P. C. McCormack of Wrangell, Passes on

Death claimed one of the leading citizens of Wrangell with the passing of P. C. McCormack, pioneer merchant and civic leader, who died at 10.30 o'clock Sunday evening at Bishop Rowe General Hospital following an extended illness. Mr. McCormack entered the hospital about two weeks ago, gradually failing in strength until the end.

Peter C. McCormack was born on November 11, 1860, at Monticello, Prince Edward Island, one of a family of twelve, of which he was the last to survive. He left home while in his early twenties and went to Pennsylvania, where he engaged in logging operations, later moving to the west coast and settling in Bellingham. At that city he was married to Miss Frances Ann Koebler in the year 1908 at a double wedding with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McHugh, close friends and business associates.

Coming north during the gold rush days of 1898, the McCormacks settled in Wrangell, where Mr. McCormack started a general merchandise store on the present site of the Wrangell Steam Laundry in partnership with Thomas McHugh and Bernard Montague. He also had an interest in the Pillar Bay Cannery at that time.

In 1907 Mr. McCormack acquired the steamship dock which bears his name upon the death of Robert Reed, former owner. Leo McCormack, a nephew, became associated with his uncle in the management of the dock business, assuming active management in 1910.

Mr. McCormack retired from business many years ago, but retained his interest in civic affairs, serving five terms as Mayor of Wrangell and filled the position of clerk of the School Board. He represented the First District as Representative to the Territorial Legislature, once in the third session in 1917 and again in 1929, as a Republican member of that body.

Surviving are his wife, residing at the family home in Wrangell; a son, P. C. McCormack, II, of Seattle; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Murphy, also of Seattle, and five grandchildren, Kathleen, Teresa, and Peter C. McCormack, III; and Michael and Madeleine Murphy. Other survivors include a nephew, Leo C. McCormack, and his family, and numerous nieces and nephews in the United States and Canada. The son and daughter came to Wrangell recently during their father's final illness.

Funeral services were held at 9.30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Catholic Church, with Father Matthew Hoch officiating at the rites. Vocal selections were given by James Nolan, and Mrs. B. Y. Grant was organist. Interment was in Wrangell Memorial Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were Oscar Carlson, L. B. Chisholm, Leonard Campbell, Elmer Carlstrom, Charles Moore, and Leo Grant. Active pallbearers included Jerry Galvin, Lloyd Ripley, Joe Hernandez, Fred Johnston, Fred Cunningham, and Leo McCormack.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the McCormack family in their bereavement. The town itself feels a profound sense of loss in the passing of one of its real pioneers.

All local business houses remained closed on Wednesday during final services for Mr. McCormack.

The late Mr. MacCormack was a brother of the late Mrs. Daniel P. MacDonald of Souris, and has many nieces and nephews residing in Souris and Monticello.—Patriot please copy.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ANGUS J. MacLEOD

At her home in Alliston on Nov. 18, 1944, Mrs. Angus J. MacLeod passed peacefully to her long rest after an illness of only three days. She was one of the well loved members of this community and will be greatly missed by her many friends and relatives.

The spirit of the Master prevailed in her every thought and deed. Gentle tolerance was perhaps her chief characteristic; never was any weakness or fault in another too black for her kindly understanding and sympathy to forgive, her loving friendliness went out to all kinds and conditions of people and she found good in all. Her hand was constantly outstretched to those in need and her patience and goodness blessed all who came in contact with her.

She leaves to mourn six children: Miss Christine MacDonald of Boston, Mass.; Miss Lillian MacDonald of East Northfield, Mass.; Mrs. Frederick Martin of West Roxbury, Mass.; Mrs. Murdock MacRae of San Francisco, California; Mr. Peter William MacLeod of Glen Martin and Mr. John Dan MacLeod of Alliston.

Besides these she leaves a brother, John Matheson of Glen William and three stepsons: John MacLeod of Seattle, Wash.; Lauchlin MacLeod of Vancouver, B.C.; Angus Murdock MacLeod, of Seattle, Wash.

Also she leaves four grandchildren and one great grandson.

Her mourning family may will be comforted by the assurance that she is at peace in her Father's House where her christ-like spirit will be at home throughout eternity.

A birthday fund at each of our meetings realized $8.25 when opened. In August a very successful tea was held on Mr. Willard Lank's lawn. The above activities were well support-ed and sufficient money was raised to pay the necessary expenses and make the following donations: School, $250.00; organ repairs, $7.03; prizes and treat for school children, $15.00; T.B. Reaction to Ottawa News From Overseas

By DOUG HOW

Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, Nov. 27—(CP Cable)—Men of the Canadian Corps, in the thick of a year's fighting that cleared the southern half of Italy, received with mingled feeling the news that 16,000 Canadian home defence troops will be made available for overseas service in the European theatre.

The men feasted on the sparse news, received first by radio and then in the Maple Leaf, the soldiers' daily paper, and immediately it became the sole topic of discussion everywhere.

Talks with officers and men brought the reaction from many that "the zombies are going to get theirs, too." Some men expressed disappointment that the war would not be completed with a Canadian volunteer army, while others speculated about what possibility the reinforcements would lend to the chance of five-year men getting home on furlough.

To a surprising extent, the men were tolerant in their view about the pending arrival of the conscripts, most of them leaning to the view that their reception would depend on themselves.

"If they come in quietly and soldier properly," many men agreed, "they will be received with open mind and will be given a full chance to be absorbed into the battalions with a minimum of friction."

Where debate reaches the point where the moral issue of volunteers versus conscripts clashes with the life and death issue of one volunteer rifleman trying to do the jobs of two, logic has inexorably overridden sentiment and demanded acceptance of relief for the latter. In such circumstances, the "zombies" were viewed primarily as reinforcements vitally needed.

Meaningful and surprising news that it was, it came as somewhat of an anti-climax to troops who in the light of recent harsh events have come to a considerable extent to the conclusion that the fault lay not so much with the individual "zombie" for not coming overseas as with legislation which did not compel him—to the conclusion too that the noble experiment of a voluntary army had been given a fair and even an exaggerated trial.

Meanwhile there continues to be widespread interest in matters such as who will make up the 16,060, when they are coming, what effect the move will have on the Canadian Corps in Italy, how the reinforcements will be distributed and many other angles.
