies, or have battered around from boarding house to boarding house and cafeteria to cafeteria.

There Is Something as Pathetic in a Man's Naive Belief That Every Woman Is Born Cook as in a Child's Faith in Santa Claus.

There is something as pathetic in a man's naive belief that every woman is born cook as in a child's faith in Santa Claus. It positively never seems to occur to one when he marries a girl who goes from high school into an office that she has never had a chance to acquire any skill with the pots and pans, and that she no more knows how to make biscuit than she does how to compose a sonata. And he is shocked and horrified and disappointed and disgruntled and feels that he has been cheated and generally gold-brikked when little new wife sets him down to a dinner that would give an ostrich dyspepsia.

So Don't Marry Any Man, Molly, Under the Apprehension That He Will Be Willing to Make Excuses for You When the Steak Is as Tough as Leather and the Coffee Is Pigwash and the Potatoes Raw.

So don't marry any man, Molly, under the apprehension that he will be willing to make excuses for you when the steak is as tough as leather and the coffee is pigwash and the potatoes raw. He will think that you should know how to do a little thing like cook, and he will raise ructions if you don't.

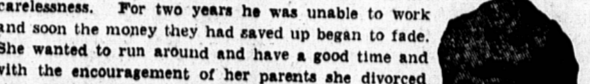

The Main Difference in Husbands in This Respect Is That Some of Them Are More Particular About Their Food Than Others.

The main difference in husbands in this respect is that some of them are more particular about their food than others. There are men who dine and others who just eat, if you get what I mean. There are men who are satisfied with quantity and who do not regard quality. There are men whose wives can fill them up on meat and potatoes and pie and who can eat the

Dorothy Dix Letter Box

Is the Wife Who Divorced Her Sick Husband a Fair Matrimonial Proposition?—What Any Man Expects of His Wife's Cooking—Choosing a Life Work

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a divorced woman whom I love very dearly. My brother has looked up the woman's history and he finds that she was married to a young mining engineer. They were happy until he was injured in an automobile accident due to her carelessness.

Milady Beautiful

By Lois Leeds

Beauty Questions Answered Reducing Double Chin, Hips and Abdomen

Dear Miss Leeds—How may I reduce a double chin? (2) I am 17 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 125 pounds. Am I overweight? (3) I have large hips and abdomen. Please give me a few exercises to reduce them? (4) Is it all right to use witch-hazel after removing cleansing cream? My skin is inclined to be oily. (5) I use a vanishing cream before powdering. Is it suitable for my skin?

Answer—You may reduce your double chin by daily exercise and the practice of correct posture when sitting, standing or walking. (2) You are a few pounds over the average weight for your age and height. You should weigh between 118 and 124 pounds. It is better for a girl of your age to be a little overweight than underweight. Take more active exercise, especially outdoor sports such as hiking, swimming or tennis. Your figure will adjust itself if you keep your muscles in good working order.

When those evil days come, what sort of wife will you want? If you should be stricken down by disease, would you want a wife who would leave you sick and alone, perhaps with nobody to even hand you a glass of water, while she went off to amuse herself?

Or would you want a wife whose tenderness and devotion would be doubled because you were helpless and who would find a sacred joy in ministering to your needs? If you were invalid, would you want a wife who would divorce you because you could not make as much money as she wanted, or would you want a wife who would go out and get a job and support you if it were needed?

I have known plenty of women who have nursed sick husbands through illnesses that lasted through years and years and who never even once thought of the sacrifices they were called upon to make, so obsessed were they with pity for the poor sufferers. Every day I see women bearing with angelic patience with the querulousness and nerve-racked demands of sick husbands.

So what do you want, brother, in a wife? Do you want a fair-weather wife, or one who will stick to you come rain, come shine? Do you want a quitter or a stayer? Do you want a wife who will take you for better or worse, or one who considers that her marriage vows last only as long as you can give her good times?

Personally, I think that a wife who would turn her back on her husband when he was down and out; a wife who would divorce her husband just because he was sick, is the poorest specimen of femininity in the world. She is nothing but a mass of selfishness. She hasn't a heart the size of a chicken's. She has no loyalty, no principle, not even any pity. Nothing that any decent man can want in a wife. Nothing on which he can build any hope for a happy union.

Why, I think that the lowest woman who sticks to her man, who lies and steals for him and who waits outside of a prison gate to take him back when he has served his term, is a better woman than the one who leaves a sick husband, whose prosperity she has enjoyed, just because he is no longer able to work and make money for her.

If you marry this woman, you will deserve just exactly what you will get. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Which do you think would make the better husband, the boy who has lived at home all his life, or the boy who has roomed or boarded? I think the boy who has roomed would be because he would be so glad to have a home of his own and a dinner that his wife has done her best to prepare, that he would overlook the small things that a young wife finds so difficult to do, whereas the boy who has always lived at home would expect his wife to be as good a housekeeper as his mother. MOLLY.

All men expect their wives to know how to cook and manage and set a good table, no matter whether they have lived at home and feasted on mother's pies, or have battered around from boarding house to boarding house and cafeteria to cafeteria.

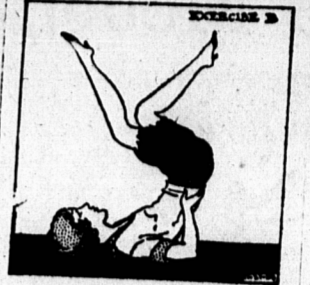

There is something as pathetic in a man's naive belief that every woman is born cook as in a child's faith in Santa Claus. It positively never seems to occur to one when he marries a girl who goes from high school into an office that she has never had a chance to acquire any skill with the pots and pans, and that she no more knows how to make biscuit than she does how to compose a sonata. And he is shocked and horrified and disappointed and disgruntled and feels that he has been cheated and generally gold-brikked when little new wife sets him down to a dinner that would give an ostrich dyspepsia.

So don't marry any man, Molly, under the apprehension that he will be willing to make excuses for you when the steak is as tough as leather and the coffee is pigwash and the potatoes raw. He will think that you should know how to do a little thing like cook, and he will raise ructions if you don't.

The main difference in husbands in this respect is that some of them are more particular about their food than others. There are men who dine and others who just eat, if you get what I mean. There are men who are satisfied with quantity and who do not regard quality. There are men whose wives can fill them up on meat and potatoes and pie and who can eat the

Milady Beautiful

By Lois Leeds

Beauty Questions Answered

Reducing Double Chin, Hips and Abdomen

Dear Miss Leeds—How may I reduce a double chin? (2) I am 17 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 125 pounds. Am I overweight? (3) I have large hips and abdomen. Please give me a few exercises to reduce them? (4) Is it all right to use witch-hazel after removing cleansing cream? My skin is inclined to be oily. (5) I use a vanishing cream before powdering. Is it suitable for my skin?

Answer—You may reduce your double chin by daily exercise and the practice of correct posture when sitting, standing or walking. (2) You are a few pounds over the average weight for your age and height. You should weigh between 118 and 124 pounds. It is better for a girl of your age to be a little overweight than underweight. Take more active exercise, especially outdoor sports such as hiking, swimming or tennis. Your figure will adjust itself if you keep your muscles in good working order.

When those evil days come, what sort of wife will you want? If you should be stricken down by disease, would you want a wife who would leave you sick and alone, perhaps with nobody to even hand you a glass of water, while she went off to amuse herself?

Or would you want a wife whose tenderness and devotion would be doubled because you were helpless and who would find a sacred joy in ministering to your needs? If you were invalid, would you want a wife who would divorce you because you could not make as much money as she wanted, or would you want a wife who would go out and get a job and support you if it were needed?

I have known plenty of women who have nursed sick husbands through illnesses that lasted through years and years and who never even once thought of the sacrifices they were called upon to make, so obsessed were they with pity for the poor sufferers. Every day I see women bearing with angelic patience with the querulousness and nerve-racked demands of sick husbands.

So what do you want, brother, in a wife? Do you want a fair-weather wife, or one who will stick to you come rain, come shine? Do you want a quitter or a stayer? Do you want a wife who will take you for better or worse, or one who considers that her marriage vows last only as long as you can give her good times?

Personally, I think that a wife who would turn her back on her husband when he was down and out; a wife who would divorce her husband just because he was sick, is the poorest specimen of femininity in the world. She is nothing but a mass of selfishness. She hasn't a heart the size of a chicken's. She has no loyalty, no principle, not even any pity. Nothing that any decent man can want in a wife. Nothing on which he can build any hope for a happy union.

Why, I think that the lowest woman who sticks to her man, who lies and steals for him and who waits outside of a prison gate to take him back when he has served his term, is a better woman than the one who leaves a sick husband, whose prosperity she has enjoyed, just because he is no longer able to work and make money for her.

If you marry this woman, you will deserve just exactly what you will get. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Which do you think would make the better husband, the boy who has lived at home all his life, or the boy who has roomed or boarded? I think the boy who has roomed would be because he would be so glad to have a home of his own and a dinner that his wife has done her best to prepare, that he would overlook the small things that a young wife finds so difficult to do, whereas the boy who has always lived at home would expect his wife to be as good a housekeeper as his mother. MOLLY.

All men expect their wives to know how to cook and manage and set a good table, no matter whether they have lived at home and feasted on mother's pies, or have battered around from boarding house to boarding house and cafeteria to cafeteria.

There is something as pathetic in a man's naive belief that every woman is born cook as in a child's faith in Santa Claus. It positively never seems to occur to one when he marries a girl who goes from high school into an office that she has never had a chance to acquire any skill with the pots and pans, and that she no more knows how to make biscuit than she does how to compose a sonata. And he is shocked and horrified and disappointed and disgruntled and feels that he has been cheated and generally gold-brikked when little new wife sets him down to a dinner that would give an ostrich dyspepsia.

So don't marry any man, Molly, under the apprehension that he will be willing to make excuses for you when the steak is as tough as leather and the coffee is pigwash and the potatoes raw. He will think that you should know how to do a little thing like cook, and he will raise ructions if you don't.

The main difference in husbands in this respect is that some of them are more particular about their food than others. There are men who dine and others who just eat, if you get what I mean. There are men who are satisfied with quantity and who do not regard quality. There are men whose wives can fill them up on meat and potatoes and pie and who can eat the

IT HAS A TEMPTING FLAVOR—AND HIGH FOOD VALUE

SHREDDED WHEAT

With all the bran of the whole wheat The crisp, crunchy shreds of whole wheat have a delicious flavor when heated in the oven and covered with hot milk. Here are vitamins and mineral salts and everything the body needs for perfect nourishment. Delicious for any meal.

Large-Boned Type Miss J. M. D.—You weigh about ten or fifteen pounds more than the average weight for a girl of your age and height. But as you say you are large boned I suspect that is the reason. Your proportions are good and at your age you should not try any reducing diets to get rid of the extra pounds. Of course, you can avoid overeating and cut down on rich pastries and sweet desserts. Eat raw fruit instead.

Naturally Curly Hair Getting Dry Dear Miss Leeds—My hair is naturally curly, but to make the waves more distinct I wet my hair with water every morning. Is this injurious? My hair seems to be getting dry.

Answer—As your hair seems to be getting dry, I rather suspect that you are using too much hard water on it. There is no harm in steaming the hair or using water to set a wave, but if you notice that the hair is getting too dry (as yours evidently is) then I suggest that you use one tablespoonful of olive oil in your last rinsing water after your shampoo. Give the scalp a warm oil treatment before the shampoo. Be sure to brush your hair and massage your scalp daily. Twice a week moisten the fingertips in warm oil and massage the scalp thoroughly. If your hair appears dry after the shampoo, use a few drops of brilliantine to make it soft and pliable. Do not wet the hair more than once a week to set the waves. If you hold your hair near the steam from the tea kettle and let it set thoroughly steamed you will find that your hair can easily be arranged in waves if it is naturally curly. LOIS LEEDS.

Tomorrow—Beauty Demands Relaxation.

For The Cook

BAKED HOMINY GRIETS

1 cupful grits. 1 tablespoonful butter. 3 eggs. 1 1/2 cupfuls sweet milk.

Into a pint of salted boiling water stir hominy and cook about an hour. Remove from the fire and add other ingredients well beaten together. Pour into a buttered casserole and bake slowly for an hour.

Mother: Willie, I told you to wash your neck real clean. Willie: Well, mother, ain't I going to wear a collar?

When Baby Comes

If you cannot nurse him turn to Eagle Brand, the leading infant food since 1857. FREE Baby Walter—write The Walter Co., Limited, Montreal, Dept. B. C.

EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK

Many people fail in life because they have been forced into uncongenial occupations by their families, or because they have gone into work for which they were not fitted because they thought that their friends would look down on them if they took up some line of endeavor that was not romantic or aristocratic. DOROTHY DIX.

Society's Mecca

In the heart of the Empire, Yardley's Old English Lavender Soap has been looked to for charm by leaders of taste and fashion for more than a century and a half. And in the passing years this luxury soap has come to be sought by discerning women everywhere for its skin-enriching purity and its lingering lovely fragrance.

8¢ per box of 3 large cakes at all best druggists and department stores. Prices uniform throughout Canada.

YARDLEY'S Old English LAVENDER SOAP

8, New Road Street, London, England U.S.A.: 435, Fifth Avenue, New York.