Y'S MEN'S MEETING — Mr. L. R. Allen was chairman of the regular meeting of the Summerside Y's Men's Club in the L.O.L. hall on Thursday evening. A number of articles sold at the radio auction had not been called for and the names of the purchasers were divided among the members to complete the sales. It was reported that approximately $2,400 had been taken in so far from the auction. A vote of thanks was tendered to the co-chairmen of the auction, committee, Edwin Estey and Clarence Mercer for the fine job they did.

LARGE SIGN ERECTED — A large and impressive neon sign has been erected by Mr. Maurice Mill over the entrance of his men's wear store on Water Street, Summerside. This sign is fourteen feet long and five feet wide at the bottom. The firm's name appears vertically in large gold letters on the upper part and the words "Men's Wear" are across the bottom in green letters on a yellow background. The border of the sign is in blue making in all a very effective design and one that should be seen some distance away. This new sign is in line with Mr. Mill's constant effort to have his store modern and up-to-date in every way. His store is one of the smartest of its kind in eastern Canada and always arouses favourable comment from visitors.

PERSONALS — Friends will regret to learn of the illness of Rev. Charles Carnegie, Minister of the Summerside Presbyterian Church.

GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS — Following is the text of Lt.-Governor Bernard's address: I congratulate the honourable minister, the officers and men of the Royal Canadian Air Force who, 25 years ago, saw the necessity and followed out the idea of bringing into being a force of men who would man and operate a system of airplanes which would create new methods of defence and of transportation. Great improvement has been made in the service since the idea was first thought of, and from a very small force of men who had extreme faith and courage in carrying out their plans, even in the face of disappointments and discouragements, yet who received the necessary governmental assistance, we have today a system of aerial transportation which circles the globe and which carries passengers, expressage and freight to and from all parts of the world. That this system has been improved and almost perfected in the comparatively short space of time speaks volumes for the energy, determination and bravery of this small number of pioneers in aviation.

The R. C. A. F. in war, as well as in peace has earned its spurs and its emblems, and many brave acts of distinction and of heroism testify to worth and the success of the men of the R. C. A. F. There is a golden record of achievements which time will not tarnish, but which memory will perpetuate.

A Proud Record — A quarter of a century of useful endeavour is a record of which to be proud, and it deserves the unqualified commendation of all serious thinking citizens but, the R. C. A. F. is not a stagnant organization. In keeping with the advanced moves in aerial navigation you have originated here an advanced navigational school, the first and only one of its kind in the western hemisphere. In this respect Summerside airport holds an enviable record, and it is no secret that the commandants who have been in charge of the force here in the persons of Messrs. Langstaff and Gross have been largely instrumental in bringing this navigational school into being. I have reason to believe that this new school will develop officers and men who will take their places in aerial traffic the world over.

We, of Prince Edward Island, have the greatest confidence in the ability of Wing Cmdr. Gross and of the new navigational school I predict unqualified success, and the upholding of the splendid traditions of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

That this fine air port here was erected is due in part to the energy and foresight of the late Hon. J. L. Ralston, but there was at least one other gentleman who did much along the same lines, Mr. J. LeRoy Holman, who was my intimate friend of over 40 years. He was much interested in your airport as well as in you officers and men, and in his passing he left a void which will be found extremely hard to fill. He has gone, but his memory will live in things pertaining to this splendid airport.

Thank you Commander Gross for the invitation to attend here on the auspicious occasion of your jubilee, the 25th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Air Force, an organization which has done, and is doing so much for flying.

I commend you for the very fine quarters as well as for the manner in which they are being maintained, while I congratulate you officers and men who participated in the great parade. This music for the occasion being supplied by the Recce Regiment band and your own band was up to the high quality performances of these organizations, and it raises the spirit of all these who have the privilege of hearing it.

Your future program will be followed with the greatest interest and the success of your latest venture will be hoped for by our citizens.

Canada's women, not to be outdone by their menfolk, took their rightful place in the R.C.A.F. with the creation of the Women's Division on 2 July 1941. Its members served with distinction at home and overseas.

The famed British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, probably the largest joint training plan ever inaugurated between nations, is undoubtedly the largest achievement of our service for it was the R.C.A.F. who organized and operated this mammoth plan which produced more than 131,000 trained aircrew, half of them Canadians.

But enough for the past; on our Silver Anniversary, let us look forward to a bright and successful future, using our past achievement and records to spur and guide us ever forward. The entry of the tenth province, Newfoundland, into the Dominion, is a happy coincidence with our Silver Wing Cmdr. Gross — Following is the text of the address by Wing Cmdr. Gross: Today, 1 April, 1949, is a memorable one in that this date marks the Silver Jubilee of the R.C.A.F. Today we can look back over 25 years in peace and war that have helped gain recognition for our country around the world.

Our Service came officially into being on 1 April 1924, a small force of somewhat over 300 men, and flew our small but sturdy aircraft the length and breadth of Canada on northern air photography, forest fire and fishery patrols, Indian treaty money flights and coast guard patrols.

Even before the permanent force was created as such, 22,000 Canadian airmen flying with the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service which were amalgamated in 1918 into the R.A.F. had already established a distinguished record of war in the air.

And even before that Canadians had demonstrated that the air was their natural medium — J.A.D. McCurdy flew his "Silver Dart" biplane at Baddeck Bay, N.S. on 23 Feb. 1909, the initial aeroplane flight in the Dominion.

Gained Many Honors — However, since that time the R.C.A.F. has come a long way and gained perpetual honour for Canada in both peace and war. We have established a reputation for true fighting spirit, high operational efficiency and a determination purpose which is known and respected the world over.

In the often repeated jousts with the enemy the courage and valour of our flying crews has been undiminished and verily has increased with each additional encounter.

Our equally efficient ground crews, although not given the same opportunities to distinguish themselves in air battle have proven their mettle and skills in maintaining huge bomber fighters and reconnaissance fleets of aircraft. The men who flew the aircraft did so in the perfect confidence that their fellow airmen, earthbound, had done everything possible for their continuous safety. And now a few exemplified their bravery in situations dangerous to life and limb and were subsequently decorated for their acts of heroism.

In battle we can look back upon a long list of honours gained in almost every front or campaign in the past two world wars. In addition to the fame which 46 overseas operational and many Canadian Base Squadrons brought to our shores, thousands of Canadian aircrew and ground crew flew, served with the R.A.F. bringing honour and reputation for valour to our land.

In recognition of the many distinguished acts of gallantry and devotion to duty large numbers of decorations and medals were awarded to our members during the last conflict. Two of these were awarded Victoria Crosses giving their lives in the action that won them this top honour, and four other members won the coveted George Cross. This outstanding record of achievement in air battle has been brought home to us here today in the presentation of Distinguished Flying Crosses to F/L Frederick Desmond Jackman and F/L Earl Thomas Albert by His Honour, Lt. Gov. J.A. Bernard of Prince Edward Island awarded on behalf of His Majesty the King.

Years of Preparation — This record of achievement was not gained overnight but required long years of preparation, not without its trials and tribulations. Since our inception in 1924 the force continued to grow and still expanded in numbers of personnel, aircraft and operating bases. Even with greatly reduced appropriations during the depression years, the formation of the first three Auxiliary Squadrons at Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver was implemented in 1933. Thus, these difficult years the Auxiliary Air Force was born and its members who worked by day and faithfully and loyally served their country by night on week-end and holidays were well trained and ready for the fray in September 1939.

Over the 25 years of patient training and hard work there are still a few members such as A/V/M K.M. Culhery, CB CBE and A/V/M C.R. Sloman, CB CBE who can look back today on a quarter century of unbroken service.

Following close on their heels, although not in at the start are many who also served the force faithfully during all those critical formative years. We are indeed fortunate here today in having with us P/L J.J. Wybou and P/L R.C. McElbrien who have made the R.C.A.F. their life work and career and who can look back on 18 years or more of unbroken service. In recognition of their long and faithful devotion to duty the King has been pleased to grant and for whom His Honour Lt. Gov. J.A. Bernard has today invested them with the "Long Service and Good Conduct Medal".

Our 25 years of service has seen many of our ranks depleted by retirement and death. As we continue to grow older many more will leave the service with regrets and pleasant memories and their ranks will be filled largely by Air Cadets such as we have on your left. Over 3,000 Air Cadets entered the wartime R.C.A.F. and more than a score of them were decorated for gallantry. Thus, we can always be assured that our service will be kept alive and vibrant by refilling our ranks with capable and well trained replacements.

Jubilee and requires us to spread our wings still further in defence of our land. The North Atlantic Pact is now a reality and assures concerted action with our sister airforces, should the occasion arise.

As evidenced by the rebirth of the unit here, the RCAF is again reaching its point of top efficiency after having passed through the difficult post war years. Negotiations for the procurement of American F86 Jet Fighters latest of this type, are almost concluded. New buildings and married quarters are being created and additional groups and units are being formed. The recruiting stream has now increased beyond all expectations. New aircrews and ground crews are being trained to the high standards required of the nucleus air force composed of highly skilled men.

So we shall never stand still, always reaching for perfection. Our 25th Anniversary which we celebrate today by this parade, a stand down for the afternoon and by playing hosts to our fellow Reserve officers and airmen of the province tonight is but a pause in which to "mark time", look back, then march resolutely forward with a firm and sure step. Proud as we are of our heritage we are still prouder of our certain and future success.

Universal Courtship — Once I proposed to every girl on earth, The only man who yet has done that deed; I lit a flame on many a family hearth Nor did I balk at color, class or creed. That invitation went o'er hill and dale, I smiled, for some indeed, were heard to say, "A railway car won't carry half your mail." But this ensemble reads the other way. The papers found their way through countless doors, The postmen did their work and did it well; Some lit the fire — some covered clean scrubbed floors, What other uses — papers never tell. The foolish virgins, none their lamps had trimmed; Some scanned the page and turned it over quick; Some out of oil alas, their lights were dimmed, And others sad to say were short of wick.

Time flies on wings, with cupid in the saddle! The sleeping beauty, still asleep, it seems, Knew not the meaning of R. S. V. P. Or lost her way beset by empty dreams. Some say she never walked on earthly feet That girl whose picture painted in a poem I know! lives somewhere on a road or street— I wonder sometimes, when I'll find her home?

Perhaps I'll meet her decked in bows and buttons, When Easter's sun warms up that great parade; So like a vision, floating round the corner Girl of my dreams — in daintiness arrayed. —John of "The Lilacs."

life of the Students Union. The election campaign was officially opened yesterday with the nominations of officers. The campaign is already over for Wilfred Driscoll who has become next year's president by acclamation. The contest for the secretary-treasurer may prove interesting as there are three students running for this position. "Chuck" Kelly, "Arv" McInnis, and Rupert MacLellan are the candidates. The campaign for the position of Vice-President promises to be a lively one with Frank Ledwell and Gerard MacInnis fighting it out.

"Resolved: that compulsory military training should be adopted in Canada immediately." This is the topic of the debate to be held Sunday evening, April 3, at the Holy Name Hall. The debaters are Miss Jerrydine Robertson and George Keefe for the affirmative opposing Miss Kay Roche and Arthur McInnis. It is to be sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

What does spring make you think of besides rain and slush and mud on the kitchen floor? Why, softball, of course. Softball is still a long way off but already it's the most talked about subject on the campus. Whenever you near a group in earnest discussion you are almost certain to hear mumbblings of "Juniors" and "Power." The point we are trying to put across is that the Juniors, it is understood, are about to walk over the whole league again this year. "Kiker" through; he plays to win.

Spring also means to the students at S.D.U. time for the annual retreat. This year's retreat opened Thursday, March 24, and closed with Holy Hour on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Paul Fisher of the Redemptorist Fathers was the retreat master. Retreat time is the time to step back and look your self over from a spiritual viewpoint. Fr. Fisher was here to help us do just that, but as he said himself the success we made of the retreat was entirely up to ourselves. He was just here to help. We take this opportunity to say, "Thank you, Father."

The four-man lay-faculty bowling team of St. Dunstan's University has been constituted to meet a team selected from the dozen priests on the staff, in an "everything goes" match at the Holy Name bowling alleys on April 13. As there is no professional competition in the vicinity, a spokesman explained, the laymen are willing to engage in occasional exhibition matches with amateurs.

The probable line-up for the challengers: the Rev. Fathers MacDonald and Cass (co-captains), O'Hanley, Ellsworth, Sharkey and Landrigan.

The laymen—Messrs. McAdam, McIsaac, Jolie and O'Grady—will be assisted that evening by Rev. Edmund (97) Roche and Rev. William Simpson.

Mr. Curtis was mentioned as a likely appointee for the attorney-general's post.

Mr. Keough, also a member of the convention, is a co-operatives leader on the west coast.

Mr. Sinnott is a retired magistrate. He lives at Placentia on the south coast.

Mr. Ballem lives at Corner Brook on the west coast. He was a pro-confederation member of the convention.

Mr. Forsey and Mr. Hefferton are both school teachers in this capital. They retired some time ago.
