JAILER FERGUSON INTERVIEWED

I went to a tea party in the country and in the course of the afternoon I saw a friend in a wagon to whom I went and spoke. I did not know my friend had any whisky when I climbed in beside him, but I soon saw he was serving out the stuff in bottles. A raid was made on him while I was there and I was summoned to appear before Magistrate Shaw. I did not go, as at the time I did not think there was anything in it and was surprised when my father told me that I had been convicted in my absence and fined $100 or 3 months. I then accompanied my father to Mr Jenkins and he took me to the man who brought the charge and we subsequently went to the magistrate and I explained how I had nothing to do with the seller, but only happened to be in his wagon when it was raided. The magistrate said he would acquit me if I was not selling or was not in the business any longer, and I thought it was done, as from that day to this I never heard another word about it. I went away for four years and learned my trade as a boiler-maker and came back here and married. When I applied to the Sheriff for a job as assistant jailer I told him about this incident and he satisfied himself that what I told him was correct. I have not tasted two drinks of whisky in my life and never had anything to do directly or indirectly with the liquor business. It seems very hard, after all these years, that this matter should be brought against me; but I know that the party who has brought the matter to the knowledge of the Chief Justice has a spite against me and would go to any length to get me out of my job. I had the Grand Jury here yesterday and satisfied them that everything was in order in the jail and that Sherry escaped through opening a door which led into my private apartments, and then broke through a screen on my dining-room window and made off. Only 25 minutes elapsed between the time I allowed him out of the cells to go to the kitchen to cook his breakfast and the time I discovered he had escaped. I immediately reported the matter to the Sheriff and police and turned out myself in pursuit. We set watch upon the shipping and telephoned to all the ports in the Island so that everything has been done that could possibly be done to prevent Sherry from leaving the province, and if he is still on the Island, as I believe he is, it won't be long before he is laid by the heels.

There is no sumptuous living or club life in the jail. Prisoners are fed as follows:—Breakfast, "hard tack" and black tea; dinner, potatoes and black tea; supper, plain bread and tea. One loaf of bread is allowed every five prisoners a day, and the prisoners have to cook their own food and keep their quarters clean. The worst trouble I have with the prisoners is their insistence on singing in their cell. The ordinary cells are 3 1/2 by 7 feet and those for prohibition prisoners 12 by 15 feet. In the case of the latter there are 2 or 4 in each room as the demands upon the accommodation necessitate.

Prisoners are not confined to their cells except for discipline. During the day they are allowed to sit about the corridors after they have completed their clean-up. When they are locked in the cell at night they sometimes start singing, and the only punishment I can inflict for that is to confine them to their cells without exercise for a day or two and put them on bread and water. This usually proves effective, but in some cases a refractory prisoner will take two or three days to subdue, and naturally people passing outside and hearing his vocal efforts think he is having a high old time. Usually two or three days brings him to a realisation of his folly. At the present time we have only 3 prisoners in the lock-up, the smallest number on record since I joined the service. These prisoners are wholly for prohibition offences or as the result of prohibition offences, namely, drunks. I usually get many prisoners. It is back again and again I think if some hard work could be discovered to which prisoners could be put it might be more effective, but I don't know what to suggest. They could not be put outside to farm work without an armed guard, and there is no use to that we could find profitable without competing with legitimate trade outside. Probably if a high wall 10 or 20 feet high were put up surrounding the prison we could turn them out of doors for exercise, but that would not provide remunerative employment and I don't know if it would be worth the cost. This building was erected 4 or 5 years ago by the late Government and cost about $30,000. It was thought to be admirably suited for its purpose. Certainly it is an improvement so far as cleanliness is concerned, for we have no bugs or other insects such as abounded in the old jail and made it a menace to the community. Everything is kept scrupulously clean, although it takes a great deal of persuasion to make some of the prisoners observe the laws of sanitation and cleanliness.

HEALTH OF ANIMALS BRANCH

Under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon me by the provisions of section eighty-one of the Order-in-Council of November thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nine, being regulations relating to animals' quarantine, issued under authority of Chapter eleven, 3 Edward Seventh, entitled "An Act respecting infectious and contagious diseases affecting animals," I hereby authorize and direct the inspection by veterinary inspectors of all foxes entering the Province of Prince Edward Island, Consignors and Consignees of foxes brought into said Island shall, on or before the arrival of said foxes in said Island, report the number and description of the same to the nearest Customs officer, and shall submit the same for veterinary inspection at Charlottetown. After satisfactory inspection, foxes will be placed in quarantine for thirty days in the premises provided for the purpose by the Provincial Government. During the period of detention, the necessary care and attention will be provided by the Provincial Government, and the foxes will be at the risk of the owners. Consult Your Doctor

If you have serious kidney trouble, such as Bright's Disease or Diabetes—consult your physician at once. We do not recommend any remedy for those diseases.

But if you have a mere functional derangement of the kidneys or bladder indicated by pain in the back inflammation, etc., you will find Penslar Buchu and Palmetto Compound a very satisfactory remedy.

The formula is on the label—exact quantities and ingredients. It is a fine prescription for kidney and bladder troubles and the makers are proud of it. That is why they publish it, for anyone who knows about such things can tell that this is a splendid remedy.

Two sizes, 50c. and $1. sold only at our store. It gives great satisfaction.

THE PEOPLE'S THEATRE

Gilbert M. Anderson, the original "Broncho Billy" was at his best last evening at the People's Theatre, when the Essanay Company presented him in "Broncho Billy's Fatal Joke," a pathetic story of the mining camp in which "Broncho" receives an awful shock as the result of his joke, and immediately starts to make restitution. Heezza Liar Explorer, which was mirth-producing and the cause of much wonderment on the part of the large audience present. An exceptionally pleasing two-reel feature was "The Master of the House," of the Kay Bee brand. This interesting drama dealt with the experience of one Guy Winston in New York, his society wife who cares little for him, but loves his money. The rade awakening comes on her birthday, and he decides to conquer her and win her love if same is possible. In the end she sees the folly of her ways and realizes that she has a good man's love, and instead of allowing him to return West alone, she asks to be allowed to accompany him and find a little home for themselves free from the social and empty life to which she had been accustomed. Pathe's News contained many interesting news from all over the world as well as two splendid scenes from the seat of the present big war; also some late fashions for the ladies in coats, etc. The same programme will be repeated again to-day at all three shows, afternoon and evening.
