Old Superstition According to an old folklore belief as long as Death stands at the foot of a sick person's bed he may recover; but if Death stands at the head there is no hope of recovery. Jud Tunkins says the man who always wants the most of everything he sees eventually finds that the musician with the bass fiddle isn't any better off than the boy with the ukulele.—Washington Star

LABOR DAY

This is Labor Day, set apart in honor of and for the recreation of all engaged in honest toil, whether manual or mental. The day will be observed as a statutory holiday and in this city, as in practically every city in Canada sports of different kinds will be held. The Abegweit Athletic Club has arranged for a series of athletic events, including horse racing and a day of genuine sport may be looked for. All that is needed to make it the biggest athletic meet in years is good weather and that is practically assured.

The programme is a large one and we bespeak for the Club the patronage it has so richly earned in many years. Our young athletes have made a creditable name for themselves in competition with those of other clubs and of other provinces and they will do all the better through the encouragement and interest of our own people. It is everybody's holiday and we trust it will be a pleasant one for all and more especially for our young athletes whose special day of sport it is. Give them a bumper and full grand stand.

KINGS COUNTY CONVENTION

Liberal Conservatives of Kings County are asked to note the change of time and other changes in the advertisement calling the Kings County organization meeting. The meeting will be held on Tuesday 13th instant at 11 o'clock a. m. not as at first advertised.

In addition to the organization of a county association this meeting, owing to the coming federal election will be formed into a convention for the nomination of a candidate to contest the federal election.

As the organization for the county, as provided for by the constitution of the Provincial Association, has not yet been completed, it will be necessary for the former conveners to make the necessary arrangements for the convention. Five delegates from each poll will be necessary and it is hoped the conveners will see to this at once so that the whole county will be fully represented.

In view of the early election and particularly in view of the issues at stake we trust the meeting will be as large and as enthusiastic as those recently held in Charlottetown. The future of the maritime provinces depends upon the result of the coming election and it is up to our farmers especially to take stock of what is doing. Let Kings County be true to itself on this occasion and show its faith and its interest by attending this meeting in a body.

BRITISH "FREE TRADE."

Advocates of Free Trade in Canada are fond of quoting Great Britain as the model free trade country in the world. They forget the great fact that Great Britain is most carefully protected as far as its industries and its native interests are concerned. Raw materials not produced in the United Kingdom and to be used in her factories are imported free of duty and this has made her the greatest manufacturing country in the world. When her stock raising was threatened by Canadian cattle an "embargo" was placed upon the importation of Canadian cattle through the ostensible fear of introducing "foot and mouth disease" which never existed to any considerable extent in Canada.

When British manufacturers began the making of certain articles made in Germany before the war and imported free of duty Great Britain put on a customs duty. Recently the British House of Commons passed what is called the "safeguarding of Industries Bill." This measure is an embodiment of two resolutions introduced in the Commons last March by Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who said at that time they would form the basis for the Government's proposed customs legislation.

One of these resolutions provides for the levying of a customs duty of 33 1/3 per cent ad valorem on importations entering the United Kingdom of optical glass, optical instruments, scientific glassware, porcelain instruments, magnets, tungsten and its products; synthetic and organic chemicals; except dyestuffs; colors; coloring matters and fine chemicals.

The other resolution provides for customs duties on any articles not mentioned in the first resolution, which the Board of Trade under the Act will have the power to specify, on the ground that the said articles are being sold or offered in the United Kingdom at prices below their production cost, or owing to exchange depreciation, at prices below what they can profitably be produced for in Great Britain.

No country can prosper that does not safeguard its own industries and its own institutions. Upon this foundation the prosperity of the Canada of today is founded; it is the "principle of protection" in our tariff policy. This is the well defined policy of the Liberal Conservative party; it is the direct opposite of the Liberal policy. Which will Canada choose?

Current Comment

Elections and just such things are as busy as bees buzzing in the bonnet of the Patriot and also beneath the bonnet of one political stage actor called William Lyon Mackenzie King. Of course, as usual, the evening organ's ideas are borrowed, this time from that fountain of Liberal invention, the Toronto Globe. The West York election it pronounces as most important, in that, according to the Globe it will determine the question of a general election. If this were so, is there any serious crime in such a course, that the ire of the Liberal press should be aroused at the procedure? Isn't it an infinitely more constitutional method, of leaving it to the decision of the people, than by accepting the diction of the Globe, which never ran an election, or of its sometime leader, Mr. King, who was flatly turned down by the people at the polls? And this election becomes the more interesting in that it is one of the York's and adjacent to that North York, where the Liberal leader is now the nominated candidate, and in which his own friends join with Mr. R. W. E. Burnaby, the farmers candidate, in telling Mr. King that he hasn't the slightest show of ever getting elected in that constituency. It will surely be a hard blow to the Liberal dreamer if this borough, so near to his as the pirates in North York, should, as is now predicted return a Meighen government supporter.

And of course this method of submitting elections, or for that matter any other public question to the decision of the people, is entirely too democratic for the blue blooded Toryism or Toryism of the Patriot and the Liberal party. It would suit them far better for a few of the aristocrats of their combination to just get together and order an appeal to the people to suit their own convenience and partisan purpose. Wouldn't it be much better for them to risk a test of the temper

THE PUBLIC FORUM

Government and Feed

Sir.—Referring to the Department of agriculture's letter of 29th inst. it says: "We will leave it to the public to decide" therefore if there is nothing more said, the Department will consider they are right in marking time. Why this attempt to lay a smokescreen over McCarthy's advice to buy up the hay and hold it for the farmer, after admitting they were advised to buy the hay and so keep it from being shipped off the island. The Commissioner gets out his little red herring in a vain attempt to put Mr. McCarthy in a false light by saying "and even if the government has the constitutional right to put an embargo on the exportation of our hay to any other province of the Dominion, as Mr. McCarthy takes for granted."

The Commissioner is hard up when he brings in points of law that are irrelevant. What has the British North America Act got to do with the local government buying up hay? It is true they cannot stop you or any one else from shipping any ton of hay out of the island, but it is equally true that they can buy up every ton of hay that is for sale and keep it here for the use of those of us that may need hay, as Mr. McCarthy suggested.

He also says, "Even if the government were prepared to go into a commercial transaction of this nature, there is nothing to prevent dealers to CONTRACT AND SECURE THIS HAY" What hay? Not the hay the department would buy and I believe they should not have the hay for sale if they paid the same price as the exporters. The trouble is that the Hon. Mr. Lea is lacking in business acumen or he has not given the hay situation the thought due it from a man in his position or he would know that any farmer needing the money for their hay now and that no farmer needs to buy hay at the present time and few of them can afford to buy the hay now and lay out of their money till they need it towards spring, with the result that the hay that has been sold are driven into the arms of the exporter. The exporters are not all made of money, and they in turn have to make a turn over of their capital to keep the ball rolling so they have to sell it to where they can get a ready market which means to the large towns of Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick or perhaps Newfoundland.

Is it fair or reasonable to ask a business man to tie up his working capital in hay to help out the farmer that has to have the hay and the other poor fellow that will have to buy the hay in the spring, and I am surprised that Mr. Lea would even suggest such a thing. In a case of this kind it is clearly up to the government to step in before it is too late to help Mr. McCarthy's advice even if it did not cost them anything. There are plenty of precedents for them to follow in this matter. During the war, Britain bought up cotton and wool and right on P. E. Island during the last hay famine we had men big enough to do something for the money they received. I refer to another Liberal government that bought up the hay in Quebec in the fall, got

OUR DUTY

The great word's heart is aching, aching fiercely in the night And God alone can heal it, and God alone give light; And the men to bear the message, and to speak the living word.

Are you and I, my brothers, and the millions that have heard.

Can we close our eyes to duty? Can we fold our hands at ease.

While the gates of night stand open to the pathways of the seas?

Can we shut up our compassions? Can we leave one prayer unsaid.

Till the lands which Hell has blasted have been quickened from the dead?

We grovel among trifles and our spirits fret and toss, While above us burn the vision of the Christ upon the Cross; And the blood of God is streaming from His brother's hands and side.

And the lips of God are saying, "Tell my brothers I have died."

O Voice of God, we hear Thee above the shocks of time, Thine echoes roll around us, and the message is sublime;

No power of man shall thwart us, no stronghold shall dismay us, When God commands obedience and love has led the way.
