
Capt. F. Irving Entwistle, USN, co-inventor of the famed Norden bombsight, explains to Louis Marrone, of the Bronx, N. Y., how the intricate mechanism works. The first picture of the closely guarded bombsight to be published, it was taken at the Museum of Science and Industry where the sight is on display.

ANNUAL MEETING VERNON CREDIT UNION LTD.

The annual meeting of the Vernon Credit Union Ltd. was held in Vernon School on the evening of Oct. 30th, with the directors and officers all present and a large number of members. The president, James Hughes, presided. The reports of directors, treasurer, credit and supervisory committees were read and approved.

The treasurer's report showed a steady growth in the assets of the Credit Union with an increase of $1100.00 over the preceding year. The membership also showed an increase over the previous year.

During the year sixteen loans were made to members totalling $985.00. The Credit Union invested $400.00 in the sixth Victory Loan. Dividend of 2 percent was declared on shares. The retiring officers were all re-elected. Joseph B. MacDonald and William Morrisey, directors; W. W. Murphy, credit committee, and Dingwell MacLeod, supervisory committee.

The membership drive which is taking place across Canada for new members was discussed and suggestions made regarding the bringing in of new members.

After the business of the meeting was concluded, an inspiring and constructive address on Credit Union insurance was given by Dr J. G. Croteau and was appreciated by officers and members alike. Remarks were made also by W. W. Murphy and others which were much enjoyed by all present.

The Credit Union looked out on the coming year with every hope of continued growth and usefulness to its members. With the singing of the National Anthem the meeting adjourned.

At the first directors' meeting held after the annual meeting Mr. James Hughes was re-elected president. Mr. Fred Irving was re-elected vice president, and Joseph B. MacDonald, treasurer.

The Credit Union invested $500 in the seventh Victory Loan. It now has $1500.00 invested in Victory Bonds.

RECEIVES COMMISSION—Sgt. T. Alexis Wood, who for the past three years has been stationed at Cornwall, Ont., has just completed an officer's training course at Brockville, Ont., and is now promoted to the rank of Lieutenant. Lieut. Wood is a graduate of P.W. College and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wood, Georgetown.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—The home of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Reid, Murray Harbor North, was the scene of a delightful reception on Monday evening, Nov. 27th, when members of their immediate families and a few intimate friends gathered to celebrate with their their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Reid, the former Mary Elizabeth Dalziel, were married at Georgetown by the late Rev. W.A. Mason. At dinner Mrs. Harry Reid, Mrs. Cameron Reid, Mrs. R. A. Gillis and Miss Gladys Reid assisted in serving. Mr. and Mrs. Reid were the recipients of a well filled purse as well as other gifts, to which they responded most appreciatively. Dr. J.D. Robertson spoke briefly, as did also Mr. Thomas A. Millar and Mr. W. B. Graham. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and a social time together. Mr. and Mrs. Reid are both enjoying a fair measure of health and their many friends in the Province and elsewhere will rejoice with them on this happy occasion.

"IMPATIENT YEARS" BRINGS LAUGHTER

To the impatient girls and soldiers who rush into marriage, the screen brings you for the first time, a story of marriage before combat and combat after marriage. It's Columbia's romantic comedy, "The Impatient Years", currently starring Jean Arthur, Lee Bowman and Charles Coburn at the Prince Edward Theatre. It's tomorrow's love story as bright as the dawning sun.

It's one soldier's love story in a million. It's a million soldiers' love stories in one. They met...married...in four days...then separated. It's tender...laughing...timely. Audiences will love every precious moment in this romantic picture which shows all the answers to the millions of impatient brides worrying about being strangers when their GI Joes come marching home.

Besides the stars, others in the cast include Edgar Buchanan, Charley Grapewin, Phil Brown, Jane Darwell, Grant Mitchell and Harry Davenport. It was directed by Irving Cummings from the original screenplay by Virginia Van Upp.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The service of morning worship was conducted by the Rev. Waldo C. Machum, General Secretary of the Maritime Baptist Convention. The sermon was "Detained in the Presence of the Eternal". Written of the days of Old Testament history, concerning a race reaching greater heights spiritually than any of its contemporaries, it brings us a great meaning for life. Grown so because detained in the presence of the Eternal there was learned the meaning of prayer, of spiritual understanding, of the practice of the presence of God. Out of a race so trained was born the Saviour of mankind. Christ, beyond all others, learned how to be detained in the presence of the Eternal that He might talk to God and listen for God's message. It is wise for us, it is wise for all, thus are we made strong, thus do we receive adequacy for all the problems of living. "It's the way that we face it that counts", said Lloyd George at a testing time of history.

The early Christians knew the meaning, they out-lived, out-thought, out-died their fellows because they were detained in the presence of the Eternal. The hero in "John Inglesant" is equal to the hour because he had kept his tryst with God. So shall we strengthen ourselves for the needs of life, face its sorrows, sustain its tragedies, out of defeat rise to victory.

The anthem of the morning was Thompson's "Bread of the World." The Communion of the Lord's Supper was observed at this service.

The Church School met for Bible Study at 2.30 p.m.

Evening Worship was conducted with a sermon by the Rev. W. C Machum. The evening anthem was "Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel" (Humperdinck-Manny).

The music of the day was directed by Mrs. G. Elliott Full, organist and director of choir.

Four P. E. Island Students Attend Dalhousie Law School

HALIFAX, Dec. 2—This year's enrolment at Dalhousie Law School shows that Prince Edward Island's sons continue to pursue legal careers as well as medical. In the past few years, the trend has been largely toward medicine, due no doubt to the great need for doctors in the services, but looking to the future, it is apparent that men trained along legal and administrative lines will be most valuable in post-war re-adjustment.

The rigid regulations governing students in Law, Arts, and Commerce have tended to raise the standards and emphasizes the "survival of the fittest" attitude of the government toward this faculty. That, together with the high traditions of the Law School, its alumni members among whom are to be found the names of Viscount Bennett, Ilsley, Ralston, Howe and MacDonald, will serve as inspiration to those pursuing careers in the legal profession.

All three years of the Law School are represented: in third year, William A. Reddin; in second year, Frederic S. Martin; in first year, H. Graham Batt, and John P. Nicholson.

William A. Reddin is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Reddin, Charlottetown. He received his primary education in Queen Square School and then entered Prince of Wales College where he spent two years, and later Saint Dunstan's University from which he took his Arts degree in 1932. After teaching for two years in Charlottetown city school, he was appointed to the staff of Prince of Wales College where he taught for nine years and won the admiration and affection of all his students. He entered the Law School in 1942 and will receive his Bachelor of Laws degree this year, after which he will return to practice in Charlottetown.

Frederic S. Martin, Class '46, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of New Perth. After taking third year at Prince of Wales College he entered the faculty of Commerce at Dalhousie as winner of the Prince of Wales College Scholarship, and later entered the Faculty of Law, in the Dalhousie Moot Court sittings held this term. Mr. Martin successfully pleaded a case in which he acted as attorney for the defendant. He presented a brilliant argument, and shows great promise both as a lawyer and a public speaker. Mr. Martin is Business Manager of The Dalhousie Gazette, and Law representative on the D.A.A.C.

H. Graham Batt, Class '47, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Batt of Charlottetown. From West Kent School, where he received his primary education, he entered Prince of Wales College on the Charlottetown Entrance Scholarship. There he pursued Arts courses, and while in attendance he created a very favorable record by winning various prizes and leading the Fourth Year class in his final year. He entered Dalhousie University in 1943 on the Prince of Wales Scholarship, and has pursued an affiliated course in Arts and Law. He will receive his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1946, and his Bachelor of Laws degree the following year.

John Paton Nicholson, Class '47, is the son of R. H. Nicholson and the late Mrs. Nicholson of Charlottetown. He took his pre-Law courses in Prince of Wales College where he was active in debating and social activities. During the last year he was Editor-in-Chief of the Prince of Wales "College Times". He entered Dalhousie University this Fall, and is registered in the Faculty of Law. On the campus, he is one of the chief sponsors of the Round Table discussion groups, and is an active supporter of the Youth Commission Movement in this city.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

The morning service in Trinity was centered about the thought of the overseas mission of the Christian Church and the minister traced the spirit of missions from Christ and the apostles and suggested that after Paul's great vision and conversation on the road to Damascas the spirit of Christ within him produced that understanding and acceptance of the mind and purpose of God as revealed in Jesus that sent him out as a missionery of the gospel and brought him to see that there was no longer Jews or Gentiles, Greek of barbarian, bond or free but all one in Christ Jesus. The Minister emphasized the necessity of the recovery of Pauls vision by we who are in the Church today.

The Choir sang the Anthem "Just as I Am" Bowles.

At the evening service the subject was the "Divine Change" based upon Jesus words from the 13th. Chapter of St. Marks Gospel where Jesus picks a world of unrest and disturbance until it finds rest in the God whom he reveals.

The Anthem for the evening was "O Come to my Heart, Lord Jesus" with Mr. H MacPherson taking the solo part.

Musicale At St. James Church

An Hour of Music was enjoyed by an appreciative audience following the service in St. James Church last evening, under the leadership of Miss Lilian MacKenzie, Mus. Bac. The choir was in excellent voice and gave a delightful rendition of their several numbers, while the solos and quartettes were equally attractive.

The soloists were Mrs. Raoul Reymond, Mrs. Ralph Beck; baritone, Cpl. Stanley Lancaster, R. A.F.; bass, Mr. Raoul Reymond; quartet, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. N.D. MacLean, Mr. Marcus Calder, Mr. Morton Dew.

Rev. T. H. B. Somers, M.A., S.T.M., pronounced the Benediction.

Following was the programme:

Processional Hymn: Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken.

Organ: Fountain Reverie (Fletcher); Intermezzo (Callaerts).

Soprano and bass: For I am His, and He is Mine—D. D. Slater.

Choir: Bless the Lord, O my Soul (Ippolitov-Ivanov); Grant us Thy Peace (Mendelssohn).

Quartet: Beneath the Cross of Jesus (F. C. Maker.)

Bass: Eternal Ruler of the Skies (Mozart.)

Choir: As Pants the Hart (Spohr); Brother James' Air (Arr. Gordon Jacob.)

Offering.

Organ: Largo from The New World Symphony (Dvorack.)

Quartet: One There is Who Loves Thee (Spencer Lane.)

Baritone: The Lord Is My Light (Allitsen): God Make Me Kind.

Choir: Lead, Kindly Light (Pughe-Evans).

Recessional Hymn:: Saviour, Again to Thy Dear Name.

THE KIRK PULPIT

The Holy Communion was celebrated yesterday morning in the Kirk and in the evening a service of solemn thanksgiving was held when the minister, the Rev. T.H. Bussell Somers, preached the sermon on the text. "Then stood up Jeshua...and builded the altar of the God of Israel...but the foundation of the temple of the Lord was not yet laid." (Ezra III, 2, 6.)

The preacher concluded as follows: It is in such a spirit that everything worth doing must be done. The source of all enthusiasm and of all earnestness lies in a hope which is powerful to transfigure. When Columbus, having overcome tremendous difficulties, was making his way to the shore of unknown America, you all remember how one morning there was seaweed round the prow. The sailors were mutinous; it brought no message to them; it was only a bed of seaweed and no more. But to their gallant leader it was a sign from God, and he saw the crowning of all his hopes within it. It takes the infinite, says Robert Browning, to brush a hair's-breadth off the dust of the actual. It takes the vision of the perfect temple if we are to build well the humblest altar. It takes the assurance that striving shall not be in vain, and the certainty that ideals shall yet be realized, if we are to toil cheerfully and bravely at the task that is given to us today.

It is at that point (with an emphasis that is divine), that the Gospel of Christ proclaims its message. For the golden age of our Redeemer is on ahead of us, and the best, for the people of Christ, is stilll to be. We are not striving for impossible ideals. We are not the children of delusive hopes. There is yet to be a regenerated world where the child shall lay his hand upon the serpent's lair. Everything we ever strove for shall be ours. Every effort we ever made shall there be crowned. Our very failures shall welcome us in heaven with a new name written across their brow. Build, then, thine altar; the stones are at thy feet. Care not how poor it be, how mean it look. It is the earnest hope of a glorious temple, which in the fulness of God's time shall surely rise to His Glory.

arms crossed on the back of it so he could look across at the person he was speaking to as though leaning on a fence.

To Kessler he looked very innocent and very young. "Poor kid, he is having a fight," Kessler thought. "I remember, I had one too, but I was ten years older than this. Why do those things have to happen? Even if he had no interest in her I'd understand what his mother feels. Dick's a nice boy. He's too thoroughly a nice boy to conceive what this civilization is up against. That's the trouble with all of us. We can't imagine what goes on in the mind of a moral imbecile."

"Well, you know, Mr. Kessler," said Dick, "It comes as a sort of shock to a fellow the first time he notices that his mother is smaller than he is." He looked up shyly. "You know what I mean?"

"Why yes, Dick I know."

"I guess you do. Gosh it's good to get this off your chest to somebody who's older. At school they hear about complexes and they think they know it all. I mean it gets so a fellow might as well say he's got a complex as own up that he likes his mother. But I do like her, Mr. Kessler. I like her and I like the boss too. They're all right. They take a lot of interest in me."

He paused again, but Kessler only nodded without interrupting him. Dick went on.
