Y.M.C.A. News

The badminton rush has spread over into the Wednesday night gym hour, as some of the boys found out when they dropped in last week. Despite the furious games played until late Tuesday night, some of the fellows and girls had plenty of energy left over for the second session.

The Hi-Y girls keep themselves busy at interesting and exciting projects as well as self-improvement program. Both chapters spent part of their meeting time this week planning dances, the Deltas putting the finishing touches on details for the Friday night dance in honor of the visiting Summerside teams, and the Betas planning a Sadie Hawkins Dance for Feb. 15 at the Brighton Club. Betas relaxed after their business meeting while they enjoyed two films, shown by Mr. Gamble. The Delta chapter accomplished an interesting and valuable objective in their honest analysis of their club and presentation of ideas on improvement.

Friday was a big day at the "Y" Two Summerside basketball teams, here on the occasion of the West Kent Ice Sports, played the West Kent School teams on the "Y" gym floor. Spectator space was at a premium as the visitors watched the visitors split the wins on the double bill. Summerside boys won their game, but the girls bowed to superior sharpshooting of the West Kent team.

The general hubbub of the first series of games had hardly subsided when another crowd came in to watch another game in the gym. This time the game was one of the regular schedule of the juvenile league. The Rangers defeated the Abbies in this encounter.

After the Ice Sports at the Forum, the mob descended on the "Y" gym again, but this time with an entirely different motive. Sponsored by the Delta Hi-Y, a dance in honor of the visiting teams was the occasion of much merriment throughout the evening. A capacity crowd enjoyed the entire dance, as well as the ping-pong and the bowling alley canteen.

While all this excitement was going on or the home front, we learned that some of the Phalanx fellows were carrying the "Y" colander and called to the bar in Summerside on Monday as well as being entered as a solicitor of the Court of Chancery.

Saturday morning, while the Phalanx boys counted their bruises the juniors and juveniles were privileged to hear Dr. Doney, of the Canadian Red Cross, Dr. Doney, speaking on water safety showed a film.

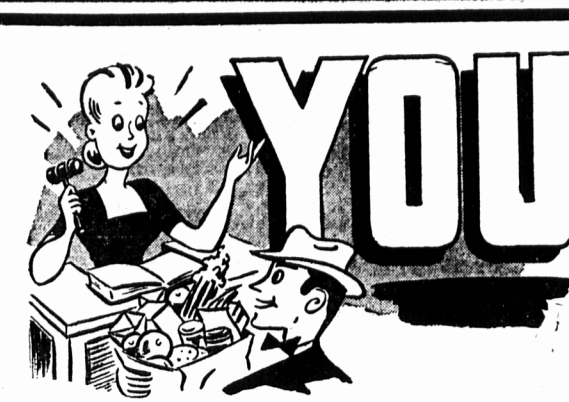

Saturday afternoon, a busy Teen Town committee clambered over the walls of the gym making like valentines all around the room. By the time the crowd arrived, the gym was completely transformed into a fairland of hearts and soft blue lights. The Teen Town twosomes enjoyed their cokes at prettily decorated tables around the edge of the dance floor.

Monday night's young adult program ran on a limited scale this week—everyone is saving up for the big splash next week, when the first So-Ed series will begin. The first So-Ed series will begin. The first So-Ed series will begin.

About seven o'clock last evening, the serenity of it could ever be called that of the senior lobby was shattered. Great Thompson, arms waving wildly over his head, tore in the door shouting, "I've got them! I've got them!" At once an excited crowd gathered around him trying to find out what he had. Suddenly, Thompson burst from the crowd waving a buff colored folder — yes, the So-Ed folder was off the press! Now when your friend asks you what So-Ed is, just hand him a folder, and we'll see him here next week for the opening of the So-Ed series.

Pioneer Days Continued from page 2 You've already guessed that the fiddler had turned up and an old-fashioned hoe-down was in the offing. Stiff muscles were soon limbered up when quadrilles, reels and jigs got underway and all hands moved gracefully to the dignified Sir Roger de Coverley. The bee did not, however, end the labor. The next day the settler looked out of his shack window upon a glistening array of stumps, many of which would remain in the ground for many years, to become enemies of the reaper and sower.
