Deadly Consumption Starts from Catarrh

Thousands Think Catarrh is Cold Neglect It and Die

Last year forty per cent. of all deaths were from consumption. These people all had catarrh in the first place, but neglected it.

and was given away by her father. Miss Alice Pigott presided at the piano and as the bride entered the parlor played an appropriate wedding march and at the conclusion of the ceremony lunch was served.

"SLEEPLESSNESS."

Thousands of people all over this land toss night after night on a sleepless pillow. The eyes do not close in the refreshing slumber that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right.

Some are troubled with weak and smothering spells; others palpitation of the heart; others have their nerves untinged; but whatever the cause—it comes entirely from a perangement of either the heart or nerves, or both.

Mr. H. Jewel, Keswick, Ont., writes: "I am glad to have the pleasure of telling you what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. I would have weak spells, seemed to lose my breath, and would have to get up in the night as I could not sleep."

The infant daughter of D. Wesley and Mrs. Penwarden of Ellerslie died on March 26th and was buried in the Methodist Cemetery at Biddeford on Monday, the 27th.

As foreshadowed in 'The Guardian' of Saturday last the prominent horse dealer Robert Ernest Farquharson of Southport and the popular Miss Edith Webster of this city are now on their way to the Pacific coast, having been married quietly at Grace Church parsonage by Rev. Wm. Harrison on Monday evening last.

SYDNEY, March 24.—That the S. S. Bruce should be wrecked on Cape Bretton with the loss of only two lives is a miracle.

It was before daylight that she went ashore and the passengers and some of the crew were asleep. Dislodged out of their bunks by the steamer striking, the passengers at once made a rush for the deck and for a time great excitement prevailed.

The report in regard to the drowning of two of the passengers is confirmed by those who arrived here tonight. The men were Thomas Shea of Carbonear, Nfld., aged 25, and James Pike of St. Lawrence, Nfld., aged 28.

BOSTON, March 25.—Boiled lobsters 85 cents a pound.

That is the price of plain unadorned, untrilled, every-day lobsters in Boston. Never before in Boston's history have lobsters been so scarce or the price for them anywhere near as high as it was yesterday.

From ten o'clock yesterday forenoon when the price of plain boiled lobsters was quoted at 65 cents a pound, the price rose steadily until four o'clock yesterday afternoon when it had advanced to a twenty-cent advance and the "closing figure" for last night was 85 cents.

Drillers could not be found who would predict what the price might be today. One of the largest, if not the largest, fish markets in Boston at five o'clock had a stock of only twelve lobsters, and the proprietor declared that the shortage was so great that a stock of twenty-five would last longer under existing conditions than five hundred a month from now.

The price of 85 cents evidenced itself in the cost of lobster salads and other combinations dear to the after-theater supper crowd. Even the medium priced hotels and restaurants charged at least $1 for a salad.

Never has the supply been so short, the dealers declared.

While the supper is always a fluctuating one in Boston, with the dealers never knowing at night how many make water. The passengers who were asleep were at once awakened by the throb and pounding of the steamer on the rock and in a moment all was in confusion. Sprung from their berths and groping about for their clothes, they scrambled out of their berths to find themselves standing in two feet of water. Every light was out in the ship, and this added to the frenzy and alarm, particularly of the women of whom there were fifteen or twenty on board.

The passengers rushed out on deck, many of them half naked and in their bare feet, and others had nothing on but their night clothes, and all huddled on the land side of the vessel. The women and children were more or less hysterical, while the male passengers in the majority of cases were more calm and endeavoring to allay their fears with words of encouragement, though not one of those on board anticipated at that time to escape from the fast sinking steamer, and expecting every moment that the boilers would explode with its accompanying horrors.

It was at this time that the bravery and daring work of the party of young Newfoundland fishermen was so conspicuously shown. They virtually took charge of the rescue work and began the launching of the boats of which there were three. The women and children were the first to be taken ashore and then the rest of the passengers were landed. The work of landing the passengers occupied nearly three hours and both rescued and rescuers were almost exhausted when the last boat load reached the shore, being drenched as the waves washed over them. There was no accommodation on shore, with the exception of a small fishing cabin. Many of the men and women had suffered greatly from the cold and had their feet frozen while standing barefooted on the ice covered deck. They had been on the shore but about an hour when teams arrived from Maindieu and Louisburg which drove many into the town.

The steamer will be a total wreck and a late telephone message tonight says she is rapidly pounding to pieces on the rocks. An effort was made to secure the mails, but only a few sacks were got out.

Captain Drake has refused to make a statement as to the cause of the wreck. At the time of the accident the ship was about ten miles out of the regular course for Louisburg, and it is alleged that this was brought to the captain's attention by an officer of the steamer who said he saw land ahead shortly before the steamer struck. The captain said, however, it was only ice and continued full speed and he struck the rock a few minutes later. It is thought that as the steamer was leaning so badly that the pumps were kept going continuously, the captain decided to back the steamer before she would sink, and had feared to create a panic by telling the passengers.

The place where the Bruce struck is only about a half mile from the scene of the foundering of the steamer Ben Cruchan last year, and is regarded as the graveyard on this coast.

LONDON, March 30.—A general committee of members of the House of Commons of all parties is being formed with the object of supporting an Anglo-American arbitration treaty.

THURSDAY. Robert C., the well known trotter, purchased last autumn by J. George Currier, City has been sold to Jerry Mahar, City.

On the evening of March 22nd the home of John McPhail, Argyle Shore, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when his sister, Florence A., was united in marriage to Hammett J. Ince of Hamilton, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the happy couple. Precisely at 7.30 p. m. the bridal party retired to the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by Miss Aggie B. Boyce of Bonshaw. Rev. Jas. McDougall officiated. The bride, who was given away by her brother, John McPhail, was becomingly attired in white silk with lace insertion. The bride and groom were attended. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold bracelet. After the ceremony the guests repaired to the dining room where all partook of a sumptuous repast served in Mrs. McPhail's usual excellent manner. A large charivari crowd surrounded the house accompanied by DeSable's popular piper, and deluged the happy couple with good wishes. After being treated by the good people of the house they gave three rousing cheers for the bride and groom and quietly dispersed to their homes. Mr. Ince has travelled very extensively and only recently returned from Nome, Alaska, where he spent some years in mining. He intends making his future home at Victoria where he has purchased a beautiful residence on the outskirts of the village. Their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Ince many long years of happiness and prosperity.

WATERY BLOOD IN THE SPRING How to Get New Health and new Strength at This Season.

Even the most robust find the winter months trying, to their health. Confinement indoors, often in overheated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms—in the house, the office, the shops and the school—taxes the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery or clogged with impurities. Some people have headaches and a feeling of languor, others are low spirited and nervous; still others have pimples and skin eruptions while some get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when they went to bed. These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of order and that a medicine is needed. Many people rush to purgative medicines in the spring. This is a mistake. You cannot cure these troubles with a medicine that gallops through your system and leaves you weak and still. What you need to give you health and strength in the spring is a tonic medicine that will enrich the blood and soothe the jangled nerves, and the one always reliable tonic and blood-builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills not only banish spring weaknesses and ill, but guard you against the more serious ailments that follow, such as anaemia, nervous debility, indigestion, rheumatism and other diseases due to bad blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, rich, red blood, which strengthens every nerve, every organ and every part of the body, and makes weak, ailing people bright, happy and strong. Mrs. Jas. McDonald, Harcourt, N. B., says: "In my opinion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do all that is claimed for them. My system was run down, and I was so weak I could hardly do my work, and taking care of my baby added to my difficulties. I used a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they made me feel like my own self. I very cheerfully recommend the Pills to all who are weak or ailing."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

He could truly say that for him to live was Christ and to die was gain. He leaves to mourn a devoted wife who tenderly cared for him during the many weary days and nights of his sickness; also eight sons and two daughters, one son and two daughters having preceded him. His funeral which took place on Tuesday the 23rd., was largely attended although the day was a very stormy one. The services were conducted by the Rev.
