STILL MAKE SILK

They still make silk in the ancient way, slowly and carefully and beautifully, but silk is worth less than utilitarion cotton in China. Sturdy cotton coodle cloth sells for almost double the price of silk. Cotton is sold by the foot, to peasants and working folk whose hands in repose hang curled to the roundness of hoe handles or ricksha shafts. It is bought in short pieces, not for new garments, but for patches. Some outfits are little but a collection of careful patches in vari-coloured blues, ranging from the aged white of skimmed milk to the brand new denim blue of the latest mending, the whole held together by patient, fine stitching. But despite eight years of war and devastation, the silk crafts of China somehow survive, to recreate a beauty that was old 2,000 years ago. China has had wars before, some of them fought over the control of this same silk industry, but the cult of the silkworm has never died out.

In Memoriam

MRS. JUDITH PINEAU

The death occurred on Oct. 1, 1946, of Mrs. Judith Pineau of Rusticoville, aged 82 years, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Andrew Gallant, Hunter River. Although she had been ailing for some time she was up around as usual until three days before her death. During her last illness she was comforted by visits from Rev. Clarence Pitre, St. Augustine's parish, who also administered to her the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church, of which she was always a faithful member; also her nephew, Rev. Joseph Pineau of Spokane, Washington, and Rev. Douglas McNeil, Stella Maris, North Rustico, her former parish priest.

The following are left to mourn the loss of an ever-loving mother: three sons, two daughters, namely, Ben, Louis, John, Josephine, Mrs. Jerome Gallant, Charlottetown; Elizabeth, Mrs. Andrew Gallant, with whom she resided, also a great many nieces, nephews and grandchildren, who will miss her smile and cheerful disposition.

Her funeral was held on Thursday, Oct. 3, 1946, from the residence of her daughter to Stella Maris Church, North Rustico, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Douglas McNeil, who also conducted the services at the grave.

The pallbearers were five grandsons: James Gallant, Benoit Gallant, Arthur Gallant, Leo Gallant, Joseph Gallant, and Gerard MacDonald.

May her soul rest in peace.

Road Long And Rocky For Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 —(AP)—State Secretary Byrnes today pictured the road to Allied agreement on a peace treaty for Germany as long and rocky.

For a start, he told a press conference, he is summoning top American occupation officials in Germany home for consultations. These talks will precede a New York meeting in which the big four foreign ministers take up the German treaty question.

Lt.-Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy American military governor n Germany, and his political adviser, Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, have been asked to join Mr. Byrnes in New York about Nov. 10. Mr. Byrnes added it was his best guess that the foreign ministers would not take up the German question until about Nov. 20.

The foreign ministers — Mr. Byrnes; Bevin of Britain; Molotov of Russia and Bidault of France—are slated to begin discussions next Tuesday on the final drafts of peace treaties for Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

GREENAN-CUMMINGS WEDDING

A wedding of much interest to friends was solemnized at the Sacred Heart Church, Alberton, when Miss Estella Marie Cummings, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Cummings, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Leo St. Clair Greenan, youngest son of William and the late Mrs. Greenan, "Brae".

Rev. Father Wm. Monaghan performed the ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

The bride looked beautiful, attired in a gold wool suit with brown velvet trimmings and brown accessories and wore a corsage of white sweet peas. The bride was attended by her friend Miss Mae Malley who wore a rose wool suit with brown accessories, her corsage was of pink sweet peas.

Mr. Leo McIsaac, cousin of the bride ably supported the groom.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the bride's parents' home to a goose dinner. Later the happy couple left by motor to the Eastern part of the Island returning in the evening to a supper and reception at the groom's father's home, where they received many beautiful gifts. The happy couple will reside in "Brae" where the groom is a prosperous young farmer. Best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Greenan.

Correspondence consisted of a note of thanks from a member for fruit sent her during her illness; a letter from Rev. D. A. Yeo, Social Service Agent; a letter from Robin Hood Flour Mills and a long letter re the W. I. Drama Festival.

It was decided to invite Miss Murdock of the Robin Hood Mills to visit our Institute on a date suitable to her.

Mrs. Arden Richards read a paper from the Institute News entitled "Why I Belong to the Women's Institute".

The program paper on Home Economics was read by the president. It was decided to leave the appointment of a committee to take charge of Scrap Book until the Annual Meeting.

Collection amount to 95 cents.

The sincere thanks of the Institute was expressed to two members for their work and trouble in connection with shipping woollens and delivering blankets

OIL-SOAKED GAUZE KEEPS NAILS SOFT

Fingernails that wrestle with pots and pans and mops can look as glamorous as the idlest flower is put on after chores are done.

You can keep nails from snapping or peeling, control cuticle and forget what hangnails look like if you'll wear rubber gloves for dishwashing, cotton gloves for dry work.

But before you put on working mitts, do what a glamorous career girl I know does. Required to wrestle with chores in a maidless home, she strips off polish and bandages nails with oil-soaked strips of gauze before donning her mitts. When chores are polished off, she does as much for her nails.
