PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Co-Workers Across Canada: As we write this message, the news has just been broadcast from Ottawa that the restriction on alcoholic beverages has been lifted. Are we discouraged? No! A thousand times NO!

The declaration of the apostle Paul is applicable to our time and organization: "For a great door and effectual is opened unto me and there are many adversaries." (I Cor. 16:9).

Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord.

"When thou passest through the waters, Deep the waves may be and cold, And His promise is our hold; For the Lord Himself hath said it, He, the faithful God and true: Though shalt not go down but through, Threatening breakers of destruction, Doubt's insidious undertow Shall not sink us, shall not drag Out to ocean depths of woe; For His promise shall sustain us, Praise the Lord, whose Word is true! We shall not go down, or under, For His faith, 'Thou passest through'."

We are pleased to announce that we hope to have possession of our headquarters building by October 1. Any special contributions toward the cost will be received with great appreciation. We need $10,000. We have faith to know that this need will be met.

The Publications Committee will endeavor to build up the literature and have a new catalogue prepared by the end of the year. Please be patient during this period of change. We wish to build gradually, but effectively.

Don't stop praying. In God we trust. Don't stop praying. For pray we must. Faith will banish a mount of care. Don't stop praying. God answers prayer. Yours in His service, EVA WICKSON.

BIBLE READING: LUKE 10:30-37

When we read of the Jericho Road we think most of him who was robbed, beaten and left half dead, as most of Europe is today. He was not only sympathetic, but businesslike he bound up the wounds, gave transportation and maintenance until the victim was restored to a normal state, though the victim was a man in whose existence he could not have had an interest.

Is not this comparable with the demands made on us today? Let us illustrate.

A Canadian boy in his early twenties returned wounded. He said: "In France the children would run and grab what they could get; in Belgium they would ask; in Holland they only stood and looked longingly." With a soldier's sense of humor he told the story. "Can you imagine the background? Our boy, cold, dirty,

Another policy-holder reports

"I have just completed my insurance program in The Mutual Life of Canada. I have a number of policies on my own life which adequately protect my family against unexpected loss of my income, and which will bring me and my wife monthly cheques for life when the time comes to retire.

"But I have gone a little further. We want our son John to have a College education. We have added a Mutual Life Educational Policy to our assets.

When John is 18 we shall start to receive a four year monthly income with which to pay his College expenses, and this amount will be guaranteed even though I do not live to pay all the premiums.

"This is one of the services of life insurance that many people overlook—helping parents to guarantee higher education for Canada's youth."

Let a Mutual Life representative arrange an Educational Policy for your child.

POULTRY FEATHERS MAKE NEW CLOTH

Chicken feathers for the well-dressed women and men of tomorrow!

Sounds fantastic but it isn't because, according to an article in the October American Magazine, a new fabric made principally from chicken feathers has been developed by the United States Rubber Company. Moreover, feathers from turkeys, ducks and geese can be utilized in the same way, and those from waterfowl can be woven into a special fabric which is water-resistant.

So the day may not be far off when millady will be fashionably gowned in dresses and suits of gaily coloured feathers which shed water like a duck. The fabric also can be used for men's and children's wearing apparel, according to Dr. Willis A. Gibbons, research director from U. S. Rubber, under whose direction it was developed. "The curious stuff is lighter and stronger than wool and just as easily dyed," says The American Magazine. "It can be washed without shrinking, and it won't take you wear it."

"When this fabric is put into commercial production it may revolutionize the whole textile industry and also provide a magnificent bonanza for farmers."

Dr. Gibbons has his way you'll wear a chicken-feather suit on fair days, and when it rains you'll change to one made from duck or goose feathers, which will enable you to shed water just like a duck."

Dr. Gibbons has found that feathers from 38 broilers will make a man's suit, and 30 broilers are sufficient for a lady's suit.

In the female this is white throughout, in the male only the upper surface of the fore wings is white, the lower surface of the fore wings and the hind wings above and below being yellow.

"The larvae or caterpillars are large, hairy, and dark brown, commonly found in late summer and early fall feeding upon almost all kinds of field and garden crops. It is not considered a serious pest, being usually kept in check by a series of natural enemies, but occasionally it becomes numerous enough to cause severe injury in gardens.

"The eggs are laid by the parent moth in masses, from 425 to 550, on the leaves of various plants during July. Hatching about fifteen days later, the larvae begin to feed upon the leaves, at first only eating the tender parts and leaving the veins, but later eating out large holes or even consuming the entire leaf when approaching maturity the caterpillars are particularly ravenous and consume large quantities of leaf surface. When mature they may be seen traveling rapidly from place to place over sidewalks, roads or fields, seeking a suitable place to pupate.
