

Notice To The Public

About two weeks ago we received a new shipment of Well Fed Baby Beef which were immediately killed and stored in our sanitary refrigerator.

Today we will sell this unusually good quality meat at an EXCEEDINGLY LOW PRICE

We will also have fresh blood puddings, pure pork sausages and potted meat. Call or phone today for your week end supplies at The Queen MEAT MARKET

Lady Snowden Prefers The Opera

(Canadian Press) LONDON, Oct. 20.—A Ministry of Fine Arts is one of the schemes which Viscountess Snowden submits might be financed by the Government from the revenue it receives through the British Broadcasting Commission.

On the question of broadcasting political speeches Lady Snowden suggests that at election times the political parties should be allowed to choose their own speakers.

LOOKS FOR LIBRARIAN IS THE NEW SLOGAN CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—If people don't borrow enough books, the American Library Association was told today, get a snapper looking librarian.

It should help, said Frank L. Tolman, director of Library Extension, Albany, N.Y., even more than getting in a new supply of books.

Don't ruin your clean ironing board cover by testing your hot irons on it. Have a folded newspaper at the end of the board with salt on it. Then test your iron and you will clean it at the same time, and all without discoloring your nice white cover.

POULTRY

We are now buying dressed Fowl and Chicken for canning. Please note the following: Fowl may be scalded, dressed, head and feet off. Ship by Express or truck.

J. D. Jenkins 198 Grafton Street

William Murchison

VOCAL COACH & ACCOMPANIST Certified Teacher, the Halifax Conservatory. MODERATE RATES. Telephone: 571.

Dr. W. R. Carson

CHIROPRACTOR Three Year Palmer Graduate 124 Prince St. Phone 1072 Home Calls Made.

CENTRAL GUARDIAN

This column is reserved for Queen's County news of local interest but advertising of a new nature may be inserted at 4 cents a word strictly payable in advance.

Q. M. N. G. RUMMAGE SALE, St. Peter's Cathedral School Room tonight 7 P. M. 2007.

SATURDAY SPECIAL.—Bacon No. 1, 19c per lb. Cudmore Bros. 2027.

SEE THE NEW SHOP for Girls when you come in. Moore & McLeod Limited. 2019.

SPRINGFIELD.—Saint Elizabeth's Church, October 22, 1933: Sunday School 10.30, evensong 7.00.

CLYDE RIVER.—On Sunday Oct. 22nd, the services in the Presbyterian Church, Clyde River, will be at 3 p.m., Sunday School 2 p.m.

THERE'S AN INTERESTING line of girl's dresses here at $1.69. Moore & McLeod Limited. 2019.

CRAPAUD.—October 22, 1933. Saint John's Church: Sunday School 10.15, Holy Communion 11.00. Hymns: 767 (1), 256 (25:3), 598 (1), 248 (2), 497 (1).

YORK PASTORAL CHARGE.—Services on Sunday, Oct. 22 will be Central Church 11 a.m. Brackley 3 p.m. York 7 p.m. Boys Conference Sunday.

POLICE COURT.—At the police court yesterday morning a drunk and incapable was given 20 days in jail, and a man charged with being drunk and disorderly was given 30 days.

CHURCH OF CHRIST.—Sunday services for the New Glasgow Church of Christ are as follows: Bible School 10.00 a.m., worship 11.00 a.m., evening service in the Fredericton Church 7.30 p.m. Wm. G. Quigley, minister.

SACRED SONG SERVICE.—Rev. Canon E. M. Malone, of St. Peter's Cathedral, will address the S. C. M. and Y. M. C. A. meeting in Zion Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Oct. 22nd, at half past eight o'clock.

BROOKFIELD.—The services in the Brookfield congregation on Sunday, Oct. 22nd, will be as follows: Hartsville 11 a.m., Sunday School 10 a.m., and Brookfield 7 p.m., Sunday School 10.30 a.m.

NORTH RIVER GROUP of Baptist Churches. Services on Sunday, Oct. 22nd, as follows: Fairview 11 a.m., North River 3 p.m., Long Creek 7 p.m., Clyde River Sunday School Rally 8 p.m. Rev. J. G. Wakening, pastor.

UNITED CHURCH SERVICES in Tryon and Crapaud on Oct. 22nd, will be held at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. respectively. There will also be a thank offering service at Tryon in the evening at 7.30 at which Mr. A. S. McKay of Summerside will be the speaker.

WOOD ISLANDS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—On Oct. 22nd regular church service at 3 p.m., Sabbath School at 2 p.m., Y. P. S. at 7 p.m. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed on Oct. 29th at 11 a.m. with the usual pre and post Communion services. Rev. Allister Murray, minister.

CALEDONIA AND MURRAY HARBOUR PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES.—On Oct. 22nd the services will be as follows: Caledonia, Gaelic 10.30 a.m., English 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.; Caledonia and Glen Martin Sabbath Schools at 3 p.m.; Murray Harbour Bible Class and Sabbath School at 2 p.m. Rev. Allister Murray, minister.

ATTENDED DENTAL CLINICS.—Dr. Earl Robins of Charlottetown and prominent sportsman of the Island capital, arrived in the city yesterday en route home from New York and Washington where he took in the recent world's series baseball games and also attended advanced clinics in dentistry at colleges in these cities.—Moncton Times.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH.—Tomorrow morning Dr. A. C. Vincent will speak on "The Bible and the Society that circulates it." This is Bible Society Sunday, with special attention drawn to the Word of God. At the evening service which will be broadcast by C.H.O.K. Dr. Vincent will speak on "The Man with the secret life." The music will include Woodward's "The Sun Shall be no More," Turner's "Praise the Lord ye heavens," Ambrose "One sweetly solemn thought." Mrs. Full will continue the short organ recital which has been so much appreciated, 8.45 to 7 o'clock. The evening service will be broadcast.

SWEET PICKLED PICNICS at twelve cents per lb. Friday and Saturday at Roops. 1890.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN CANADA.—North Tryon preaching at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15th and at Bradabane at 7 o'clock.—Dr. M. E. Genge, Pastor.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.—On Tuesday evening, October 17, a most enjoyable affair took place at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Hector T. Currie, New Dominion, when about sixty people gathered there to tender a miscellaneous shower to Miss Helen Doull, whose marriage takes place next week. As the friends assembled in the attractively decorated parlor, where the popular young bride-to-be occupied the seat of honor, appropriate music was softly rendered by Mrs. Hector Currie, and soon there appeared an effectively trimmed carriage, laden with a profusion of gifts. This was drawn into the room by an old-fashioned bride and groom, impersonated by Mrs. Tupper Strong and Mrs. Arthur MacDonald, who opened the parcels and read the accompanying verses, some of which surprised the audience by the degree of poetical eloquence contained therein, while touches of humor were by no means lacking, as evidenced by the spontaneous bursts of merriment which were heard from time to time. When all the gifts had been presented Miss Doull, in her own charming and natural manner, expressed her sincere thanks for the kindness shown, after which all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." The remainder of the evening passed all too quickly as the young people entered into the various games with zest and enthusiasm, and, as befitting such an occasion, music and laughter filled the air. A bountiful luncheon was served by several of the ladies and after a hearty sing-song led by Mrs. Hector Currie at the piano, the guests dispersed, carrying with them memories of a very pleasant evening which will linger long in the minds of those who were privileged to be present.

Mr. E. W. Beatty On Immigration

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—That increased population is one of the outstanding needs of Canada today and that a carefully devised and intelligently effected policy looking towards the admittance of desirable settlers would prove an important factor in the re-establishment of economic prosperity in this country was the theme of a statement made here today by E. W. Beatty. "Upon my return from Great Britain recently," said Mr. Beatty, "I stated that I was convinced that the time had arrived for Canada to embark on a definite moderate policy of immigration, particularly from Great Britain; that the sparseness of our population was still a drawback in view of our external and internal obligations, and that I did not think this country had anything to fear from a judiciously regulated policy of admission of those of our own race in particular. To this I added that plans for inter-empire migration were being carefully worked out in the United Kingdom and that there was hope of results in a year or two.

"Wide-spread editorial comment followed upon the publication of this statement, most of which seemed to reflect the opinion that I favored comparatively unrestricted immigration of a class of people who would tend to add to the ranks of the unemployed. No one can be much more aware of the imperative need for the elimination of unemployment as far as is possible than I am, and any proposal to add to the number of workless, now or at any other time, certainly would not justify the consideration of thoughtful people.

"There does exist, however, a class of people whose migration into this country would in every way work a permanent advantage to Canada and those now living here. I know of no good reason why a suitable type of individual or family with their own capital, or property financial or otherwise, should not be welcomed. Such immigration can be safe-guarded against the risks of failure, it would bring with it an inflow of new capital to be disbursed in the purchase of livestock, building material and farming equipment of all kinds. This type of settler, instead of being a competitor for employment adds to the employment of labor and, above all, is a sharer in the national expenses of government, public services, etc.

"The high per capita cost of government and public services is one of the most serious of our difficulties today. No citizen entirely escapes the bill for taxes, federal, municipal and rural try as they may. Something has been done over the past few months in reducing expenses, but after all, there is but one way to spread it over a larger number of contributors. There are many thousands of vacant farms both in eastern and western Canada, and my suggestion is that people should be put on them to help lighten the load of annual expense representing such things as roads, schools, policing, railway services and the other necessities of life we all have to pay for.

"The criticism that an increased farming population can only add to over-production of farm products, particularly wheat, in my opinion, is not well-founded. The present so-called over-production of food stuffs may conceivably be merely a passing phase of a highly distributed world condition resulting in dislocation of trade and distribution. However, the class of settler to which I refer, would require from three to five years, depending on the type of his farm, to develop his land to the point of adding materially to the exportable surpluses, and by that time it is reasonable to suppose most of our problems connected with distribution will have been solved.

"The British Government is most emphatic in its declaration that migration matters are not being dealt with as a solution of unemployment problems—it is a case of finding a desirable locale for people whom they are most desirous of retaining within the Empire. British interests are preparing to finance the migration of these people, and one of the many British Dominions is going to get them. Australia, with its new schemes for colonizing the north-western territories of that Com-

MONTEAL, Oct. 20.—That increased population is one of the outstanding needs of Canada today and that a carefully devised and intelligently effected policy looking towards the admittance of desirable settlers would prove an important factor in the re-establishment of economic prosperity in this country was the theme of a statement made here today by E. W. Beatty. "Upon my return from Great Britain recently," said Mr. Beatty, "I stated that I was convinced that the time had arrived for Canada to embark on a definite moderate policy of immigration, particularly from Great Britain; that the sparseness of our population was still a drawback in view of our external and internal obligations, and that I did not think this country had anything to fear from a judiciously regulated policy of admission of those of our own race in particular. To this I added that plans for inter-empire migration were being carefully worked out in the United Kingdom and that there was hope of results in a year or two.

"Wide-spread editorial comment followed upon the publication of this statement, most of which seemed to reflect the opinion that I favored comparatively unrestricted immigration of a class of people who would tend to add to the ranks of the unemployed. No one can be much more aware of the imperative need for the elimination of unemployment as far as is possible than I am, and any proposal to add to the number of workless, now or at any other time, certainly would not justify the consideration of thoughtful people.

"There does exist, however, a class of people whose migration into this country would in every way work a permanent advantage to Canada and those now living here. I know of no good reason why a suitable type of individual or family with their own capital, or property financial or otherwise, should not be welcomed. Such immigration can be safe-guarded against the risks of failure, it would bring with it an inflow of new capital to be disbursed in the purchase of livestock, building material and farming equipment of all kinds. This type of settler, instead of being a competitor for employment adds to the employment of labor and, above all, is a sharer in the national expenses of government, public services, etc.

"The high per capita cost of government and public services is one of the most serious of our difficulties today. No citizen entirely escapes the bill for taxes, federal, municipal and rural try as they may. Something has been done over the past few months in reducing expenses, but after all, there is but one way to spread it over a larger number of contributors. There are many thousands of vacant farms both in eastern and western Canada, and my suggestion is that people should be put on them to help lighten the load of annual expense representing such things as roads, schools, policing, railway services and the other necessities of life we all have to pay for.

"The criticism that an increased farming population can only add to over-production of farm products, particularly wheat, in my opinion, is not well-founded. The present so-called over-production of food stuffs may conceivably be merely a passing phase of a highly distributed world condition resulting in dislocation of trade and distribution. However, the class of settler to which I refer, would require from three to five years, depending on the type of his farm, to develop his land to the point of adding materially to the exportable surpluses, and by that time it is reasonable to suppose most of our problems connected with distribution will have been solved.

"The British Government is most emphatic in its declaration that migration matters are not being dealt with as a solution of unemployment problems—it is a case of finding a desirable locale for people whom they are most desirous of retaining within the Empire. British interests are preparing to finance the migration of these people, and one of the many British Dominions is going to get them. Australia, with its new schemes for colonizing the north-western territories of that Com-

Specials At Devereaux Grocery

- Lamb Roast 12c 15c lb.
Pork Roast 12c 15c lb.
Bacon 2 lbs. for 29c
Butter 2 lbs. for 43c
Sugar 10 lbs. for 70c
Milk qt. 6c
Red Rose Tea 3 lbs. 95c
Island Beans 3 tins 25c
Surprise Soap 10 bars 43c
Corn Flakes 3 pkgs. 25c

"Pay Cash and Save" On This Item Friday & Saturday

Mr. E. W. Beatty On Immigration

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—That increased population is one of the outstanding needs of Canada today and that a carefully devised and intelligently effected policy looking towards the admittance of desirable settlers would prove an important factor in the re-establishment of economic prosperity in this country was the theme of a statement made here today by E. W. Beatty. "Upon my return from Great Britain recently," said Mr. Beatty, "I stated that I was convinced that the time had arrived for Canada to embark on a definite moderate policy of immigration, particularly from Great Britain; that the sparseness of our population was still a drawback in view of our external and internal obligations, and that I did not think this country had anything to fear from a judiciously regulated policy of admission of those of our own race in particular. To this I added that plans for inter-empire migration were being carefully worked out in the United Kingdom and that there was hope of results in a year or two.

"Wide-spread editorial comment followed upon the publication of this statement, most of which seemed to reflect the opinion that I favored comparatively unrestricted immigration of a class of people who would tend to add to the ranks of the unemployed. No one can be much more aware of the imperative need for the elimination of unemployment as far as is possible than I am, and any proposal to add to the number of workless, now or at any other time, certainly would not justify the consideration of thoughtful people.

"There does exist, however, a class of people whose migration into this country would in every way work a permanent advantage to Canada and those now living here. I know of no good reason why a suitable type of individual or family with their own capital, or property financial or otherwise, should not be welcomed. Such immigration can be safe-guarded against the risks of failure, it would bring with it an inflow of new capital to be disbursed in the purchase of livestock, building material and farming equipment of all kinds. This type of settler, instead of being a competitor for employment adds to the employment of labor and, above all, is a sharer in the national expenses of government, public services, etc.

"The high per capita cost of government and public services is one of the most serious of our difficulties today. No citizen entirely escapes the bill for taxes, federal, municipal and rural try as they may. Something has been done over the past few months in reducing expenses, but after all, there is but one way to spread it over a larger number of contributors. There are many thousands of vacant farms both in eastern and western Canada, and my suggestion is that people should be put on them to help lighten the load of annual expense representing such things as roads, schools, policing, railway services and the other necessities of life we all have to pay for.

"The criticism that an increased farming population can only add to over-production of farm products, particularly wheat, in my opinion, is not well-founded. The present so-called over-production of food stuffs may conceivably be merely a passing phase of a highly distributed world condition resulting in dislocation of trade and distribution. However, the class of settler to which I refer, would require from three to five years, depending on the type of his farm, to develop his land to the point of adding materially to the exportable surpluses, and by that time it is reasonable to suppose most of our problems connected with distribution will have been solved.

"The British Government is most emphatic in its declaration that migration matters are not being dealt with as a solution of unemployment problems—it is a case of finding a desirable locale for people whom they are most desirous of retaining within the Empire. British interests are preparing to finance the migration of these people, and one of the many British Dominions is going to get them. Australia, with its new schemes for colonizing the north-western territories of that Com-

MONTEAL, Oct. 20.—That increased population is one of the outstanding needs of Canada today and that a carefully devised and intelligently effected policy looking towards the admittance of desirable settlers would prove an important factor in the re-establishment of economic prosperity in this country was the theme of a statement made here today by E. W. Beatty. "Upon my return from Great Britain recently," said Mr. Beatty, "I stated that I was convinced that the time had arrived for Canada to embark on a definite moderate policy of immigration, particularly from Great Britain; that the sparseness of our population was still a drawback in view of our external and internal obligations, and that I did not think this country had anything to fear from a judiciously regulated policy of admission of those of our own race in particular. To this I added that plans for inter-empire migration were being carefully worked out in the United Kingdom and that there was hope of results in a year or two.

"Wide-spread editorial comment followed upon the publication of this statement, most of which seemed to reflect the opinion that I favored comparatively unrestricted immigration of a class of people who would tend to add to the ranks of the unemployed. No one can be much more aware of the imperative need for the elimination of unemployment as far as is possible than I am, and any proposal to add to the number of workless, now or at any other time, certainly would not justify the consideration of thoughtful people.

"There does exist, however, a class of people whose migration into this country would in every way work a permanent advantage to Canada and those now living here. I know of no good reason why a suitable type of individual or family with their own capital, or property financial or otherwise, should not be welcomed. Such immigration can be safe-guarded against the risks of failure, it would bring with it an inflow of new capital to be disbursed in the purchase of livestock, building material and farming equipment of all kinds. This type of settler, instead of being a competitor for employment adds to the employment of labor and, above all, is a sharer in the national expenses of government, public services, etc.

"The high per capita cost of government and public services is one of the most serious of our difficulties today. No citizen entirely escapes the bill for taxes, federal, municipal and rural try as they may. Something has been done over the past few months in reducing expenses, but after all, there is but one way to spread it over a larger number of contributors. There are many thousands of vacant farms both in eastern and western Canada, and my suggestion is that people should be put on them to help lighten the load of annual expense representing such things as roads, schools, policing, railway services and the other necessities of life we all have to pay for.

"The criticism that an increased farming population can only add to over-production of farm products, particularly wheat, in my opinion, is not well-founded. The present so-called over-production of food stuffs may conceivably be merely a passing phase of a highly distributed world condition resulting in dislocation of trade and distribution. However, the class of settler to which I refer, would require from three to five years, depending on the type of his farm, to develop his land to the point of adding materially to the exportable surpluses, and by that time it is reasonable to suppose most of our problems connected with distribution will have been solved.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS

At the back of the mouth, on either side of the plate, are the tonsils; above and at the back of the nose, the adenoids are placed. The tonsils and adenoids are alike in that they are lymphatic glands, and all lymphatic glands are a first line of defence or barrier against germs which attempt to gain entrance into the body.

Enlargement of the tonsils and adenoids shows that germs have invaded these glands, and that, as a result, the glands have become enlarged in their effort to deal with the invaders. If the glands succeed in this, then they return to their normal size and state. If, however, they are not wholly successful, the gland remains enlarged, and, instead of being a barrier to germs, it becomes a focus of germ life, and there is a possibility that the infection will spread to the surrounding parts.

Enlarged tonsils and adenoids may do harm simply through mechanical obstruction and pressure. The entrance of the tube draining the middle ear into the throat may be blocked and so cause deafness. Mouth-breathing occurs when adenoids block the normal air-way of the nose, and the condition may lead to deformity of the teeth, mouth and nose. If the tonsils also are greatly enlarged, breathing may be so difficult as to produce deformity of the chest.

Much more serious are the ill effects of infected tonsils and adenoids. Middle ear disease, sinus disease, chronic colds, sore throats, may follow the spread of the infection to the adjacent parts, and these in turn may proceed to mastoid disease and meningitis. Such foci of infection as diseased tonsils and adenoids injure the general health; the child may fail to grow normally, and he may be underweight, pale, listless and easily tired.

The decision as to whether or not tonsils and adenoids are so enlarged or diseased as to require to be removed should be made by the doctor who examines the child and studies his history. There is no doubt that diseased tonsils should be removed, and this before they have done any harm.

There are few things which are more beneficial to a child's health than the removal of tonsils and adenoids, when their removal is indicated. Not only does this procedure correct many cases of mouth-breathing, discharging ears, deafness, sore throats and coughs, but it is a real preventive measure for rheumatic fever if removal is carried out before the first attack. This last also means the prevention of heart disease which commonly follows on rheumatic fever.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

UNDERGRAD IS SCORED

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Oct. 20.—Critical of the present day university undergraduate, whom he characterized as being a young man whose chief interests were girls, football, films, food and possibly drink, Principal W. H. Fyfe, of Queen's University, told a group of secondary school teachers here on Saturday "it is only a caricature but there is too much truth in it."

"In the university we have rather sunk our ideals and have admitted a great many people who should not be there at all," Principal Fyfe declared. "Standards have got lower and lower and professors have come to regard it as inevitable that they must rely upon some type of forced feeding." The speaker said he would like to see the stimulation in all places of learning of "eager curiosity and stern logic."

The address was delivered at the annual luncheon of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation (Port Hope district).

The export of creamy butter from the Irish Free State is unlawful, except under license of the Minister of Agriculture.

A considerable trade in grafted mangoes is developing between St. Lucia, British West Indies, and Canada. Grafted mangoes are wrapped in paper on which instructions are printed as to how the fruit should be eaten.

SUGAR BEET PULP

Just arrived, one carload which we are selling at specially low prices.

A. Horne & Co.

Kingston Bible College

On Monday, October 9, Thanksgiving Day, people from all over the Province gathered at Kingston, Nova Scotia for the purpose of dedicating the first building erected on the grounds recently donated by Mrs. Amanda Baker of Kingston Village for a College Campus.

Two splendid services were held. The Dedication Service in the afternoon at four o'clock was well attended, and a splendid sermon was preached by the Rev. Edward Morris, Rector of St. Matthias Church, Halifax, N. S. Two beautiful solos were rendered: one by Mrs. Frank Harpell of Halifax, and another, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Miss Muriel Maskell, of the choir of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax, N. S.

Greetings were received from the following: Rev. Neil Herman, pastor of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax, N. S.; Rev. A. K. Herman, pastor of the Highfield Baptist Church, Moncton, N. B.; Rev. J. H. Copeland, pastor of the United Baptist Church, Milton, N. S.; Rev. John F. Holliday, pastor of the Faith Baptist Church, Toronto, Ontario; Rev. Donald Wood, Secretary of the Independent Fundamental Churches of America, Chicago, Illinois; Rev. Dr. Clarence Benson, of the Evangelical Teacher Training Association, Chicago, Ill., while friends everywhere expressed their sympathy and rejoicing in various ways.

In the evening a large crowd again filled the Assembly Hall, and listened to addresses from Revs. J. B. Daggett, A. C. Tedford, T. A. Meister and Mr. Maxwell Bolser and Mr. Lewis Mills representing the Student Body.

The erection of this building as outlined by the Principal, Rev. J. J. Sides, showed that in the accomplishment a wonderful work to be the glory of God had been achieved. The labour has been voluntary throughout, the only salaried workman being the carpenter in charge, Mr. Hector Stewart, and his remuneration was so small that all his services could almost be called a gift.

The building is heated by a low pressure steam system, the installation of which has been done free of charge by Mr. Ernest Skaling of Kempt Shore. The surprising announcement which the Principal made was that a very few hundred dollars would liquidate the debt on the building. The exact amount at the time could not be determined but it is considerably less than $500.00. There is no mortgage against the campus or building in any way, and the Kingston Bible College is in a fair way to be the pioneer in Nova Scotia among educational institutions, as one which can operate and do efficient work in its own special field of activity on an independent paying basis.

This has been made possible by a Student Loan Fund, brought into existence by friends of the Institution all over the province. All public contributions whether in cash or materials of any description, are valued, and put into a fund operated in various centres by the people contributing.

From this fund students are helped to pay their bills to the Institution, and thus the Institution can be placed upon a financially independent basis.

The College is a Faith Institution, and does not have nor wish any endowments, but will accept gifts through the Fellowships, for the purpose of helping students.

The Institution ministers to men and women whose circumstances in life have failed to give them the opportunity for an education for Christian Service. It does not minister to secular and technical pursuits, but is strictly founded for the purpose of Christian Service.

The standard of the College is high, both spiritually and intellectually, and it is the desire of the Principal and Faculty to keep it there. Already its students have made an impression throughout Nova Scotia, and people all over the Maritimes have listened to Council

The Baptist Church PRINCE AND FITZROY STS.

MINISTER—THE REV. A. C. VINCENT, D. D. ORGANIST—MRS. G. ELLIOTT FULL

MORNING WORSHIP 11 O'CLOCK

Sermon—"The Bible and the Society" Dr. Vincent Anthem—"The Sun Shall Be No More" Woodward SUNDAY SCHOOL 2.30 P. M.

Growing in number and in interest, have you helped it?

EVENING WORSHIP 7 O'CLOCK

Mrs. Full gives short organ recital from 6.45 to 7; Offenbach's Barcarolle, Gullman's March Funebre, and Chant Pathetique, Donizetti's Sextet.

Anthem—"Praise the Lord, Ye Heavens" Turner Sermon—"The Man of the Secret Life" Dr. Vincent Anthem—"One Sweetly Solemn Thought" Ambrose

Station C. H. C. K. Evening Service Broadcast by

You Are Welcome.

Trinity United Church

Ministers—Rev. E. H. Ramsay, D. D. Rev. C. N. Brown, M. A. Organist—Prof. A. Roy Kendall, L. R. A. M., A. A. G. O.

10.00 A. M.—Prayer Meeting.

11.00 A. M.—Public Worship.

Sermon—"Jesus Interprets God" Rev. C. N. Brown

2.30 P. M.—Sunday School.

7.00 P. M.—Public Worship.

Sermon—"My Word—Shall Prosper" Dr. Ramsay

8.15 P. M.—Recital Programme as follows:—Organ "Chorale—Prelude on 'ST. MICHAEL'"—West; Solo—"My Hope is in the Everlasting"—Stainer, Mr. T. W. Bentley;

Anthem—"The Heavens Are Declaring"—Beethoven; Organ "The Short G Minor Fugue"—Bach; Violin Solo—"a) Ave Maria—Schubert; (b) 'Pale Moon'"—Logan—Kreiser, Mrs. Jasper King; Duo—"Love Divine"—Stainer, Mrs. Roy Cudmore and Mr. Geo. Johnson; Organ—"Communion"—Hollins.

Visitors and Students Cordially Welcome.

Morning Service Broadcast by C. H. C. K.

Zion Presbyterian Church

REV. G. CARLYLE WEBSTER, MINISTER.

PROF. LOUIS D. THOMPSON—Organist and Choir Leader.

MORNING WORSHIP

11.00 A. M.—Theme—"The Wheat and the Trees"

Anthem—"How Long Will Thou Forget Me" .. Pfleger

The Choir

2.30 P. M.—Sabbath School and Bible Classes.

EVENING WORSHIP

7.00 P. M.—Theme: "The Divine Commission."

Anthem—"The Radiant Morn" Woodward

The Choir

"Blessed be His glorious name forever; and let the whole earth be filled with His glory. Ps. 72:19.

St. Paul's Church

19th SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

8.30 A. M.—Holy Communion.

10.00 A. M.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.

11.00 A. M.—Morning Prayer and Sermon "Circulating God's Word."